Churchill Asks East-West Pact To Prevent War

MARGATE, England, Oct. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill appealed urgently today for a "friendly, informal, personal" conference of world leaders and an East-West treaty to outlaw military attacks.

The 78-fear-old statesman told a Conservative party rally he has the sure hope and American-backed non-aggression pact would prevent Russia and the West "tearing and blasting each other to pieces in a Third World War.

Churchill said his "trusted Allies" — clearly meaning President Eisenhower and French Premier Joseph Laniel — had not yet accepted his earlier pleas for face-to-face talks with Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

"Her Majesty's Government . . . still believe that we should persever in seeking such a meeting between the heads of governments," he said.

The prime minister stressed that the Western Alliance must be maintained and strengthened. He warned the hesitant French government to accept armed Germans into the European Defense Community (EDC) or face the possibility of a new arrangement linking West Germany directly with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Back in harness after three months of enforced semi-retirement due to fatigue, the old war leader won a thunderous ovation when he said he was staying in office "for the time being" only to pursue his elusive goal of peace.

In a booming voice, he pledged the weight of his own influence to "the building of a sure and lasting peace" as the last great task of his storied life.

Churchill said the confidence that might develop from face-to-face talks and a non-aggression agreement would ease world tension for "5 to 10 years."

"That might lead to something still better when it ended," he declared.

The world needs a period of calm rather than vehement attempts to produce clearcut solutions."

Churchill startled the world last May 11, two months after Joseph Stalin's death, with his call for in-

Five Admitted Reds Convicted Of Conspiracy

Group Tried On Charge Of Plot Against Govt.

SEATTLE, Oct. 10 (AP) — Five admitted Pacific Northwest Communist leaders were convicted by a Federal Court jury today of conspiring against the government, but the sixth defendant in the 25-week trial, Karly Larsen, was acquitted.

The jury of six men and six women returned its verdict just before 7 p.m., EST, nearly 28 hours after being given the case. Actual deliberations occupied less than 11 hours.

Larsen's acquittal was the first by a jury since the Justice Department began its drive against first and second string Communist functionaries five years ago. Two other defendants in trials elsewhere had been given directed verdicts of acquittal, but no jury had freed any after trial.

The East Stanwood, Wash., ex-labor leader contended throughout the marathon trial that he left the Communist party in 1946 after 13 years' membership "for the same reasons that he had joined."

Larsen was ousted as an international vice president of the CIO International Woodworkers Union after the trial began.

The five convicted were:

Henry P. Huff, state chairman of the Communist party.

Wage Guarantee Demand By CIO Hit By Chamber

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—A major business group struck out today against the guaranteed wage demanded by major CIO unions, saying it would shackle the American economy.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce said the CIO plan might aggravate a nationwide economic depression rather than prevent a slump, as the unions claim.

"To the individual, his job is important," the Chamber's report said. "But from the broad economic standpoint, it is production and growth that count.

"Many of these attempts at security stem from failure to understand what really puts substance in the payroll and what makes for economic and human progress. Security is sought at times at all costs, regardless of its resulting stultification and stagnation."

The unions say top managerial men get annual salaries—and hence are not docked for layoffs as some other employes may be.

They claim that if employers face the prospect of paying penalty wages when there is no work, their firms will generally see to it that production is regularized and employment kept steady.

Charity Patients Plan Is Proposed

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 10 (AP) — Pyment for treatment by charity hospital patients throughout Louisiana in proportion to ability to pay was recommended in a Department of Institutions' advisory council report made public today.

Dr Loyd W. Rowland of New Orleans, committee chairman, said "there is recurring evidence that people who can afford to pay are using our state institutions involving medical cart.

"It is better for people to have to pay for services when they can do so. In fact, people like to pay when they can; it improves their feelings of self-respect."

Ransom Currency Sought

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10 (AP) — The search for missing ransom money in the kidnap-slaying of little Bobby Greenlease turned to the muddy banks of a St. Louis County river today as his confessed kidnapers sat out another day within the cold, dirty gray walls of the St. Louis city jail.

The question of the missing half of the $600,000 paid the kidnapers combined with what authorities termed security reasons postponed the transfer of Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady to Kansas City.

The pair, held on a federal extortion charge filed in Kansas City, was captured here Wednesday on a tip by a taxi driver.

Fair Weather To Continue Today

According to the government weather bureau the weather will continue to be warm today and tomorrow in Louisiana. Fair skies will predominate in Louisiana and Arkansas today.

Tomorrow, the weathermen predict, will be partly cloudy in the two-state area. Warm weather will continue in Louisiana, while Arkansas is expected to be cooler in the west portion Monday afternoon.

Civil Aeronautics Administration officials at the Selman Field Station reported that the mercury reached its peak at the 89 degree mark. The minimum reading for the 24-hour period was 46 degrees.

Agriculture On Parade

Valley Fair To Open Tomorrow

BY FRANK NOONAN

The stage was set yesterday for the opening Monday in West Monroe of an exposition featuring choice products and projects of Ouachita parish agricultural, educational and commercial enterprises.

Saturday, the parade of exhibits into Ouachita Valley Fair buildings was well under way. Agricultural products, nurtured in Louisiana soil and representing months of unstinting labor by parish farmers, were being placed in booths.

Other exhibits were still enroute to the big show. Some products, such as baked foods, may not get into place until Tuesday morning.

The senior division of the livestock show, unlike other sections of the fair, goes far afield for its entries, with some coming from as far away as Kentucky.

Much of the livestock will be unloaded at the fair grounds Sunday, and officials have extended an invitation to the public to come out and watch the operations.

A stake-out man yesterday had completed plotting of a large area to be occupied by a carnival featuring an assortment of some 23 rides—the largest ever to be presented here.

Also in place is an impressive array of mounted animals, reptiles and birds in the wildlife exhibit,

Police Search For Suspect In Turnpike Deaths

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10 (AP) — A "highly dangerous" 27-year-old fugitive kept police of two states on the jump today after ballistic tests on a pistol definitely linked him with the slaying of two truck drivers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike and wounding another.

Police armed with a full description and pictures of John Wesley Wable, former Cleveland industrial plant guard, searched through cities and outlying districts in Pennsylvania and Ohio for him.

On several occasions, reports that Wable had been sighted brought police riot squads to the scene—but without results.

After ballistic tests on a foreign-made pistol believed owned by Wable were completed, Col. C. M. Wilhelm, Pennsylvania State Police commissioner said:

"We found it to be the same weapon used in all cases. We are now conferring with the Ohio State Police authorities and working out further details."

Col. Wilhelm declined to elaborate on his statement.

The victims of the bizzare shootings were Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., and Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Harrisburg, Pa. Their bodies were found in parked trucks along the superhighway last July.

A few days later, John K. Shepard, 34, of West Alexander, Pa., was shot in the head as he slept in his parked rig near Lisbon, Ohio, on the western approach to the turnpike.

A watch stolen from Shepard as he lay wounded, proved to be the big break for police in the case.

Major Alfred L. Singer marched into the Pow Wow rooms at the college here, and confronting the well known woman in charge, thundered: "Sgt. Stahl, you have committed a serious military error."

The person addressed, almost in a quiver at the statement, and deeply penitent, stated that she did not know that she had erred so seriously.

"But you have. You have failed to call for your mail which came to the military department here."

Wetbacks Issue Trouble Brewing In Border City

OJINAGA, Mexico, Oct. 10 (AP)—More than 1,000 Mexican wetbacks transported from the El Paso Valley have created a tense atmosphere in this small border city which authorities fear could explode at any time.

The U. S. Immigration Service, for the last week has been transporting busload on busload of the wetbacks—Mexican farm workers illegally in the United States — from El Paso to Ojinaga, across from Presidio, Tex.

Mexican and U. S. officials estimate there are more than 300 hungry "displaced persons" here now with more pouring in each day. About 1,000 already have been moved to Chihuahua City.

Sheriff Buck Valentine of Presidio said he is expecting trouble and the situation is tense "because you can't control hungry men."

The wetbacks, most from the Juarez Valley across from El Paso are confused, hungry and desperate. Officials say the situation is rapidly getting out of hand.

The forced exodus began when the El Paso Valley Cotton Association refused to contract with the Mexican government for legitimate braceros because of "continuing and oppressive demands."

The result was an overwhelming movement of wetbacks into the valley.

U. S. Inquiries Ignored By Red China

Prisoners' Fate Mystery

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The State Department reported complete failure tonight in all its efforts to get information from Communist China about three Americans seized by the Chinese Reds last March while cruising in a yacht off Hongkong.

The department reported 33 Americans are now in Red China's jails and said it has had no success in trying to take diplomatic action on their behalf. Some of the Americans have been imprisoned for two years.

"The department will not overlook any possibility of obtaining the release of all the Americans unjustly imprisoned by the Chinese Communists or denied the right to leave Communist China," the department said.

It was the first time in many months that the department had given a report on Americans in Communist China. It said in December, 1951, that about 300 Americans were still there, mostly engaged in business or missionary activities, but that about 30 of them were reported to be in prison.

In response to questions, the department said its best information is that 101 Americans are now in China, including 33 in jail, actually 32 Americans are imprisoned; one is under house arrest.

The 101 total means that since December, 1951, about 200 Americans have been able to leave China.

The department said it is seriously concerned over the continued imprisonment, detention and maltreatment of American citizens in Communist China."

The Communist regime has not published the charges on which most of the Americans are being held. Nor has it answered the numerous protest notes which the British Representatives in Peiping have presented on this country's behalf.

Britain recognizes the Peiping regime as the government of China. The United States does not.

Three of the missing Americans —Donald Dickson of the International News Service, Richard Applegate of the National Broadcasting Co., and Capt. Ben Krasner of the American Merchant Marine —were seized aboard the yacht Kert on March 21 by a Chinese gunboat. A week later, the British representative at Peiping appealed for information, but neither then nor since then have the Reds given out any information, the department said.

The department said that on March 25, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge during a debate at the United Nations asked the Soviet Union to furnish information about Americans held in China, but nothing came of it.

In addition, the American Embassy staff in Moscow has made "several approaches to the Soviet Foreign Office this year," the department said, without avail.

Tito Offers Deal For Trieste, Or Threat To Peace

India Presses For Red Action On Explanations

PANMUNJOM, Sunday, Oct. 11 (AP)—The neutral Indian command pressed the Communists today for a quick decision on starting possibly explosive "explanations" tomorrow to 22,500 balky Chinese and North Korean prisoners of war who have renounced communism and refused to return home.

American tanks and troops near Panmunjom were in readiness at guard positions.

South Korean officials have threatened to release the prisoners by force if they are questioned against their will.

It was reported that the 8th Army also ordered the evacuation of South Korean Marines from a spot near the neutral zone to prevent possible violence.

The U.N. Command previously notified the Indians it would complete today explanation booths where the Reds can try and coax the reluctant prisoners back to China and North Korea.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the five-nation Repatriation Commission, asked the Communists "for an early reply" on starting the twice-postponed explanation work tomorrow. Originally the interviews were due to start Sept. 26.

In order for the explanation work to proceed, the Communists must agree to the procedure at least 24 hours in advance.

While the start of explanations appeared imminent, the Communists also made an apparent move to get the Korean political conference going.

Chou En-Lai, Red China's Premier and foreign minister, asked the United States to send a representative to Panmunjom "to hold discussions on the questions of the political conference" — including its membership—due to open Oct. 28.

200 Reich Scientists Said Held

CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany, Oct. 10 (AP)— The Russians today were reported holding 200 German scientists who refused to renew contracts to work on atomic research projects behind the Iron Curtain.

The report was made by German prisoners of war who have just returned after spending 10 years in Russian captivity.

The returnees, who would not permit use of their names for personal reasons, said they met the German scientists at Camp Dernitza, five miles from Kiev, in the Soviet Ukraine.

The repatriated soldiers said that the scientists, including physicists, chemists and highly specialized technicians, were recruited in 1947 to sign two-year contracts to work for the Russians at a secret atomic research institute at Suchumi, on the Black Sea.

When the scientists refused to renew the contracts in 1949, they said, they were transferred to Camp Dernitza to await a promised return to Germany.

But, the POWs said, the scientists are still there. Their report added:

While living on the Black Sea, the German atom experts were highly paid and given excellent living conditions, including good homes, private beaches and a car and chauffeur.

When they refused to sign up again, they were immediately shipped off to Camp Dernitza and regarded as prisoners. Except for 30 top scientists all of them were put to hard labor.

ILA Leaders Meet

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10 (AP) — Top leaders of the International Longshoremen's Association met with local officials here today in a bid for support of Gulf District longshoremen for the union, recently ousted by the American Federation of Labor.

ILA president Joseph P. Ryan and a dozen of his aides met in the office of Alfred F. Chittenden, president of the New Orleans ILA Local 1418.

Government Set To Cleanup Its Antitrust Cases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell said today the Justice Department has embarked on a program to clean up its big backlog of antitrust cases by negotiating settlements wherever possible.

Brownell said in a statement he is also proceeding promptly with new actions in the antitrust field where violations are indicated.

He said his immediate objective, however, is to get the antitrust docket "as nearly current as possible."

The attorney general told newsmen that the "old cases" in the negotiation stage include the antitrust action brought three years ago by former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath against the nationwide A&P grocery chain. The McGrath suit asked that A&P be broken up into a number of smaller independent companies.

Brownell said A&P has submitted a proposal for a settlement which now is the subject of consultations.

The attorney general noted that since he took office last January, he has filed 24 new antitrust complaints—8 civil and 16 criminal—and said he thought the policies he has been pursuing "refute charges that the new administration would favor big business."

Brownell said the recent Democratic administrations "piled up cases that could not be prepared for trial, because the government did not have sufficient personnel to handle the complaints that were brought."

"It is not the number of complaints filed, it is the significance of the cases that counts," he said.

Brownell said he is still "a middle-of-the-road man" in the antitrust field, but commented: "We are now organized to drive a little faster along that road."

Body Of Missing Girl Found In Shallow Grave

RUSHVILLE, Neb. Oct. 10 (AP)—The body of Karen Talbot, 13-year-Rushville girl missing since Aug. 20, was found early today in a shallow pasture grave near Rushville and a 19-year-old boy gave authorities a statement saying he killed the girl after she resisted his advances.

Charged with first degree murder was Duane McLain, 19, Rushville, who was graduated from high school last Spring.

County Attorney John Keriakedes said McLain pleaded guilty to the charge arraignment before county Judge Clarence E. Benschotte and was hustled immediately to an undisclosed location for safe keeping.

Child Is Born To Woman Near Death

HANFORD, Calif., Oct. 10 (AP) — A 27-year-old mother, made childless yesterday when her third child died of burns received in a fire that destroyed the family's home, gave birth to a boy today as she lay near death.

Mrs. Lupe Ambriz and her husband, Augustie, 29, were burned critically in the Thursday night fire. Mary Ambriz, 6, died in the flaming house. Her two brothers, Rudolph, 7, and Raul, 4, died later.

Italy Offered Port City For Rest Of Region

Yugoslav Tanks, Troops Reinforce Zone B Garrison

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 10 (AP) — President Marshal Tito offered Italy a deal today—with a threat to Balkan peace as an alternative. Tito would place the port city of Trieste under Italian rule while Yugoslavia took sovereignty over all the rest of the disputed free territory.

"Should the Western allies gloss over this proposal, as they have those previously proposed," the independent Communist leader declared, "there will be no peace in this part of the Balkans."

Yugoslav troops, tanks and artillery were reported moving to reinforce the 5,000-man garrison in the Yugoslav-occupied Zone B of Trieste as Tito spoke in a cold rain before a throng officially estimated at 120,000 in the Serbian textile city of Leskovac.

Amid cheers, Tito threatened to use his American-supplied armed forces to bar Italian troops from Trieste's Zone A, which includes the port and some hinterland, and

Conference Question Reopened

TOKYO, Sunday, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Communists last night re-opened the controversial question of who should attend a Korean political conference by proposing the time, place and composition of the meeting be discussed in advance at Panmunjom, Korea.

The State Department in Washington acknowledged receipt of the Red counter-proposal without indicating whether it could be acceptable.

The United States, acting as chief U. N. negotiator, had proposed earlier that preliminary talks on the time and place—but not the composition—of the conference to be held in Geneva, Honolulu or San Francisco.

The Reds complained bitterly that the United Nations had "spurned" the principles of the U. N. charter by "assuming the position of one of the belligerent sides" because it had not adopted the Communist plan for a round table peace conference.

But the statement asked that preliminary talks at Panmunjom be started with a representative of the United States, meeting representatives of Red China and North Korea. No date was set.

Almost identical statements by Foreign Ministers Chou En-Lai of Red China and Nam Il of North Korea were broadcast in full by Peiping radio. The texts were transmitted through neutral Sweden to Washington and U. N. headquarters in New York.

formal talks between heads of state.

The United States felt that Russia, before going into a top-level conference, should prove her peaceful intentions by deeds rathern than words. France also reacted coolly.

Britain then accepted a counter-proposal for a Big-Four foreign ministers conference with a limited agenda. In an exchange of notes, East and West have not yet agreed on the topics.

Churchill's speech today appeared to be aimed at breaking the deadlock. Discussing his May 11 call for an informal top-level conference without agenda, he said:

"I asked for very little. I held out no glittering or exciting hopes about Russia. I thought that friendly, informal, personal talks between the leading figures in the countries mainly involved might do good and could not easily do much harm, and that one good thing might lead to another.

"I still think that the leading men of the various nations ought to be able to meet together without trying to cut attitudes before exciteable publics or using regiments of experts to marshal all the difficulties and objections, and let us try to see whether there is not something better for us all than tearing and blasting each other to pieces, which we can certainly do."

Declines Comment On Auditor's Charge

Bill Lenton, president of the Richland parish police jury, refused last night to make any comment concerning a charge Friday by the state auditor's office that the Richland parish police jury appeared "deliberately continuing to flout the laws of the state."

According to the report, during the period of two years purchases of more than $100,000, mostly lumber, were made without advertising for bids. The law requires purchases of more than $1,000 to be advertised for bids, except in emergencies.

The report added "sales of gravel, culverts and other road materials totaling $932 have been made to individuals, although police juries are without authority to engage in such commercial practices."

Blaylock Heads Underwriters' Publicity Unit

The October meeting of the Monroe Association of Life Underwriters was held at the Frances Hotel Friday with one of the largest attendances ever recorded. The president, R. P. McKay, presided.

McKay announced the appointment of Charles Blaylock as chairman of the public relations committee. Blaylock then gave a brief outline of the program to be carried out and asked the cooperation of the entire membership.

Highlight of the meeting was an address by State Representative Gilbert Faulk, who was introduced by J. Arthur Smith. Faulk gave a brief summary of his experiences as legislator and in particular discussed a recent conference held at New Orleans at which representatives of all 48-states were in attendance.

Faulk stated that a representative of each state was asked to extol the benefits and advantages the individual states had to offer. He said he was privileged to represent Louisiana and after hearing the report of preceeding speakers, he came to the conclusion that Louisiana ranks very high in many advantages. The outstanding advantage for which Louisiana can boast is a plentiful water supply for drinking and commercial purposes and that this one particular asset was very sadly lacking in all the other states.

Faulk further emphasized to the group that they should think strongly of the advantages of the state, of their part as citizens of the state or their part as life underwriters for the protection of the families of the state. He assured them of his cooperation as a legislator for any laws affecting the good of the people as a whole, and of the Life Underwriter Association as an organization.

With trembling fingers, Sergeant Stahl opened it and found that it was a card of congratulation over her elevation to military rank.

The letter was from former students at the college here.

They are now Mr. and Mrs. Neil Campbell, of Howard Lake, Minn. Mrs. Campbell will be best known here as the former Miss Alice Chilton of Monroe. Her husband was here in the army special training program during the last war.

Wayne King and his famous orchestra will appear in program at Neville High School auditorium at 8 p.m. and the Ouachita Valley Fair starts its annual showing on the fair grounds.

We can hardly see how any one of these will have as big attendance as they deserve for all three are decidedly worth while affairs. It is a bit unfortunate that they all come on the same day. However, in the case of the Wayne King show, in all probability a great number of tickets have been sold in advance, as it is a benefit affair launched by Monroe Kiwanians.

Teen agers will meet weekly in the municipal recreation rooms from 3 to 5 p.m. starting Saturday, Oct. 17. They will bring their choice stamps and there will be rare stamps on exhibition. This is a really educational hobby and more boys and girls than ever are expected to participate.

Miss Ola Mae Pennington, who has had many years experience as Ouachita Parish High School teacher, now taking advantage of retirement, is leaving shortly for India, where she will be guest of her sister and her sister's husband who combining instruction in a college with missionary duties.

Civic clubs of the Twin Cities are seeking to launch a movement that would comprise the erection of a badly-needed municipal auditorium for the two towns. It will comprise a big project and if it can be put through successfully, it will be a decided step forward for both Monroe and West Monroe.

which is making its debut at the fair.

All of the specimens in this exhibit—bagged or trapped by area sportsmen—have a thrill-packed story behind them. Included are bear, moose, pheasant and many other creatures of the wilds.

Visitors to this year's forestry exhibit will get a bit of sage advice on fire prevention from "Smoky the Talking Bear." The stuffed bear, by way of recorded voice, will serve as spokesman for the Louisiana Forestry Commission.

Thursday at the fair will be dedicated to Louisiana Commissioner of Agriculture Dave Pearce, who will be guest of Fair Association officials, and will also appear at the West Monroe Kiwanis Club noon luncheon meeting on that day.

Exhibits will cover a wide range of items including clothing, household articles, canned and frozen foods, sweet and Irish potatoes, corn, cotton, sugar cane, bacon, lard, barn yard linens, poultry, game and ornamental birds, beef and dairy cattle and hogs.

The livestock and commercial exhibit buildings will be open to the public Monday, but the agricultural building will not be opened until 4 p.m. Tuesday after judging of entries has been completed.

Fair gates will swing open offically 5 p.m. Monday when the carnival is also scheduled to start its run. Price for admission to the fair grounds is 25 cents for adults, and 10 cents for children.

Judging of junior livestock and poultry entries is scheduled for Tuesday, and judging in the senior livestock division will be staged Wednesday.

Movement of exhibits out of the fair buildings will get under way Saturday afternoon.

Tito Offers Deal

said "units of the Yugoslav army have already entered Zone B."

The British-American plan for withdrawal of the 7,000 Allied occupation troops provides for the zone's administration to be turned over to Italy. The western aim is to complete the transfer next month. Tito is dead set against the whole thing.

His offer to let Italy have the predominantly-Italian port city modifies his earlier proposal that it be internationalized and that Yugoslavia take over all the rest of the region. Italy contends all of Trieste is rightfully hers. She has announced that, even with Zone A, she will press her claim to Zone B.

A responsible American observer, newly returned to Belgrade from Trieste, said that during the trip he saw Yugoslav troop trains and tank and artillery detachments heading toward Zone B, the southerly part of the free territory.

Horse-drawn artillery and tanks of at least medium size were on the move at the Slovene village of Sezana, at the free territory's frontier, he said, and he saw two trainloads of troops headed toward Zone B from Ljubljana, 50 miles northeast of Trieste.

Rain fell heavily during Tito's speech at Leskovac.

"We have decided to protect our rights in the spirit of the United Nations charter, which also includes the right to use armed forces," he said. ". . . our patience is at an end."

Angrily, he denounced the two-day-old decision of the United States and Britain to pull their 7,000 occupation troops out of Zone A and turn over the administration to the Italians, who lost all the 320-square-mile territory under the Italian Peace Treaty of 1947.

"The peoples of Yugoslavia, in their demonstrations (against the decision), asked that our army be sent to Zone B," Tito said, "and I may declare that units of the Yugoslav army have already entered into Zone B."

The two Westers allies are pointing toward the transfer next month. Zone A is the richest of the two sections. Zone B, over which Tito has long held political and economic as well as military control, is largely made up of vineyards and rocky farmland.

Tito cautioned that Yugoslavia would regard the movement of Italian troops into Zone A as an act of aggression and would "undertake corresponding action."

CONGRESSMAN E. CELLAR

Congressman To Be Speaker For Jewish Charities

Congressman Emanuel Celler of New York, outstanding leader and humanitarian, and prominent member of the house of representatives, will be the principal speaker at a dinner of the United Jewish Charities of northeast Louisiana at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club Wednesday at 6:30 p.m., it was announced by Maurice Glazer, newly-elected president of the local organization.

The meeting will launch the 1953 campaign of the United Jewish Charities on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and 40 other national and overseas agencies, Mr. Glazer said.

"We are particularly fortunate in having secured Congressman Celler as our speaker," Mr. Glazer said "because he has stood consistently in the forefront of the struggle against prejudice and bigotry and was among the earliest congressional advocates of free immigration to Palestine, and for many years supported the movement for an independent Jewish state."

A member of the house of representatives since 1923, Congressman Celler is chairman of the house committee on the judiciary. He has been a leading proponent of the need for liberalized immigration laws, and was an active supporter of the fight to remove discriminatory provisions from the DP law.

The United Jewish Appeal, principal beneficiary of the local drive, is American Jewry's largest voluntary agency for support of immigration, settlement, walfare and rehabilitation programs in Israel, Europe, North Africa, the Middle East and the United States. Since its establishment in 1939, the UJA has saved and helped a total of 2,240,000 victims of war, oppression, homelessness and destitution.

The UJA's 1953 campaign is its 15th successive nationwide drive, and seeks the largest possible sums to meet urgent needs totalling $144-524,000.

B. R. Port Plan Gets Approval

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A state board Saturday approved interim finance plans of the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission to buy up to $600,000 worth of property for port expansion here.

The Board of Liquidation of State Debt, headed by Gov. Robert Kennon, gave the okay, although Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham, also a member, refused to vote.

The commission, created by the 1952 Legislature, has authority to issue up to 15 million dollars in bonds to make the capital city a major deep water port on the Mississippi River.

The state board approved the commission's plans to acquire up to $600,000 worth of property eventually on both the east and west banks by issuing two-year mortgage notes.

The board also approved a specific property proposal to issue $100,000 in notes to help buy a 394-acre site south of the Louisiana State University campus priced at $150,000. The other $50,000 will be paid in cash.

Jimmy Hynes, commission attorney, said members estimated all port property sought would total about $600,000.

Barham asked, "Are you going to build port sites on both sides of the river?"

"That is our hope eventually," Hynes replied. "We think we'll grow. We're very restricted in river frontage now." He added that port value would be increased by having rail contacts on both sides.

Barham, just before the voting, declared the state for years had "subsidized" the port of New Orleans and commented he did not believe revenues from the Baton Rouge port would pay for the total 15 million bond program unless subsidized by the state.

"I'm no expert," Barham said, "but I don't see how it will be possible."

State Auditor Allison Kolb answered "Even though the state has poured money into the New Orleans port, it has been self sufficient the last two or three years. I don't think the statement is correct that the state is now subsidizing the port of New Orleans."

State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell commented, "We're giving the New Orleans Dock Board enough to pay all its bonds and $500,000 in addition to that."

The dock board derives revenues from 9-20ths of one-cent of the state gasoline tax.

"The meeting is being called for a three-fold purpose," he said. A Prayer For Peace

These are trying times for the American people. Indeed, they are bad times for every soul on the face of this earth which has been the scene of man's follies since the human race entered existence. Actually, few people seem to realize that the crossroads of human existence on this earth may said to have been reached.

There are but two directions in which to go. One is to atomic-thermonuclear destruction, and the human race in this type warfare will be reduced to the point of being mere savages, or to a settlement of the present scourge and a peaceful existence on this earth. There are those who are unfortunately of the belief that a collectivization of the earth's habitants will result in a paradise on earth, and eternal peace. They cannot find this to be true as there is what is known as "the human element," or a personal feeling of individualism found in every person, young or old.

There are others who believe that peace will be found through various other theories. They are living in a dream. As long as there is one nation, one government which is determined to foist upon the peoples of the world, its own formula for living, and government, and to do this with a terrible force, there can be no peace.

The policy of the American people has been to live and let live. It has won the American people genuine respect throughout the world. This great and humane philosophy was scrapped by a political cabal anxious to mix itself in the affairs of other nations and peoples. You have personally seen the outcome of this policy of disaster. Actually, it has become a physical impossibility to see the United States and free men wherever they may be, living side by side with tyranny. Free men will repel tyranny at the cost of their lives. This has been the case since the dawn of mankind, and actually, this is not limited to the human race, as in the animal kingdom as a whole, the urge for freedom is a paramount part of the makeup of the creature.

Thereupon, you are entitled to ask, "What is the answer?" In other words, peace is a necessity if the human race is to survive, or at least, if what is known as civilization is to remain intact to maintain that peace in the face of a desperate band of determined Russians who have shown beyond any shadow of a doubt that they are ready and willing to destroy themselves and go to a flaming crashing Wagnerian finish, bringing the world unto destruction with them if their aims are not satisfied.

Could the answer be in the same human makeup which is a determining factor in keeping men free? Could the answer be found in the tyranny surrounding the unfortunate peoples of half the world? Or even more likely, could it lie in the traits of the leaders themselves and their urge for more power? One frequently must remind oneself that the Russian peoples are no more interested in seeing their nation and themselves destroyed than you are. If they can be convinced that the American people, and other free peoples are not the ones interested in causing this destruction, but that the thought comes from their own leaders, there will be a change in the innate philosophy of those people.

You will immediately answer, "How about the Communists, are they not very zealous?" More than any other force on the face of the earth, these Communists revere their cause and are ready to fight for it. They are in a minority. In the citadel of Communism, they are in a fearfully small minority. Wherever they are, they are in a minority.

There is an answer. It is a good answer.

Let yourself suppose for a minute that an alien planet was hurtling toward the earth on which you live. The astronomers inform you that not a chance is left, that the planet will take away your earth. Astronomy is exact to the point where the length of a shadow caused by an eclipse of the sun can be predicted to the fraction of an inch. You know that you will perish, there is no way out. To whom would more than ninety per cent of the peoples of the earth turn? You, as well as the next person knows. To God, to the God the people worship. To the God you know, but who many people have forgotten and only knew as children.

Thus, in the face of certain destruction from outer space, the great majority of peoples would almost certainly turn to God for protection and salvation and hopes for the Eternal Life. Do you think for one minute that the Earth is indestructible? What minute balance in space could not be upset placing the earth in a path of destruction? Then, is it not possible to place yourself in the very same category today, the only difference being that the fiery destruction of the earth by another world would be more merciful than that rendered the human race by the thermonuclear destruction seemingly already scheduled?

Destruction, being almost assured, is not now as good a time as ever to turn to God and pray? Can it be said that prayer will do no good? Those who think not have only to look at little Marie Johnson who the doctors had given up for lost. She prayed; she is out of her iron lung. There is even a chance that she may recover. There are other examples. In short, a determination that the civilization you know will be saved, and will be saved from tyranny, may turn the tide.

Faith is a powerful force. Certainly Russians can be convinced that destruction awaits them in the case of war. Do you suppose they want to be destroyed any more than you do? The time has come to ask God for help. The time has come to end a dependence on human resources which have proven to be faulty. Destruction awaits. The human race is perhaps not convinced, or not so convinced as it would be if the above hypothetical case were to be true. One type of destruction is the same as is the other.

The forces of the tyranny presently use the mind of man as their main implement. They have had astounding success. Only a fervent belief and faith in God can change these minds. A strong faith can save the world if that faith is in God Almighty.

Americans, citizens, wherever you may be, the time to pray for peace has arrived. It has been here for some months. There is no time to lose.

In God alone is your salvation.

The Ladies In Grey

There are in life everywhere, many unsung heroes.

Now and then, it is a good idea to sing aloud their praises. In this community as in others through the length and breadth of this nation, the familiar grey uniforms of the kind and generous ladies who lend a willing hand in hospitals is well known. The Red Cross Grey Ladies are familiar figures around the hospitals at the service bases and at the charity hospitals.

They lend a helping hand wherever that is needed.

As a morale booster, they are not approached as many a serviceman can tell you. They not only work in the hospitals, they visit the homes for the aged, they roll bandages, they help the sick bide away the bedridden hours by simply helping them use their minds. All of their work is on their own time. They are strictly volunteer workers and they are ready and willing to give their time.

This year, there is a need for more Grey Ladies. There will have to be more volunteers. The ladies of this community are asked to avail themselves in work of such a nature as to win everlasting friends and to be of great assistance. What better thing can you do? If you ladies of this community find that you have the time, join the Grey Ladies. Help your fellow citizens to help themselves.

Estes, Estes, Wherefore Art Thou?

The fierce hunter of criminals, the torturer of state Governors, the racket buster of the coonskin, Estes Kefauver of Tennessee has demanded that the President tell the people about the Russian hydrogen bomb threat.

Actually, the knowledge that the Russians have been able to make the hydrogen bomb should be threat enough. Most any thinking American can easily imagine that the Russians have been able to produce the bomb as they in all probability received the plans directly from the United States due to the excellent coverage managed by their espionage agents in the U. S. government, thanks to Mr. Kefauver's cohorts in that government who were busy covering up the Communists while the Tennessee Senator was "chasing" "unfortunate" gangsters.

These poor, wretched gangsters who lived in fear of the Kefauver committee were "hunted" and snatched out of their lairs, but nothing to speak of was done about them. In any case, Estes nearly received the presidential nomination due to his excellent TV appearances.

Politically, this statement just made by the "crime-fighter," was supposed to make the people believe that the twelve TU34's possessed by the Russians were even then preparing to warm up their Wright Cyclone engines or reasonable facsimilies thereof, and take off across the North Pole laden with hydrogen bombs. Such is what the Senator would have you believe.

If the Russian bombers did take off, they were detained by seals or salmon, as they never arrived.

This newspaper will be the last to try and minimize the importance of the threat from overseas but the Senator's statement was a deliberate attempt to embarrass the President. As such, it was an attempt to mix idiotic politics with a terrible weapon which the Russians most probably have. Americans are generally realists and know what the enemy has. If they don't, they can easily imagine.

There was no necessity for such a statement by this fame hunting, publicity seeking person.

Mountains, Molehills And Oil

When people talk about making a mountain out of a molehill, they usually mean that something is being magnified way out of proportion—that much is being made out of comparatively nothing. In a broader sense, and with a latter-day twist, this expression could be applied appropriately to the modern petrochemical industry. No misunderstanding or disagreement is implied, of course; merely the basic idea that a mountain is truly being made out of a molehill—that much is being made out of virtually nothing.

The petrochemical industry is less than a quarter of a century in age. It has mushroomed into an astounding business. Its capital investment currently exceeds two billion dollars, and the end in nowhere in sight. It has become a fountainhead for the chemical magic which has given us fingertip luxuries and comforts; a fascinating array of colorful synthetic textiles and fabrics; and endless stream of plastics ranging from children's toys to transparent surgical instruments; insecticides, fertilizers—so many things that we wonder how we ever did without them in the past.

But the really amazing part of all this is the fact that the petrochemical industry accounts for less than one per cent (yes, one per cent) of the oil industry's total output of petroleum! Could there be a more dramatic illustration of making a mountain out of a molehill?

The petrochemical industry is symbolic of two things—what free men can do in a climate of free imagination and free enterprise; and what an industry can do to give real sense and meaning to conservation of our natural resources—getting the most out of everything we withdraw from nature's warehouse. The oil industry is observing Oil Progress Week October 11-17.

Twin City Baseball

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

This letter is being written in defense of the Shreveport Baseball Club and its officials. There has been an abundance of conversation and comment in the Twin Cities with reference to Shreveport's failure to help Monroe in its efforts to have winning clubs in the Cotton States League. Being closely related to all facts, figures, and negotiations that went on between the Shreveport club and Monroe, I am ably qualified to make the following statements, which will prove that Shreveport has done more than anyone could expect.

At the time the Monroe American Legion decided to build a baseball stadium through the contributions of local people, we were without a ball park and also without any way of getting into professional baseball on account of not having a franchise. In the fall of 1949, the American Legion had done a noble job but was still far behind in having raised sufficient money to complete the stadium. At that time, Mr. Bonneau Peters, president of the Shreveport club, opened negotiations with the American Legion and through those negotiations the first step was to purchase the Helena franchise of the Cotton States League for $15,000, and move same to Monroe.

Secondly: Shreveport helped immeasureably the American Legion complete the local stadium to the tune of $9,000, representing concession stands, office, foul line fences, tool room, batting cage and other necessary items. They also gave the Legion the outside fences to sell advertising space, a project that brought several thousand dollars into the Legion in the past four years.

Thirdly: The Shreveport baseball club entered into a five - year contract with the local Legion post at a rental of $3,000 per year and even though they are not going to operate here in 1954, the last year of the agreement, they are still paying the rental as per the contract.

Fourth: Shreveport permitted the local legion post to have a legion night which meant that one game annually was given to the legion where the gross receipts went toward the retirement of the debt against the stadium. This item alone made it possible to raise in four years, an amount of $12,200 which went to the local legion post.

Without this help and cooperation by the Shreveport Baseball Club, Monroe would be sitting with a stadium incomplete, thus a white elephant with no funds available for the completion and if same were completed, we would still have had nor have now a franchise for operating a professional baseball club.

During Shreveport's operation here in Monroe, they gave us a second place team in 1950; a first place team in 1951; a fourth place team in 1952; and, of course, an eighth place team in 1953. Thus, they furnished Monroe with playoff qualifiers in three of the four years of their operation.

In addition to these facts, even though ownership of the Monroe club rested with the Shreveport Baseball Club, the money was spent locally, almost exclusively; the club was a member of the Chamber of Commerce; the business manager, Paul Manasseh, worked diligently and often in many civic endeavors, attempting to aid the community in any way possible. He was one of the original founders of the Little League, having served on its board of directors since its inception uniti the present date. They offered the use of the stadium for Little League, Little Bigger League and Legion Junior competition on many occasions, and many times when the use worked an undue hardship on the professional club. There were many times when the concessions stand was operated by Manasseh and his helpers and the total receipts turned over to such projects, but no publicity was ever sought or wanted on these occasions.

As an example of the interest that Mr. Peters still maintains in the Twin Cities, he has allowed Manasseh to remain in Monroe this fall to aid in any manner in retaining a professional baseball franchise through local stock ownership. He has offered Monroe the franchise and future playing help if called on.

Yet, they were denied this past season the presence of police officers to park automobiles, and these same police officers are fulfilling this duty at the local high school and college football games. In both 1950 and 1951, the club made the stadium available to the police and fire departments for their annual baseball games, but they were denied police help when they needed it.

In conclusion, I would like to make this statement that my hat is off the Shreveport for its endeavors here and I only hope that any future tie-up or operation will be as remunerative and helpful as the one with Shreveport has been.

Fluoridation Facts

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I read with much interest your editorial 'On Putting Out a Newspaper.' There can be no disagreement with your observation that a paper is obligated to inform it's readers, nor with the recognition for the need of this.

Some months ago you wrote an editorial on fluoridation in which, inadvertantly I am sure, you did not live up to this code. In this piece you stated, 'it is said' fluoridation may cause cancer — softening of bones. You did not name your source of information, which on a health matter is all important, nor did you tell that according to all recognized health groups, such assertions are fantastic. You also stated, 'Dentists are divided' on this subject. Again you failed to let readers know that all dental societies in the nation have urged fluoridation and that our own Louisiana dental society passed such a resolution, without even one single dissenting vote. Does this seem to indicate that the dentists are in disagreement?

When I think back on this editorial, I cannot help but wonder how many editorials are colored by personal opinions, disregarding important facts. It is possible that such editorials will, far from informing the public, do injury instead of good, by misinforming or misleading. Your responsibility is truly a great one.

Monroe—My Home

Harlingen A. B., Texas.

Editor, Morning World:

As a serviceman for the past ten years, I have had the privilege of visiting many cities in many parts of the world and while some of them may always hold a special place in my memory, none of them can take the place of Monroe in my heart. I do not pretend to understand the force within us that often lets us know at once if we will like or dislike a place, a thing or person, but I knew at my first visit to Monroe more than two and one-half years ago that this city held a very special appeal for me and on my many visits since that time there has been nothing to alter that appeal.

I do not have the talent to pen my sentiment. Anyway it would be an impossible task. I cannot pin point that which makes me love your city. I do not pretend to know its history, but it impresses me as a place of character and dignity. I have not found in your city as in most the special sucker-price for men in uniforms and it's difficult to define the feeling within, when you are greeted so warmly by strangers as you walk along the streets. But then it's wrong to call them strangers, because they are folks; folks like we dream of back home, but seldom find when we get there and that alone could be the reason. But regardless of what has attracted me to it, I look forward in hope and dream that perhaps somehow, someday, I can call Monroe my home.

Nation Of Conformists

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Humility is the father of courage. The editor exhibited both in his recent address which outlined the failure of the press — in the last twenty pears — to fulfill its obligation of completely and accurately informing the public. Our country was established with the assistance of such frankness on the part of our early editors. It will be sustained by their modern counterparts.

Non - conformity was the driving force behind the early Americans' spirit which prevailed against all those who would deny the rights of the individual.

Today, however, we are fast becoming a nation of conformists. That is why communism presents such a grave threat to our nation. Because conformity is the lifeblood of communism.

In the past twenty years, the whole truth was not printed in the newspapers because such information might offend the majority who were in sympathy with those who were presiding over the debacle. This would mean loss of subscriptions, advertising and other sources of revenue and the eventual dissolution of the paper. Conformity was the doctrine by which our government was operated at every level. Government enterprise and private industry as well as the military felt the impact of those who advocated conformity.

Government officials and employees who reserved the right of individual thinking were removed from office or employment. There was an effort to pack the Supreme Court of the U. S. with hand-picked judges whose chief asset to the administration was conformity. We witnessed the dismissal of a great general thoroughly schooled in the American tradition that generals fought and won battles on the battle fields. Had the general been a conformist, he would still be in command.

Congressmen were elected not on their ability as statesmen but on recognition by the conformist administration. Such favored congressmen were able to provide their constituents with major construction contracts and other boons to community living. It would be foolish for the people to consider the candidacy of any person not recognized by the press and the conformist administration.

Happily, the American people awakened to wisdom revealed in the old saying that even the best roast too well done is no good. It was time for a change and a big one.

The fraternity existing between conformity and communism has necessitated the investigations by Sen. McCarthy and others. The government at every level of operation has been investigated, our schools, higher educational institutions and related activities have been investigated. Even the sanctity of our churches has become subservient because of the penetration of the conformists and their fellowmen the Communists.

Last but not least upon the list of organizations and institutions to be investigated in the nationwide quest for Communists will be the fraternal organizations.

This investigation of fraternal orders may well prove to be the most revealing. Because some fraternal orders operate as secret orders. Membership is definitely limited — in secret organizations—to the strict conformer. Such membership could represent a haven for communism. For in such memberships in secret orders one finds conformity, select membership and operation in secrecy. The best interests of the individual are never served by secret organizations.

There has been much discussion about the 23 Americans who turned Communists. These men are of no benefit to the Communists. At best they are examples of a brain-washing job that has been too thorough. They will be of no use to the Communists. All the U. S. would have to fear would be the success of the Communists in converting our soldiers into Communists while there was still enough of their mental faculties alive to make them useful after their return to the U. S. After their discharge such men could contact the commies, in this country and in this manner would really serve the Communists. There is a possibility that a number of our soldiers were so converted and will serve the Communists after their discharge. While there is a big investigation as to how our soldiers became Communists there is a big hush hush on how they became prisoners in the first place. At first we were told it was due to shortage of ammunition and lack of support by the South Korean armies. It is up to the press to get us the facts and then give them to us.

Englishman Says Trade To Pay Dividends

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

As an Englishman enjoying the hospitality of this great country, the United States of America, it perhaps ill becomes me to take issue on the severe criticism often leveled against my country, but on reflection I realise with what immense pride, the American man in the streets has, in knowing that this good old U. S. A. of his, is a free country where freedom of thought and action is the pass word and where criticism is the right of all people. I am therefore wanting to use a little of this perogative, and I feel sure my American counterpart will accept my reasoning in the spirit in which it is written.

I am constantly being reminded by my American friends that billions of dollars have been poured into the United Kingdom in an effort to bolster up her economy and help her re - establish herself as one of the leading powers, that the results shown do not in any way compensate the American taxpayer for his sacrifice. On this reasoning I must take issue. It is common logic that without foreign markets no country can survive, one cannot trade with themselves. America with its huge mass production potential and its big labour force needs a steady demand for its goods, therefore with Europe on the verge of bankruptcy as a result of its committments in World War II and to a lesser extent World War I, it was, apart from its humanitarian aspect, the finest business venture America ever undertood, and will in the lives of the coming generation, pay dividends, in more ways than one.

It is perhaps unfortunate that there is a big disparity between what we are doing with this money, and what we would like to do. With world competition so keen, and with the trend for higher and higher prices for raw materials, it is becoming increasingly difficult for the British government to assure its workers of a fair standard of living and at the same time compete with favour in overseas markets. To lower the standard of living to a degree whereby we can compete more favourably in world markets is to invite communism.

What is the answer to this difficult situation. An international currancy, acceptable to all countries thereby eliminating the necessity for dollar payments for goods and raw materials from this country, lower trade tariffs, this has been long overdue. I would say to the American man in the street, give the British people your faith and tolerance, they will come through, never doubt, and in so doing, forge a greater bond of friendship between our two peoples, so very necessary in these troubled times.

Discrimination

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Today, when we read of discrimination on a nation wide basis we little realize the amount of discrimination being carried on on a local basis in matters that call for no discrimination at all. I speak of a situation existing at Sherrouse School concerning the elimination of ten kindergarten students living east of the city limits on Highway 80, while children living in Edgewater Gardens, also outside of the city limits, are allowed to attend.

This situation is very unfair, since the school board's contention that, quote "a line has to be drawn somewhere" unquote, is discrimination of the rankest sort. We realize that a serious overcrowded condition exists in both parish and city schools, and contend that ten children divided into three kindergarten classes could not seriously overcrowd an already over burdened condition.

This matter, brought to the attention of the local city school board in an open letter and personal representation at a regular meeting, received little or no sympathy and the poorest of excuses and alibis.

It is not our contention that all parish children attending city schools be eliminated from them and vice versa, as one board member intimated may be done in the near future, but, since our children have always shared school facilities equally since the days of Mayor Forsythe, they be allowed to do so presently and in the future, and some arrangements be made to take care of them equally and fairly.

This may sound unreasonable since the ten children eliminated all reside in an area served by Selman School. Parish schools do not offer a kindergarten class and today, in our rapidly advancing civiliation, kindergarten is considered essential in a child's education, preparing them for the time when they must attend school regularly for longer hours.

This matter was not brought to public attention in all fairness to the city school board, in hopes that matters could be remedied in a fair American way. They failed miserably.

Vagrancy Law

Jackson, Miss.

Editor, Morning World:

Senate Bill number 106, better known as a vagrancy law, is beyond any question of doubt, the dirtiest, lowest, and most unconstitutional piece of legislation ever passed by a law making body. In principal, it violates one of the most important articles of the United States Constitution. Time after time it has been used as a rotten excuse by the police to put people in jail or else force them to leave the town, for no other reason than the fact that some member or members of the city police force, has a personal dislike for the people in question.

This unconstitutional law was the result of dirty conniving on the part of the city judge, Monroe, La., who does not like what this individual has written about, the discourteous and abusive actions by members of the Monroe police force, your city judge, resenting my expressions of opinion, went to the state senator from Monroe, that lives about six blocks from him on the same street, and had him introduce this uncalled - for piece of tripe into the Lousiana State Legislature. It fails by any stretch of the imagination to have any legitimate reason for being on the statute books, it shows what dirty, rotten, lowdown tactics some members of the city judicial system will resort to.

Our New School

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I just want to say a little about our new school, "Our Lady of Fatima" that just opened Monday (in the college area.)

Thursday we held the first meeting of parents and teachers to elect officers and discuss needed plans for the school, and it was indeed an inspiration to see so many interested and eager to cooperate in making the school a success.

When you see parents, who besides supporting the public school system with their taxes, are willing (and even eager) to tax themselves extra to support another school system so that their children may have a well - rounded education with God included in the daily curriculum, you feel that there is great hope for the future. Since we all know that the greatness of our love can be measured by the amount of sacrifice, we are willing to make for the one we love, we can certainly know that God is well loved here.

Thank God for so many such parents; thank God for the good nuns who dedicate themselves so willingly for God's sake to teaching our children for such meager wages (for if we had to pay them what we pay our public school teachers, I doubt we could maintain our Catholic schools) and thank God for those generous souls, who, though not of our faith, have given generously of themselves and their financial aid because they realize the great service our Catholic schools are rendering to God and to country.

Thank you very much and God bless you for your kindness.

MRS. PHILIP INZINA.

The Rev. W. H. McFadden, minister of the First Presbyterian Church will continue his series of book reviews covering outstanding books of a religious nature.

All reviews will be given in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p. m. today.

On October the 11th the book "A Man Called Peter" will be the subject of the review. This book is a biography of the famous Peter Marshall and was written by his wife, Catherine Marshall. It was so well received by the public that it was listed by the New York Times and several other publications as ranking among the ten best sellers for a number of weeks. Thousands of copies and several editions were necessary, so great was the popular demand for this book. Peter Marshall was one of the best known ministers in the United States and since his biography was written by his wife this book will no doubt be of special interest to a large number of the people of Monroe and surrounding territory.

The public is cordially invited to attend this and the other reviews that will be offered by Mr. McFadden during the month of October.

Gov. Kennon Proclaims October As P.-T. A. Month

Governor Robert F. Kennon has proclaimed the month of October, 1953 as Louisiana Parent - Teacher Association month. The proclamation follows:

"Whereas, the establishment and maintenance of good schools in our state is a responsibility shared by every citizen; and

"Whereas, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers is an educational organization that seeks to unite the forces of home, school and community in behalf of children and youth; and

"Whereas, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers is an organization dedicated to the care and welfare of all children throughout the world, embracing all classes, all creeds in a common cause:

"Now, therefore, I, Robert F. Kennon, Governor of the State of Louisiana do proclaim the month of October, 1953 as Louisiana Parent - Teacher Association Month and do urge all citizens interested in the public schools of America and the education and welfare of the children of Louisiana to become members of the Louisiana Parent - Teacher Association, a branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, upholding its policies and working toward the attainment of its goals."

Mrs. J. S. Goff, Shreveport, president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association states - "The Louisiana Parent - Teacher Association extends a special welcome during the month of October to all parents, teachers and to all citizens interested in the proper education and welfare of the children of Louisiana to join hands with the eight million P.-T. A. members throughout the nation to work for the welfare of the child.

The membership of the Louisiana Parent - Teacher Association last year rose to 73,235 and the organization, this year, is shooting for a membership of 90,000. All parent - teacher groups not affiliated with the Louisiana Parent Teacher Association and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers are extended a cordial welcome to come into the P. - T. A. fold.

States Mrs. A. W. Cockerham, Jr., Shreveport, membership chairman of the Louisiana P.-T. A. - "The National Congress of Parents and Teachers centers its whole interest on the welfare and education of children and youth - I am proud to have a share in this work. The P.-T. A.'s program is based upon intelligent cooperation between home and school and between parents and teachers. This partnership is necessary for the finest and fullest development of the child.

"The P.-T. A. represents a cross section of the population of the community. Therefore it can draw together all citizens to discuss and act upon common problems that affect the education and welfare of children and youth. In such instances a P.-T. A. that has state and national resource persons to consult can benefit tremendously from their knowledge and years of experience.

"The P.-T. A. offers the opportunity to study the physical, mental emotional and spiritual development of the child, through its parent - education study groups.

"The P.-T. A. gives an opportunity to the individual member to add his voice to the voices of millions of other citizens whose support has enabled boards of education and other agencies to secure more funds for teachers' salaries, for improved school equipment and for enrichment of school programs in general.

"Approximately one - third of the membership of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers are men. In Louisiana each year more fathers and interested male citizens come into P.-T. A. membership to work shoulder to shoulder with the women for the betterment of home, school and community."

States Mrs. Goff, "The Louisiana Parent - Teacher Association is deeply grateful to the governor for his sincere interest and understanding support of this vital movement on behalf of the children of our state."

Southwestern Players Plan Opening Play

LAFAYETTE, Oct. 10. (Special) —The Southwestern Players, as their first production of the season, will present "The Male Animal" at 8:15 Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, October 19, 20, 21, and 23, in Burke hall theater on the Southwestern Louisiana Institute campus.

There will be no charge for admission and no tickets are necessary. The public is cordially invited to attend the opening of the 1953-54 drama season at S. L. I.

Heading the cast is M. J. Broussard, Kaplan, a veteran of stage and radio productions here on the campus, who in the role of Professor Thomas Turner gets all mixed up with football players and university trustees.

Beth Roberts of Lafayette, who has done considerable work in radio and debate, is a newcomer to the Burke Theater stage. She will play Ellen Turner, the professor's wife. She tries to dissuade her husband from his determined purpose but in the end realizes he is a good example of the male animal and takes sides with him.

Gary Ashton, Lafayette, will recreate the role of Joe Ferguson, the greatest halfback Mid-Western University ever had. After ten years, Joe comes back to see a homecoming game and gets mixed up in a love triangle that takes a lot of hilarious unravelling.

Others in the cast include Jeanette Start, Eunive, as Cleota; Dorothy Perry, Indian Bayou, as Patricia Stanley; Sawyer White, Abbeville, as Wally Mayers; Wilfred Richard Jr., Franklin, as Dean Damon; Gene Hollier, Port Arthur, Tex., as Michael Barnes; Beth Dubus, Lafayette, as Blanche Damon; Carroll Landry, Jennings, as Ed Keller; Berverly Primeaux, Kaplan, as Myrtle Keller; Clyre Broussard, Maurice, as Nusty Miller; and Julian Mouton, Lafayette, as a reporter.

Letters To Editor In Soviet Press Of Party Interest

MOSCOW (AP)—One of the most interesting features of the Soviet Press is the letters column, where people who are deemed to need it are given public soundings.

One day it may be the directors of the razor blade industry who catch the dickens for turning out dull and flimsy blades and are warned to mend their ways.

Another day the hat and shoe designers get a lashing for failing to obey Premier Georgi Malenkov's orders to turn out smart as well as serviceable head and foot gear.

Now many a Western heart would likely beat in sympathy with a Moscow lady named V. Aleinikova who recently wrote to the newspaper Evening Moscow to unburden herself of a grievance against the city's television repair men.

Frustrated televiewer Aleinikova wrote:

"Our television set stopped working. We asked a specialist from shop No. 3 of the Radio Trust. He did not find the cause of the trouble, but specialist Yermolinsky did not forget to collect 23 rubles ($5.75) for the call. Then we made a second call to the same shop. This time they sent specialist Smirnov. He collected 48 rubles ($12) from us, but Smirnov also did not repair the television set. Next they sent us specialist Shorin. He demanded 33 rubles ($8.25) for his 'work.' But the television set is still not working."

The editors of Evening Moscow were sympathetic with Mrs. Aleinikova. In addition to publishing her letter they tossed in a cartoon depicting a particularly dopey-looking repairman ineptly tinkering with a television set.

It all goes to show that even here this is recognized as an imperfect world and the men and women in it also imperfect—some more so than others.

INVESTIGATION

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury has started an investigation of a work stoppage on Brooklyn piers, hearing among its first witnesses two longshoremen under 24-hour police guard.

The jury started the probe yesterday and presumably is trying to determine whether the stoppage violates a Taft-Hartley labor law injunction obtained by the government Monday to end a strike of longshoremen between Portland, Maine, and Hampton Roads, Va.

THAT'S THE LAW

BATON ROUGE (AP)—It's against the law to do the bunny-hug in Colfax, La.

The Colfax city attorney said today he came across such a law recently while compiling city ordinances into a penal code.

"We got a lot of other laws like that dating back to the '20's and even further," he told a meeting of city attorneys here. "We'd like to get them up to date."

Chest Campaign Gains Momentum; Brown Div. Head

Momentum in the $85,000 red feather campaign of the Twin City community chest was picking up sharply Saturday as returns began to come into campaign headquarters.

The last division of the drive was kicked-off on Thursday afternoon, and with all nine divisions in the field returns should continue to come in at a fast pace during the next week.

John O. Brown was named by the Jaycees to act as chairman of their group. Commenting on the work of the Jaycees, Hicks said he was very pleased with the smooth organization set up by Brown and the way Jaycees were taking their job in stride.

J. G. Hicks, general campaign chairman, after meeting with the nine division chairmen, said indications are that firm giving and employee gifts are showing substantial increases over last year. Most of the larger employee groups are embracing the day's pay pledge plan, which is made easy for them to pay over the year by their firms adoption of the payroll deduction plan, Hicks said.

Clubs and organizations of the Twin Cities have come through once more for the Chest by making substantial contributions from club treasuries. Solicitation of this group was done by mail, Hicks commented, and the response has been gratifying, he said.

However, most of the money coming into the chest office in the last few days has been brought in by Jaycees, who are ramroding the commercial division — the largest money group in the drive.

Reports from various divisions will be received Monday and Tuesday, Hicks said, and by that time we expect to know and be able to give to the chest board of directors a complete picture of the campaign.

Ike Will Assist FFA Special Observances

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower, two of his Cabinet members and other government officials will help more than 363,000 farm boys observe an anniversary next week.

The youths are members of the Future Farmers of America, composed solely of boys enrolled in vocational agriculture in the country's secondary schools. It was founded here 25 years ago and now calls itself the world's largest farm boy organization.

More than 10,000 of the blue jacketed FFA members will be in Kansas City to hear and see the President Thursday night when he addresses the convention.

It will be exclusively an FFA affair. The delegation will almost fill the municipal auditorium. The FFA president, James Dillon, Jones, La., will introduce Eisenhower.

Earlier Thursday the convention speakers will include Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare.

Tuesday Albert J. Robertson, assistant postmaster general, will unveil a commemorative stamp in honor of the FFA's 25th anniversary. The stamps will go on sale first at the convention.

While their own delegates, two from each state and territory, conduct the business of the convention, the rest of the visiting farm youths will be engaged in competition ranging from public speaking to judging of meat, poultry and livestock. Others will be campaigning for new national officers or swapping farming experiences from Maine to Hawaii.

The organization's most coveted award, the "Star Farmer of America" will be awarded Tuesday night. This $1,000 award will be presented along with three regional titles to winners, who will receive $500 each.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

To get the records straight — and we do understand that quite a few former members have been under the impression that Little Theatre was to occupy a new location this year — this is not true. Since the theatre at Selman Field is still available, and much expense and effort has been spent in the past few years to make it attractive and adequate, the board of directors decided to continue at the Selman Field location.

Next week-end the copy for the Play Books will go to press and an alphabetical listing of the 1953-54 members will be listed therein. Joan Landhy has been working overtime on the big job of processing membership applications and mailing out the membership cards for this season. The time is growing short before the first play of the season.

"Heaven Can Wait," a comedy fantasy in three acts under the direction of Thom Feuerstein, which will open Friday evening October 23, holds promise of getting the new year off to a gay and entertaining start. Mr. Feuerstein and his cast of fourteen are working diligently on the nightly rehearsals. The cast includes in real life an artist, a musician, a laywer, a lady business executive, two college coeds, an engineer, secretary, housewife, two newspaper people and a young man who is secretary in the offices of Ford, Bacon and Davis, all with a common bond; a good show in the making. The diversity of talent participating in community thtatre is one of it's most interesting aspects.

RANDOM NOTES . . . When reservations for "Heavn Can Wait" open Thursday, October 22, the pleasant voice from the box office will belong to Velma Kettenring, wife of Little Theatre board member, Rus Kettenring. She will fill the job of reservations secretary for the run of the first show . . . Director Thom Feuerstein won't be here on the eighth night performance of "Heaven Can Wait." He has reservations to attend the five state Southwest Theatre Conference meeting at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, October 29, 30 and 31, where Acadamy award winner, stage and screen star, Jose Ferrer will be the guest speaker . . . Doctor and Louise Klam left today for Chicago, Ill., where they will attend a medical convention . . . The Dick Troys left Thursday to attend an insurance meeting in the same windy city, but they will detour by Sewanee, Tenn., to see son Ralph and on to Schenectady, N. Y., to visit, Dick, Jr., before going on to Chicago . . . Cast member of "Heaven Can Wait" H. M. "Dusty" Rhodes was out at the Little Theatre the other night peddling lawn markers. It's another project of the enthusiastic Jaycee's and all of the proceeds will go to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund . . . How's about some volunteers to help gather the properties for "Heaven Can Wait?" Gathering props can be as much fun as a treasure hunt . . . This next week is the deadline on the playbooks, so how about getting those lagging memberships into Little Theatre, post office box 868.

Negro Is Held For Illinois Officers

The Ouachita Parish sheriff department is holding a 19-year-old Negro for authorities in Cook County, Illinois, Chief Criminal Deputy Frank Kirby stated Saturday morning. The Negro, identified as Willie Hawkins, is being held in the parish jail.

Apprehended on a warrant charge of burglary, Hawkins was reported yesterday to have signed a waiver of extradition and will be returned to the state of Illinois by deputies from Cook county.

Criticism Concerns Old Pharmacy Board, Secretary Asserts

E. E. Ewing, secretary of the Louisiana board of pharmacy, with offices in Ruston, said Saturday that the report of the state auditor's office, made public last week, was a report of the previous administration and not a report or criticism of the present officers and the board.

The 1953 board took office in fall of 1952 and was forced to operate with a small balance turned over by the old board, which was insufficient to meet current expenses. This explains the apparent deficit and operations in the red as mentioned by the auditor.

Mr. Ewing says the books are now completely modern and are audited by certified accountants and were reported in balance with verified receipts for all expenses at last audit.

Frank G. Rieger of Baton Rouge, president of the board of pharmacy, reports that there is no criticism of Mr. Ewing, secretary of the present board, nor of his office.

Mr. Ewing said there are 19 members of the board and about two thousand registered pharmacists in approximately 1000 drug stores.

Mr. Ewing will attend the convention of the National Association of Retail Druggists in Chicago Oct. 11-16.

This Is Harvest Day For Orphans Home In Ruston

Sunday is Harvest Day at all the Methodist Churches in Louisiana, a day when special collection is taken for the support of the Methodist Orphanage home in Ruston. Twice a year a collection is taken for this purpose on Easter Sunday and in the fall of the year on Harvest Day. These two collections are the sole support of the home other than personal gifts and donations.

The home has cared for 143 children throughout the past year, giving them a well developed program in both physical and spiritual life.

Doubt Is Cast On Oil Reserves In Navy Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—Only one of the four naval petroleum reserves is worthy of the name, Robert W. Smart, chief counsel of the House Armed Services Committee, said today.

At committee hearings last March, some members expressed belief that the Navy should not be in the petroleum business at all. Suggestions have been made that the Navy's oil activities be transferred to the Interior Department.

Naval reserve No. 1—Elk Hills, Calif.—was described by Smart as a "true naval oil reserve."

It is operated under a unit plan contract by the Navy and the Standard Oil Co. of California. In World War II, when opened wide for the first time, the field produce in excess of 100,000 barrels of oil a day. It now has been curtailed to 6,500 barrels daily.

Smart described it as a good field, with three productive horizon The shallow horizon, after producing a large quantity of oil, is estimated to have a remaining potential of 300 million barrels. The next deeper one—the Stevens—has an estimated potential of the same quantity while a still deeper zone—the Carneros—has less potential but its oil is of extremely high grade.

A protective drilling program now is under way at Elk Hills to remedy two defects — water encroachment in the shallow zone on the north and east and migration of oil from the south portion.

After considerable exploration, reserve No. 4, which is in Alaska, is being put on a standby basis. Much of the equipment and most of the naval personnel at the Point Barrow headquarters are being brought home.

More than 50 million dollars has been spent on the reserve and it was planned to spend another 10 million during the coming year.

But while some oil was found, it apparently was not in commercial quantities. Hence, a decision to call off further exploration. Part of the reserve which some geologists believe may have good oil prospects has not been exploded, however.

The Navy's No. 2 reserve at Buena Vista Hills, Calif., is being operated by private producers, with the Navy receiving royalty on both oil and gas.

Navy's No. 3 reserve at Teapot Dome, Wyo., has no production now having been shut down Jan. 8, 1928.

Long Comments On Governor's Contest

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Former Gov. Earl Long visited here today and commented "A lot of people have been soliciting me," when asked if he would run for governor again.

Long said he would attend the Louisiana State University-Kentucky football game tonight.

Questioned about Capitol reports he might seek the governorship in 1955, Long, who lives in Alexandria, replied "I don't know—A lot of people have been soliciting me."

Long has been here most of the week.

Business Given Nudge On Defense Emergency

NEW YORK (AP)—Two official moves in Washington this week served to remind businessmen that the defense emergency isn't over yet.

The railroads got an "urgent request" from Defense Administrator James K. Knudson to add 76,000 new freight cars to their rolling stock. Railroad men were inclined to view the "request" as pretty much of an ultimatum.

The Defense Department announced it is ready to grant fast tax write-off privileges to certain companies for building factories of extra-strong construction as protection against bomb attacks. To qualify for the tax break, plants must be located in officially designated target areas.

These developments came as business activity showed little change from the previous week's tempo. Auto production, paperboard output, bank clearings, money in circulation and retail trade advanced; securities markets moved sideways rather than up or down; scheduled steel production was a shade lower.

Uncertainties were created with many business men by a succession of conflicting statements out of Washington about Russia's hydrogen bomb potential. Many wondered what effect new defense requirements might have on administration plans for lower taxes and a balanced budget.

Somewhat disappointing to businessmen was Treasury Secretary Humphrey's recommendation that the present corporate income tax rate be kept at 52 per cent after March 31 (it's scheduled to drop to 47 per cent) and that excise taxes on automobiles, trucks and cigarettes, also slated for decreases on that date, be continued at present levels.

Auto production zoomed this wee as Chrysler stepped up output of 1954 models. The industry turned out the year's 5 millionth passenger car and set its sights on total 1953 production of 7½ million cars and trucks, despite complaints from certain dealers many of whom were reported offering discounts up to $500 in a frenzied effort to unload 1953 models.

Bulging inventories of automotive steel was blamed for a sharp cutback of steel purchases by the motor industry.

New gasoline price wars — in Oklahoma City and Toledo — pointed up the oil industry's current problem of surplus stocks and excess refining capacity. Allowable crude oil production in Arkansas was cut back 15 per cent.

Better merchandise at attractive prices was promised by the retail industry for the Christmas shopping season. Mid-West retailers indicated that they expected this Christmas to be the best ever. Merchants derived some encouragement from a government report showing personal income of Americans for August well ahead of the annual rate for the first eight months of 1953 and sharply higher than a year earlier. Macy's reported a 74 per cent rise in earnings.

There were predictions of good times ahead for the food business.

Stamp Club To Meet Saturday

The Monroe recreation department will hold the first meeting of the Ouachita Parish Stamp Club on Saturday, October 17, in the recreation hall. The meeting will be from 3 to 5 p.m.

These meetings have been held here every other week for the past several years by George S. Buckner of Sterlington. They are open to all boys and girls of the Twin Cities and outlying areas who are school age and are interested in stamp collecting.

The winter solstice marks the end of the old year and beginning of the new for the Zuni Indians of western New Mexico.

Salvation Army Brings Many High In Rank To City

Many prominent officers of the Salvation Army from away from Monroe are here this Sunday because of the silver anniversary of the Army here and also for the opening of the new Slavation Army home on Harrison Street.

These include the following: Capt George Marshall Jr., Capt. James Wynn, Maj. William Pyke, Brig. Kenneth Howarth, Capt. Roy Marshall, Maj. and Mrs. Frank Longino, Col. Alfred J. Gillard, Capt. Harlan Howarth, Capt. Donald Venville and Capt. Wesley Faulkner.

Engineers say that a temperature difference of only one degree between the walls of your home and the warmer air in the room will cause dirt and dust to settle on the walls.

Latest Note On Peace Conference Sent In Atmosphere Of Futility

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

The latest note to Red China and rth Korea asking them if they lly intend to hold a Korean ace conference went off in an nosphere of futility and skepism.

There are still those, however, o do not accept, as applying to s conference, the general thesis t Russia is complicating things cause she wants no negotiations h the West at this time.

With the Communists, there is ways the difference between not nting agreements and not want negotiations.

You will remember that Russia me to San Francisco for the panese peace conference in spite the fact that she had no intenn of signing.

an Francisco, suggested by the ited States as a possible place the Korean conference, offers Reds a wonderful forum for at they have to say. Nowhere the world is there such a sysn for the dissemination of news in this country.

ince Russia is known to value United Nations highly for this rpose—perhaps the only thing really values it for—it could that she will suddenly decide meeting should be held.

s matters now stand, the Comnists stand convicted of tactics ich might wreck the conference. onus for not going through h this attempt at a settlement. suggested in the Korean truce rument, now rests on them.

f they go into a conference, wever, making high sounding posals as they are accustomed do at the United Nations, and n by delay and obfuscation ce the Allies to end an otherle interminable session, the ds can claim, whether they can make it stick or not, that it is the West which refuses to agree to anything. It's a typical Red tactic.

By not holding the conference the Reds can, of course, make a play on the fact that the United States worked itself into a poor position regarding admission of India and other neutrals to the table. But the United States has never indicated that any circumstance would cause her to refuse to talk at all. She would still have gone to the conference if she had taken the same beating in the United Nations which the Communists took. The Reds won't be able to get around that.

Employers Aid Attendance In Guard Camps

Cooperation of employers in granting employees military leave was largely responsible for the National Guard and the army reserve in the fourth army area accomplishing their most successful summer training program since World War II, fourth army headquarters has revealed.

Considered particularly outstanding was the fact that 95 per cent of the National Guard members and 82 per cent of reservists assigned to units in the army area attended summer encampments.

Lt. Gen. I. D. White, new fourth army commander, in commending employers for acceptance of the concept of military leave for participation in summer training, said:

"Reserve component training is one of the most economical means of securing effective national defense. Employers realize that in supporting the army's program by this policy they are not only creating good will but are practicing sound business."

He pointed out that esprit de corps of reservists and guardsmen also has been greatly strengthened by the cooperation of employers, and that enlistments in the National Guard have shown an increase in excess of 5,000 in the fourth army area since the first of the year.

"In many instances during the summer," General White said, employers made up the difference between military and civilian pay while their employees were at summer encampments."

Commanding general of the corps in Korea before coming to the fourth army, General White praised the outstanding record made by reservists and National Guardsmen in the Korean action. "Their performance and devotion to duty were truly outstanding. They underlined in a magnificent manner the importance of the reserve and National Guard programs to national preparedness."

Wife Of Officer Is Charged With Murder

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Police Chief G. J. Ruppenthal said the wife of a police lieutenant was charged with murder after she shot another woman whom she met while visiting her hospitalized husband.

The officer's wife is Mrs. Evelyn Ryals, about 33, the mother of four children. The victim was Mrs. Betty Thompson, a divorcee about 32.

Ruppenthal said the shooting took place last night across the street from St. Margeret's Hospital, where detective Lt. E. O. Ryals is undergoing treatment.

The two women left the hospital together after an argument, Ruppenthal said Mrs. Ryals told him that she had known for about six weeks that Mrs. Thompson had been "running after" her husband. Mrs. Thompson was the mother of two children.

Mrs. Ryals drove to the police station and gave herself up. Ruppenthal said she had used her husband's revolver in the shooting.

Commercial Tuna Fish Potential Of Gulf Related

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fish and wildlife service officials said today the Gulf of Mexico has been shown to be a potential field for commercial tuna fishing, now concentrated in the Pacific.

They based their conclusion largely on the success of the service's exploratory vessel Oregon this summer in catching both tuna and tuna bait in the Gulf. Availability of natural bait—small sardine-like fish, in this case—is an important consideration in commercial operations.

"The tuna are there at times for fisning on a commercially feasible basis," chief Andrew W. Anderson of the branch of commercial fisheries said in an interview.

"We know now they are there at certain seasons, and in weights ranging around 14 to 16 pounds each which are the ideal weights for canning.

"The commercial fishing would have to be on a seasonal basis, just as it is on the West coast. The tuna would be taken in the northern Gulf in the summer, and in the Caribbean area or off South America in the winter."

Anderson said there is now no commercial tuna fishing in the Gulf but that a tuna cannery is being established in Puerto Rico. It is planned that it will can tuna taken in the Pacific, he said, but the fishing boats on their way to it will no doubt be watching the Gulf waters for possible catches.

"We hav established that there are large schools of tuna in the northern Gulf at times, about a day's run from Mississippi and Louisiana ports," one official said.

"We had thought from previous exploration that most were blackfin but now the finding of bluefin may mean there are more of them than we had thought."

He explained that for canning purposes the choicest variety of tuna is the albacore, taken in the Pacific. Next comes the yellowfin, and the blackfin has meat about comparable to the yellowfin. Next in line probably comes the bluefin, he explained.

265 Films Added To Library At College Here

Recent addition of 265 films to the Northeast State library boosts the number of 16 mm films to 810 in the audio-visual department.

Many subjects are covered in the collection, which is available to schools and organizations. The films are primarily on an educational nature, Mrs. W. W. Ward, librarian, said.

The collection varies in appeal from primary through college and adult levels. Of particular interest to teachers of social studies, the librarian continued, is a current events film, "News Magazine of the Screen," distributed monthly by the Stanolind Oil Company.

In addition to these films the state has deposited a large number of filmstrips for circulation. Estimated at 3500 the strips are being processed and will be ready for circulation at a date to be announced.

A catalogue of films is now available upon request. It provides a subject approach to all materials in the collection and includes pertinent data, such as the grade level to which the pictures will appeal and the running time of the film.

Borrowers may call personally for the films or request them to be mailed by sending a card or letter to the film library of Northeast State or by calling Mrs. Daisy Holloway Daniels at 3-5121, extension 13.

Filmstrips will be available to schools and organizations as soon as they are prepared for circulation. They will then be procured in the same way as films are now borrowed.

Jasper Lodge Largest

OTTAWA — The new central building of Jasper Park Lodge in Alberta Province spreads over four wings and is the largest structure of its type in the world. The main dining room can accommodate 550 guests.

Although built of steel and concrete and having all the refinements of a big-city hotel, the lodge retains a rustic character. It has a combination of fieldstone and log trim and cedar shakes.

CRANBERRYBOOM

HANSON, Mass. (UP) — Southeastern Massachusetts' 1953 chambery crop may be the largest in history. Growers expect to harvest 640,000 barrels, which would represent about two-third of the total national crop.

2 Are Arrested In The Killing Of U. S. Envoy

PUEBLA, Mexico, Oct. 10—(AP)—Police announced today the arrest of two men in the killing a week ago of U. S. diplomat Dr. Ralph B. Swain. They said one of the two had confessed.

Manuel Bernal Flandes, chief of the Puebla state secret police, said Omobono Ologarria confessed shooting Swain during a holdup attempt on the Pan American Highway 150 miles from Mexico City in Puebla state last Saturday. The chief said Ologarria gave information which led to the arrest of Aurello Montezuma Soriano. Both were taken into custody last night.

Bernal Flandes notified U. S. diplomatic authorities and also sent word to Mrs. Swain at (7057 Pershing Ave., University City) St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. Swain went home last Wednesday with her two children and the ashes of her husband. Dr. Swain was a Point Four official in Nicaragua and was returning to his post from a Mexican vacation when shot down by four men engaged in a holdup attempt.

The police chief said Ologarria admitted firing the shot from an automatic shotgun which killed Swain. Ologarria, 27 years old, lives at San Isidro ranch, not far from the scene of the shooting. Neither Ologarria nor Sariano were among the 400 persons rounded up by federal troops right after the murder. Bernal Flandes said information obtained from Ologarria should lead to the arrest of the other two men in the band shortly. He said it was probably no formal charges would be filed until all have been placed in custody.

ASKS STOP ORDER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Fulton (R-Pa) called on foreign air chief Harold Stassen today to stop "immediately" the shipment of American-made jet planes and military aid to Yugoslavia.

Fulton, chairman of the subcommittee on Europe of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said "We're out of our minds" to continue building up Marshall Tito's strength in the face of the current Trieste crisis.

S. E. HOLLOWAY, JR.

S. E. Holloway Is Director Of March Of Dimes

S. E. (Shadow) Holloway will direct the 1954 March of Dimes campaign in Ouachita parish, it was announced today by Mrs. W. W. Stevens, chairman.

Other parish campaign appointments will be announced in the near future by the new director, Mrs. Stevens said.

Mrs. Stevens reported that 23 polio patients, stricken in 1953, had been aided this year in Ouachita Parish. The chapter has received $1,425.00 in emergency aid from the national organization, and will require another $2,000.00 or more, for patient care through December, 1953, this in additional to March of Dimes funds which were exhausted before August of this year.

"Encouraging as scientific advances against pollo have been in recent years," Mr. Holloway pointed out in accepting the appointment, "even with the advent of gamma globulin and the prospect of even more effective preventive measures, a tremendous amount of work remains to be done if we are to achieve final victory."

The 1954 March of Dimes director is associated with Great Southern Life Insurance Company. He received his education at Northeast Junior College and L. S. U., and served in the European Theatre in World War II. Following his return from service, he established his offices in the Bernhardt Building in Monroe. He is a member of the Jaycees, V. F. W., and the local Life Insurance Underwriters Association.

Mr. Holloway is an outstanding young businessman in the Twin Cities, and the Ouachita Parish chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis feels very fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Holloway in leading the March of Dimes in 1954.

Mr. Holloway stated that he was glad to serve as March of Dimes chairman for 1954, and will do everything in his power to exceed previous years' donations.

Mother Offers Child To The Greenleases

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A divorced mother today offered the youngest of her 13 children to the parents of young Bobby Greenlease, who was abducted in Kansas City and later slain.

Mrs. Margaret Darnell, 40, said there was no "strings attached" to her offer. "I just want them to have (seven-month-old) Anthony Paul if it will make their grief lighter," she told the Nashville Tennessean.

The thin, dry-eyed housewife emphasized she would not give the child to anyone but Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Greenlease.

Canada is second only to South Africa in gold production. The precious metal is mined in all but two of Canada's provinces.

Parkerson Heads Northeast State Student Council

Johnnie Parkerson, Northeast State senior of Benton, was elected president of the student council at an organizational meeting of the group this week. Other officials will be chosen at a date yet to be announced.

A. L. Tatum, associate professor of social sciences, is faculty sponsor of the group.

Representatives to the council were recently chosen for a year's term in an all-campus poll. The students include two men and two women from the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes.

Women representing the senior class include Betty Gambrell of Sicily Island, a three-year council member, and Gloria Nell Moore of Winnsboro. Johnnie Parkerson, served the group last year, and Chris Gatzoulas of Monroe, a three-year member, represent the senior men.

Junior class representatives are Thelma Parsons of West Monroe, and Llewellyn George of Monroe, both members of the council last year; Donald Bussey and Bill Harrington, both of Monroe and two-year members of the group.

From the sophomore class are Jo Ann McDonald of Monroe, who also served last year, Carolyn Hudson of West Monroe, Bob Currey and Lloyd Gill, both of Fairbanks.

Freshmen chosen to the council include Sammie Camp of West Monroe, Nell Rogers of Monroe, Ronnie Walters of West Monroe, and John Davis of Chatham.

Mayor Proclaims National Oil Progress Week

In conjunction with the celebration of National Oil Progress Week, beginning Oct. 11 and lasting until the 17th Mayor John E. Coon of Monroe and Mayor J. Allan Norris of West Monroe jointly signed proclamation Friday, designating this week as Oil Progress Week in the Twin Cities.

The proclamation was signed in the presence of the oil progress committee of the Twin Cities, headed by Chairman James Moore, and composed of John Sherrouse Jr., T. L. Highland, and Ted Miller.

The purpose of National Oil Progress Week is to better inform the people about the petroleum industry, its progress, and how it serves the nation. Besides supplying the armed services and America with 306,000,000 gallons of petroleum, annually, countless thousands of products are made from petroleum. Wax, milk containers, cereal boxes, frozen foods, medicines, detergents, insecticides, cosmetics, are all products which represent the use of petroleum. Synthetic fabrics, such as nylon, dacron, and plastics used in making telephones and raincoats are also made from petroleum.

Petroleum is used in the processes of drainage, conservation of our natural resources and terracing. It is also used to a great extent in the reforestation program of our nation. The oil industry carries on a great deal of research in the fields of conservation which is one of its main concerns.

Crude oil, commonly known as gasoline, is one of the most widely used products of petroleum. The gasoline furnished by the oil industry keeps America rolling from day to day. Gasoline, is used for heating and cooking purposes, especially in this area.

During the Oil Progress Week, radio interviews will be heard over all the local radio stations each day. The oil week will be climaxed by a dance on the Virginia Hotel Roof Saturday night featuring Mel Spane and his orchestra. This dance is sponsored by the Desk and Derrick Club of Monroe.

Theolog. Student Will Give Talk At Churches

The Presbyterian Churches of Woodlawn and Fairbanks will have Clark Porter Sunday morning to conduct the worship services and deliver the sermon.

Porter is a second year student at the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Austin, Tex. His home is in North Carolina, and he received his BA degree from Gilford College in that state.

During the war, Porter served four years in the Army Air Force in the South Pacific, China, and Japan theatres.

Mr. Porter plans to receive his bachelor of divinity degree from Austin Seminary in 1955.

Wayne King To Show In Monroe Monday Night

Wayne King, a well - known orchestra leader of the nation, will appear in Monroe, at 8 p.m. Monday in the Neville High School auditorium, under the sponsorship of the Monroe Kiwanis Club.

Wayne King's 1953 popular concert is bringing some sensational new talent to concert stages this fall.

Musical followers everywhere are going to like the John Arthur group, a talented collection of young singers and dancers. It incudes eight young people, four girls and four young men,-each of whom is a soloist and specialist invidivually.

The group, led by the two young men who formed the unit, John Peters and Arthur Gibbs, promises to be the hit of the Wayne King concert.

Gibbs, hailed as one of the finest tenors in the nation, is a veteran radio - television performer. He formerly sang with the St. Louis municipal opera and has appeared in top hotel engagements from coast to coast. The male singing group also includes bass soloist Ed Zumwinkel, late of the Broadway musical production "The Red Mill." He formerly was soloist with the St. Louis municipal opera and the St. Louis symphony orchestra. Then there is a brilliant young singing baritone, Jim Hayes, formerly of the Broadway cast of "Call Me Mister." Hayes is a former solosit with the St. Louis symphony orchestra. He has appeared on numerous radio and television shows and in leading hotel singing engagements. Completing the list of male vocalists is Jim Paisley, who doubles as a baritone singer and exhibition dancer. In addition to his talents as a singer - dancer, Paisley also has frequently performed as a master of ceremonies.

WAYNE KNG, "The Waltz King"

Ken Stevens, the baritone with the Wayne King popular concert of 1953, is the newest sensation of the singing world. Stevens adds to the Wayne King cast of headliners a fine voice, a pleasing personality and a spectacular show business career.

Stevens was a soloist in a Chicago north side church choir before beginning a career that brought him starring roles in motion picture musicals, his own CBS radio show and a rapid rise to the top.

Since then he has appeared with Sonja Henie as vocalist and master of ceremonies of that big ice revue television and commercial films have occupied a great deal of his time.

One of the great tributes paid to a great musical aggregation . . . the Wayne King orchestra of television, radio, night club and personal appearance fame, came in Washington, D. C., last January. That was when the Wayne King bandsmen played at President Eisenhower's inaugural ball, one of the musical groups chosen for that great honor.

Proceeds of this show will go toward the youth activities fund of the Monroe Kiwanis Club, which includes such work as boy and girl scouts activities, junior police work, and under - privileged child work. Tickets are on sale at Walgreen's and Krauss and Cahn. Both reserved seats and general admission tickets are available.

Cowboys Pile Up Margin On Tribe In Big Last Half

By TED HECKATHORN

The McNeese State gridders came to town last night and in a little game of Cowboys and Indians, took the Northeast eleven to camp by a 38-6 margin, before a topcoat crowd at Brown Stadium.

The Indians held the favored Cowboys to a 13-6 first half lead, but the visitors poured on the power in the third and fourth quarters to tally four more touchdowns and one extra point.

McNeese scored first in the opening stanza when Cowboy center Jack Salter blocked an Indian punt behind the goal and fullback Ed Cornier fell on for the six-pointer. End Marvin Krohler's kick from placement was good.

In the second period, after a march starting on the Northeast 32, the Cowboys, with Cornier and halfback Dickie Breaux carrying, moved to the Indians' six, from where Breaux plunged over.

The Indians broke into the scoring column for the first and last time later in the period when tackle Bob Windell blocked a McNeese punt on the visitors' 30, and guard M. R. Cole recovered on the 15. Camillo Detore skirted his own left end to the two, from where Jimmy Childress plunged over. The try for point failed.

A 52-yard dash by McNeese's Cornier in the third quarter carried to the Northeast ten, but a 15-yard clipping penalty set them back to the 25. Quarterback Val Sweeney faded back behind excellent protection, and heaved a pass to end Jimmy Friesen, open in the end zone, for the third Cowboy TD. The kick for point was wide.

Later in the same period, after a poor Northeast kick had traveled to the Indians' 36, Cornier, on two plays, carried to the 12, and Sweeney, on a quarterback keep play, sped around his left end to paydirt. Again the kick from placement was wide.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter, Childress punted to the McNeese ten, where Sweeney gathered it in to speed 90 yards down the east sideline for a touchdown, only to have it called back and nullified by a clipping penalty.

Undaunted, the Cowboys took to the air, and a Sweeney to Krohler pass was good for 13 yards to their own 38, and a screen pass, from Sweeney to Breaux, was complete at the line of scrimmage, the receiver twisting and squirming 58 yards to the Northeast four, where Mark Beatright hauled him down. Breaux skirted right end for the TD on the next play.

The final McNeese score came on a pass interception on the Northeast 35 by Salter. A completed pass, Max Jones to Friesen, carried to the 17, Jones hit through for 16 yards to the one, and on a quarterback sneak, went over on the next play. His kick from placement split the uprights to end the evening's scoring.

Childress and Boaright, from their defensive halfback slots, had to make most of the Indians' tackles, as the visitors piled up 18 first downs to the Indians' five. Ends Ronald Gunter and Ted Jones, tackles Francis Yokum and Sherrod McKoin, guard M. R. Cole, and center Sammy Moore stopped the Cowboy running attack time after time.

Stanford Has No Trouble Beating Winless Beavers

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 10 (AP)—Stanford ran off its second straight Pacific Coast Conference victory, downing hapless Oregon State, 21-0, before a scant crowd of 8,005 today.

It was the fourth straight conference loss for State, which has yet to socre a point this season.

Stanford's quarterback Bob Garrett guided his team to two first-quarter touchdowns, and thereafter the winners coasted with reserves playing much of the game.

The first score came after only 4½ minutes of play. Halfback Ron Cook broke through the center of the line, cut to the right and raced 76 yards to a touchdown with scarcely a hand laid on him.

Garrett passed 20 yards to end John Steinberg for another touchdown in that period. Then much of the first team rested until start of the second half, when the regulars went back into put together a 75-yard scoring drive.

All Cotton States Clubs Protecting Franchises

HELENA, Ark., Oct. 10 (AP)—The president of the Class C Cotton States League declined tonight to predict prospects of continuing the financially troubled loop in 1954.

"All I can say is that all the towns have paid their territorial rights' protection fee to the National Association of minor leagues," said Al Haraway of Helena.

"That doesn't altogether mean anything," said Haraway, adding:

"We really won't know anything until we have a meeting."

The East Arkansas cotton planter said a meeting of league officials usually is held in October, but no definite date has been set.

Haraway said total attendance in the eight-team loop showed about a 14 per cent drop in 1953 under last year's attendance. He attributed the majority of the loss to spring rain-outs.

"We postponed 42 of the first 120 games," he said. "And figuring some 850 people a game—you can't make that up with doubleheaders."

Haraway said Jackson, Miss., still has not decided if it will rebuild its fields, destroyed a few weeks before the season's end during a freak windstorm.

Jackson Manager Willis Hudlin has been discussing moving the CSL franchise to Magnolia, Ark., but Haraway says the proposal "still is in the talking stage."

Other loop teams are El Dorado, Pine Bluff and Hot Springs, Ark.; Greenville, Meridian and Natchez, Miss.; and Monroe, La.

Buckeye Bubble Explodes; Illini Score Upset Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Buckeye football bubble burst with a bang here today as Illinois turned loose its touchdown twins for an astounding 41-20 victory over Ohio State in a Western Conference game.

A crowd of 81,745, seventh largest ever to fill Ohio's big horseshoe, sat stunned as the Illini ran up three touchdowns in the first period, allowed the Bucks three touchdowns in the second quarter, and then won going away.

Two sophomore sensations, halfbacks Mickey Bates and J. C. Caroline scored the six Illinois touchdowns, Bates getting four and Caroline two. The youngsters ran over, under, around and through the big Ohio line as Bates scored on runs of two, 41, four and four yards. Caroline picked his up on a two-yarder following a 24 yard jaunt by Bates, and on a 64 yard dash around end.

Ray Elliott's alert Illini converted three intercepted passes and one fumble into four of their six touchdowns. After Bates had scored twice and Caroline once in the startling first period to give Illinois a 21-0 lead, Ohio turned loose its expected power in the second session to come within an eyelash of tieing the invaders.

Michigan State Barely Defeats Stubborn T. C. U.

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 10 (AP)—Evan Slonac, a slight 170 pounder, scored the tying touchdown and then kicked a vital extra point today as Michigan State made a roaring comeback in the fourth quarter after trailing by two touchdowns to barely beat a surprisingly strong and stubborn Texas Christian team 26-19.

Under-rated Texas Christian led 13-7 at the half and was ahead 19-7 going into the final period on the strength of three touchdown passes.

For awhile it looked as if mighty Michigan State, the defending national champions and a three-touchdown pre-game favorite would be ingloriously dumped, its string of straight wins stopped at 26.

Leroy Bolden scored at the end of a 69 yard drive to put the Spartans in striking distance. Slonac took a pass from quarterback Tommy Yewcic and sprinted 34 yards to make it 19-19. Slonac then booted the all important extra point.

All the pre-game thinking had been that the game would be a romp for Michigan State, just a workout for the Spartan substitutes. But Coach Biggie Munn had to play his first string "pony back" in the fourth period to save his squad from the first defeat since 1950.

Slonac intercepted a pass on the MSC 35-yard line to give Michigan State a chance to make its insurance touchdown. Yewic passed to Jimmy Ellis from the TCU 5 yard line for the final score.

Epps Leads Way As Pitt Masters Huskers 14 To 6

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10 (AP)—Five fumble recoveries and the bull-like charges of stocky Bobby Epps enabled Pitt to whip Nebraska 14-6 today for its first victory.

The Pitt Panthers marched 66 yards after the opening kickoff for a touchdown and tallied again with only four seconds remaining in the game. Fullback Epps ripped over the goal line from one foot out for Pitt's initial score and set up the second with a 20-yard scamper off tackle.

Henry (Model-T) Ford squirmed over from the one foot mark with the seconds ticking out to cap an 85-yard drive for the Panthers' second touchdown. Paul Blanda converted both extra points.

The Cornhuskers from Nebraska tallied their lone touchdown in the third period. Quarterback John Bordogna smached over from one foot out after Ray Novak intercepted Ford's pass.

A crowd of 20,666 including coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame, saw the Cornhuskers throw away three scoring opportunities by fumbling. Leahy's Irish play Pitt at South Bend, Ind., next Saturday.

Huskies Surprise U. S. C.; Favorites Lucky To Get Tie

SEATTLE, Oct. 10 (AP)—Startled and stunned by the upstart Huskies of Washington, the outplayed Southern California Trojans desperately needed two long runs by Aramis Dandoy and Lindon Crow to salvage a 13-13 tie today in their Pacific Coast Conference football clash.

Mighty Troy, seventh ranked nationally, made only nine yards from scrimmage and no first downs in the first half and logged very little more than that in the last two quarters.

But the break the Trojans needed came on the opening kickoff of the second half.

Dandoy fumbled the boot on the S. C. 30, but scooped it up, skirted a pileup of players and rambled 70 yards to score.

U. S. C. still trailed, 13-6, at the start of the fourth quarter. Then Sandy Lederman, Washington's southpaw sophomore quarterback, was rushed on an attempted pass. He got the ball away but Crow hauled it out of the air on the Trojan 22 and loafed down the sideline to the goal unmenaced by Husky tacklers.

California Rudely Drops Penn From Undefeated Ranks

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10 (AP)—A big, fast California football team, skillfully piloted by Paul Larson, rudely removed Pennsylvania from the undefeated ranks today 40-0.

The overwhelming score was a big surprise. The teams were rated all even before the game.

Jerry Drew, a third-string halfback, made the most spectacular touchdown of the day in the last period when he swung around left end and raced 91 yards.

This was the worst defeat suffered by Pennsylvania since Army's great 1945 team ran wild 61-0. Both teams were big but California's superiority in speed was decisive.

Coach Pappy Waldorf of California used his entire traveling squad of 35 men while Penn had 34 in the game.

Oklahoma Weathers Late Texas Offensive To Win

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 10 (AP)—Oklahoma's ball - handling Houdinis rolled up 19 points on glittering rushes by Merrill Green and Tom Carroll and Texas fumbling then hung on desperately for a 19-14 victory today in the forty-eighth renewal of this ancient football rivalry.

For three quarters the Sooners, with Gene Calame as the master magician, had the Longhorns almost completely baffled with the way they handled the pigskin. A Texas fumble set up one Sooner score, Green ran 80 yards with a punt for the second and Carroll skipped 48 yards for the third.

Then, in the final minutes, the Longhorns, with sophomore Charley Brewer, a passing, running wizard from Lubbock of the Texas plains country, in the driver's seat, rolled to two touchdowns. The first was on a 20-yard throw from Brewer to Delano Womack. Brewer's passing also set up the second Texas touchdown.

A crowd of 75,504 roared in the Cotton Bowl as the gallant Longhorns put on their garrison finish. But it just wasn't enough.

L. S. U., Kentucky Tie 6-6

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 10 (AP)—An inspired Kentucky football team refused to crumble before Louisiana State University's hard-charging line and fought favored LSU to a 6-6 deadlock tonight.

Jarring fullback Jerry Marchand of LSU rumbled 24 yards to a touchdown within the first five minutes, climaxing a 62-yard march he sparked all the way.

Kentucky, thrown for losses as its attack faltered in the first half, surged back late in the second quarter, opening LSU's line with a canny mixture of passes and end runs to draw even at halftime.

Brought downfield by a series of Bob Hardy-to-Steve Meilinger passes, Kentucky got its touchdown on fullback Ralph Paolone's 16-yard sprint through the middle.

Quarterback Al Doggett of LSU and center Tommy Adkins both missed their conversion attempts.

LSU's ground game was stymied and confused most of the game by its errors and Kentucky defenses.

The crowd of 38,000 LSU partisans found much to cheer about, however, in the LSU defensive play, which brought almost as much yardage without the ball as the offensive play did with it.

LSU made a hair-raising goal line stand in the final seconds to frustrate Kentucky's most serious threat.

Meilinger, Kentucky's versatile end-halfback-quarterback kept his mates moving throughout with his pass receiving, booming punts and a key interception that ended a third period LSU drive.

The 220-pounder played at halfback against LSU and was a one-man power.

Kentucky, outrushed 185 yards to 87, managed to pile up 129 yards in the air, while holding LSU to a minus one yard passing.

The passing attack was quarterbacks Hardy and Herby Hunt, who took turns throwing to Meilinger.

LSU, a 13-point favorite at gametime, managed to salvage its undefeated record through the efforts of guard Paul Miller and the rest of the 215-pound line.

The bruising line kept Kentucky from grouping its 12 first downs into a second scoring march. Jarring tackles produced Kentucky fumbles and losses at key moments.

LSU, wallowing in penalties and interceptions on offense, was never a serious threat after its early touchdown. The game was marred by numerous penalties.

It wasn't much of a birthday celebration for Mike, LSU's Bengal Tiger who finished his 18th year on the campus.

Georgia Tech Trounces Crippled Tulane, 27 To 1

2 Scoring Passes By Brigman Lead Jackets' Triumph

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10 (AP) —Quarterback Bill Brigman returned today from one-platoon obscurity to throw two touchdown passes and lead unbeaten Georgia Tech to a 27-13 victory over a gallant but outmanned Tulane football team.

After a slow, fumbling start, Tech gathered speed under the lash of Brigman's accurate throwing arm and then staved off a determined final-quarter comeback by Tulane's crippled Green Wave.

Brigman's 18-yard scoring pass to halfback George Volkert gave Tech a 14-6 halftime lead and his 13-yard toss to end Bill Sennett assured Tech of 30 games without a loss.

Out-manned Tulane played the last half without its starting backfield but untried reserves scrapped back to within one touchdown of the flying Tech team.

The game matched Tech's defending Sugar Bowl champions against the winner of the first New Year's Day game in New Orleans, in a climax to Sugar Bowl Appreciation Week.

Each team used breaks to score its first touchdown, with Brigman's passing setting fire to a Tech offensive that had gone dead when Tulane forged ahead 6-0 on fullback Ronnie Kent's one-yard scoring buck in the opening quarter.

Brigman took over after Tech scored its first touchdown on fullback Glenn Turner's diving four-yard buck, which started on the Tulane 36 when Larry Morris intercepted a Greenie pass by Pete Clement, the quarterback.

The 178-pound Tech junior covered 50 of the 60 yards in Tech's scoring drive with a pass to end Sam Hensley, eating up 32 yards and setting up his touchdown toss to Volkert.

After Tech recovered a bad Tulane center pass on the Tulane 15 in the third quarter, Brigman threw a 13-yard pass to Sennett for a score. That put Tech ahead 21-6 and injected life into the Tech offense.

Tech's final touchdown came in the last period on the passing of Mitchell and the running of Turner. The drive covered 62 yards with Mitchell passing to end Henry Hair and halfback Billy Teas and Turner smashing off gains to move to the Tulane three. Turner cracked over guard for the score.

Quarterback Pepper Rodgers converted after the first two touchdowns and Turner after the third.

Tulane entered the game with three injured first stringers, including halfback Max McGee. Before halftime, they were joined by Kent, quarterback Ray Weidenbacher and triple-threat halfback Lester Kennedy.

Weidenbacher sent Tulane into a 6-0 first quarter lead. The 17-yard scoring drive was set up by two Tech fumbles, the first on the opening kickoff. Tulane recovered on the 37, moved to the 12 and lost the ball on downs. But Tech fumbled on its first play and Tulane recovered a second time, this time on the 17. Weidenbacher ran to the three after being apparently trapped and three plays later Kent smashed across.

Hensley blocked the conversion attempt.

Quarterback Pete Clement, last year's starter, sparked the patched up Tulane eleven to its second touchdown. The 75-yard drive saw Clement carry four times for 35 yards and pass three times for 25. Halfback Bobby Saia cracked guard for the touchdown and Clement converted.

Football Season Claims 6th Life As Prep Ace Dies

EAGLE GROVE, Iowa, Oct. 10 (AP)—Football claimed its third life within a week when 17-year-old Gene Hinrichsen, quarterback and co-captain of the Eagle Grove High School team died last night of injuries suffered in a game with Iowa Falls.

Hinrichsen was the sixth football player whose death was reported since the start of practice this season and the third within a week.

On Friday, Oct. 2—a week before —John Poppas, 19-year-old Boston University guard, collapsed during a game with Syracuse University and died a few hours later. His injury was diagnosed as a rare mid-brain hemmorhage.

Tuesday Joseph Higgs, a medical student at Fisk University died of injuries suffered in a campus pick-up game. His parents in Racine, Wis., said he had suffered a brain concussion in the game, Sept. 20.

Hinrichsen, a star in basketball as well as football, was injured when he was tackled by an Iowa Falls player in the first quarter of last night's game and was carried from the field. He died in a hospital three hours later.

This was only the second death in a regularly scheduled game this season. Two others resulted from practice injuries and one high school player, Charles Blythe of Peekskill, N. Y., collapsed and died while jogging around the track in 100 degree heat on Sept. 1.

James Schwee, 14-year-old freshman at Creighton Prep High School in Omaha died Sept. 14 of injuries suffered in a tackling drill. The next day Yuighire Doi, 20-year-old freshman at Midland College, Fremont, Neb., died of practice injuries. Doi, whose home was Honolulu, was hurt making a tackle.

Army Conquers Dartmouth With Last Half Show

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP) —Pistol Pete Vann ripped open a rugged defensive battle with three touchdown passes and sophomore Paul Lasley added the crusher with a 42-yard run today as Army, held scoreless through the first half, smothered Dartmouth, 27-0, at Michie Stadium.

It wasn't until 12 minutes had gone in the third period that the Cadets were able to crack the New Englanders battlements and Vann did it with a 10-yard scoring heave to towering Bob Mischak, who set up the score by recovering a fumble on Dartmouth's 30.

Score by quarters:

Army scoring: touchdowns, Mischak 2, Holleder, Lasley. Conversions, Chesnauskas 2, Glock.

FUMBLES HELP

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 10 (AP)—West Virginia cashed in on fumbles for three of its six touchdowns today in scoring a 40-14 victory over a stubborn Washington and Lee football team.

Double-Main Event On Tuesday Grapple Card

A double-main wrestling feature is on tap for Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena, with Jack "Stinger" Steele going against a newcomer, Danny Novak, in one match; and Jack Hader, a former tag team villian on the local scene, wrestling popular ex-light heavyweight champion, Rex Mobley.

Both matches will be two falls of three to win, with an hour and 15 minutes time limit, and affable Bill Barney, the West Monroe Garage owner, is slated to officiate both bouts.

Novak, who hails from Atlanta, Ga., has not previously appeared in Monroe, though he holds an impressive record in the Shreveport rings. Going against the villainous "Stinger" he must indeed be impressive in all departments, for Steele knows all the angles of the trade and then some. In his last match here, with Mobley, he gave Rex a rough battle for two and one-half falls, only to lose by manhandling the referee, thus incurring the latter's ire and receiving a quick three-count a moment later.

Mobley, who always keeps his grappling lily - white here, and thereby is a great favorite, takes on another villain when he meets Hader. The Missourian, when paired with such notorious unpopularites as Pat Cronin and Jack Kelly, always managed to give the heroes, then Jack and George Curtis, a hard match, and is not hesitant to use any tactics known, such as hair pulls, gouging, slugging, etc., to all of which Mobley is by now accustomed.

Princeton Wins Over Rutgers With Safety

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 10 (AP) —Art Pitts blocked Don Duncan's fourth down punt for a winning safety in the third period today as Princeton rallied to down Rutgers 9-7 in the 45th renewal of college football's oldest rivalry.

Trailing 7-0 at half time, Princeton marched 45 yards in seven plays after Capt. Homer Smith returned the second half kickoff 37 yards. Dick Frye skirted end from the eight for the touchdown.

The aroused Princeton team shoved Rutgers deep into its own territory on the 19 late in the third period. Duncan, forced to punt on fourth down, kicked but the ball bounced off the chest of the driving Pitts past the end zone for an automatic safety.

Tar Heels Rise In Last Period To Take Battle

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Oct. 10 (AP)—North Carolina stormed from behind with two last period touchdowns today to defeat Wake Forest 18-13 behind the spectacular running of Halfback Connie Gravitte.

Gravitte was the big gun in North Carolina's third consecutive win and its first over the Deacons since 1949. He ripped off a 40-yard run that set up the first Tar Heel score. In the fourth period Gravitte rambled 42 yards on a spectacular punt runback that set up the winning touchdown on Wake Forest's 24. Five plays later Ken Keller dived over for the winning score.

Score by quarters:

North Carolina	0	6	0	12—18
Wake Forest	7	0	6	0—13

North Carolina scoring: touchdowns, Parker, Motta, Keller.

Wake Forest scoring: touchdowns, Hillenbrand, Stowers. Conversion, George.

Colgate Has Worst Start In 63 Years

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 10 (AP) —Captain Dick Clasby ran for three touchdowns and passed for the other today as Harvard subjected Colgate to its third consecutive setback, 28-26.

While that great triple-threat was turning in the best offensive performance a Crimson player has given in 22 years, Colgate's football history hit a new low. It marked the first time in 63 years the Red Raiders have lost their first three games in any season.

Score by quarters:

Colgate	13	0	0	13—26

Colgate scoring: touchdowns, Fox, Lalla, Cooley, Nardulli. Conversions, Nardulli 2.

Hardvard scoring: touchdowns, Clasby 3, Hardy. Conversions, J. Ross 4.

Legion Traffic Survey

'Top Ten' Suggestions Announced

The American Legion traffic survey rounded out another week yesterday with public response "still growing," according to an announcement from the L. B. Faulk post's safety committee.

That announcement came with the release of the "top ten" traffic suggestions of the week, which were released last night. The ten recommendations were selected by the safety committee from letters and post cards sent to the post by citizens of Monroe.

Another "top ten" suggestions will be released next Saturday from letters and cards that come in during the next week.

The project is being conducted by L. B. Faulk Post 13 as part of the Legion's "Americanism program."

Top ten recommendations this week were:

1. Install yellow walk lights for pedestrains at main intersections.

2. Allocate revenue from parking meters to provide parking lots or garages in the future in order to remove parked vehicles from streets, thereby facilitating a faster flow of traffic.

3. Install a system at Georgia Tucker School similar to that at Lexington School whereby parents calling for children at 2:40 p.m. need not block North Fourth and North Fifth streets while waiting.

4. Improve traffic control at Louisville, DeSiard and Sterlington road intersections during rush hours.

5. Place a red reflector light near the tree on College avenue where a man was killed a few months ago.

6. Make Harrison street one-way from Hall street to St. John.

7. Install caution blinker where Jackson street and Lee avenue intersects at Barkdull Faulk School.

8. Install traffic light at Hall and Harrison.

9. Change traffic lights on Louisville to three blocks of red lights and three blocks of green lights between Riverside and North Sixth street.

10. Greater use of safety patrols in enforcing traffic laws and rules of courtesy.

The San Francisco 49ers will make their only New York appearance this year when they meet the football Giants in the Polo Grounds on Sept. 17.

Expert On Soil Resigns Position

FORT WORTH, Oct. 10—UP—Louis P. Merrill, top soil saving expert in the southwest, Saturday resigned as regional director of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS), and said he had "no desire to attend a wake" for the SCS and its conservatiin districts.

His reference to a "wake" referred to apparently well-founded reports the past week from Washington that Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson plans to abolish the seven regional offices of SCS.

Merrill said he wired his resignation Friday to Robert M. Salter, chief of the SCS in Washington, and asked to be relieved of his duties by next Friday. He said he plans to enter private business.

Merrill would not comment on the Washington reports, but added that he had no intention of being party "to a plan of tearing the service apart."

Merrill has been director of the Fort Worth office of region four of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma, and his 347 districts coverng 262,086,793 acres.

Before joining the SCS, Merill was agriculture director of the Tyler Chamber of Commerce and a vocational agriculture teacher at Tyler. He is a graduate of Tarleton State College and of Texas A&M.

When Native Dancer scored at Arlington Park he boosted his 3-year-old earnings to $428,075, which amount was $229,000 more than any other horse won during 1953.

Dixie Progress Celebration Is Staged By Sears

Paying tribute to the South's rapidly expanding importance as the manufactures of the products the whole world uses, and highlighting the degree Sears, Roebuck and Co. depends on Dixie - made goods to stock its counters, Sears retail stores in 10 southern states are staging their fourth annual Dixie Progress celebration. The event will coutinue through Saturday C. D. McAdams, manager of the local store, has announced.

The Monroe store, Confederate flags flying, is decking out each department in the store for the celebration. Sears merchandise made in Louisiana is spotlighted in each department and all merchandise made in the south is identified.

"The impressive number of articles made in Louisiana is a graphic illustration of the growing importance that Louisiana has in supplying merchandise to Sears and other distributors," McAdams said. "It will point up visually the fact that Sears in 1952 purchased over $5,754,000 worth of goods from 33 manufacturers."

"These millions of dollars of purchases by Sears from Louisiana manufacturers represent a wide variety of consumer goods. They are purchased from a total of 33 different firms located in 14 towns and cities," McAdams pointed out. "The fact that so many different plants, products and cities are represented in the total shows the increasing diversity of our state's industrial capacity, and helps make the industry - agriculture balance more healthy in Louisiana."

"Particularly noteworthy," McAdams said, "is the fact that not only did Louisiana manufacturers sell substantially more goods to Sears than last year, but every southern state showed a considerable increase in purchases by Sears in 1952."

"Sears was among the first companies to encourage decentralization of industry. The top quality of the products manufactured by Louisiana sources, in addition to the fact that Sears has steadily increased its purchases in the south during the past years, indicates that we plan to continue buying as much southern - made merchandise as possible."

"As a matter of fact, in many southern states, Sears buys far more in that state than the company sells. If you think of these purchases in terms of new jobs created, and better living for the people of Louisiana, you can see the significance of the encouragement Sears and many other distributors have given to manufacturing in the south. And you can see why Dixie Progress deserves a celebration."

4 Grid Battles On Brown Field's Card This Week

Lions, Irish, Rebs, Northeast Indians Get Home Battles

Twin City football fans get a big dose of the fall sport this week with four games on home soil Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A grid double header is on tap for Friday with the West Monroe High School Rebels entertaining a vastly improved Pineville Rebel eleven at 2:30 p.m. at Brown Field. Friday night, on the same field, the Ouachita Parish High School Lions will entertain Fair Park of Shreveport in a district Class AA conference battle, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Western Kentucky, one of the nation's top ranked smaller colleges last year, will move into Monroe for a Saturday night engagement with Northeast Louisiana State which will play an underdog role with the invaders favored to make it two straight over the Tribe. The Bowling Green, Ky., team defeated Northeast in a hard fought game in Kentucky last year in their first meeting.

The opener on the home card this week will be the Thursday night scramble between the Fighting Irish of St. Matthew's and the improving Start High School Owls.

In roles of visitors will be the Neville High School Tigers who go to Ruston for a renewal of their traditional rivalry with the Ruston High Bearcats Friday night, and the Louisiana Training Institute Pelicans who will journey to Vidalia Thursday night to engage the Vidalia High Viking.

Ouachita, barely beaten in a last quarter surge by Haynesville, 14-7, last Friday night faces the possibility of entering the Fair Park game as the favorite. The Shreveport Indians fared far worse against Haynesville than did the Lions.

Pineville, a 7-6 conquerer of Rayville Friday night, is certain to rule as favorite over the West Monroe eleven which lost to Rayville earlier in the season, 31-0.

The Start Owls, currently boasting the district's leading Class B scorer in Leonard Sullivan, will be heavy favorites to win their fifth straight game against the lightly-manned St. Matthew's eleven which has won one and tied one in four starts.

Neville wasn't looking its usual self in beating a surprisingly strong Farmerville team, 14-12, last Friday, lending weight to some beliefs that the Tigers, who have been finding it mighty difficult to beat Ruston teams, will find the Bearcats hard to hold. Ruston will be after its sixth straight victory at the expense of the once-beaten Tigers.

Only Louisiana Training Institute looms as possibly a sure favorite from the home town, but Vidalia has been steadily improving since its debut in football last year. The Vikings will give the little Pels a tough fight.

Auburn Finishes In Rush To Tie Mississippi State

STARKVILLE, Miss., Oct. 10 (AP)—A slashing, digging, diving Auburn attack overcame a 14-point Mississippi State lead today to gain a 21-21 tie with Jack Parker's high-riding Maroons.

In the Cinderella finish, the resurging Plainsmen led by second string quarterback Bobby Freeman and a twisting halfback named Fob James, closed a 14-point deficit to grab the tie.

For three quarters of the game, crafty Jack Parker, State's All-America contender, had baffled the tough Auburn team with super-slick handoffs and pitchouts resulting in three touchdowns.

Late in the third period, second string halfback Bob Duke took a kickoff on the Auburn Goal line and behind the broad back of center Jack Locklear, lumbered up the sideline 100 yards for the first Auburn score. Joe Davis converted and Auburn went into the last period trailing by 14 points.

George Atkins, late in the fourth period, blocked a Parker punt at the State 30 that dribbled all the way back to the six where end Jim Pyburn grabbed it and stepped over for Auburn's second score. Bill Burbank kicked the point.

In the closing seconds of the game—actually when the clock showed the game was over—Freeman smashed through the line from the two for the third touchdown. Davis stepped back and kicked the all-important conversion for the tie.

The torrid tension of the closing seconds broke into a fight on the field as Auburn rooters poured out to grab the goal posts. The band played the Star Spangled Banner and police quickly broke up the melee.

Auburn	0	0	7	14	—21

Auburn scoring: touchdowns, Duke, Pyburn, Freeman. Conversions, Davis 2, Burbank.

Mississippi State scoring; touchdowns, Suda, Wilson, Parker. Conversions, Parker 3.

Ruel New General Manager In Camp Of Detroit Tigers

DETROIT, Oct. 10 (AP)—Herold D. (Muddy) Ruel, director of the Detroit Tiger minor league farm system, today was named general manager and vice president of the Tigers since 1951, will remain with the club in an advisory position with the title of vice president.

Briggs Stadium front office spokesmen said John J. McHale, who has been Ruel's assistant, will take over as director of the Bengal farm system.

Gehringer, who succeeded Billy Evans, as Tiger general manager in the fall of 1951, will not devote full time to his private business as industrial representative.

The 57-year old Ruel played for the St. Louis Browns, New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox, and the Tigers in a long baseball career which started in 1915.

Gophers Surprise Wildcats As Giel, McNamara Glitter

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 10 (AP)—Minnesota, with Paul Giel and Bob McNamara providing a terrific one-two punch, jarred Northwestern into a 30-13 Big Ten football defeat today.

It was the Wildcats' first loss in three contests.

Winning its first game in three outings this season, Minnesota scored twice in the last three minutes of the opening quarter and was never seriously threatened thereafter.

All-America Giel and his underrated halfback partner, McNamara, tore off yardage almost at will in shattering Northwestern's defenses. Giel hit on touchdown passes of 15 yards to McNamara and six to Bob Rutford as well as scoring on a four-yard run himself.

Northwestern, the nation's No. 1 total offense leader with an average gain of 466.5 yards in victories over Iowa State and Army, was held to 292 by the Gophers.

Score by quarters:

Minnesota	14	0	0	16	—30
Northwestern	0	7	6	0	—13

Minnesota scoring: touchdowns, Giel, B. McNamara, Rutford, McElroy. Conversions, Cappelletti, 4. Safety, Thomas (tackled by Holtz).

Barger Big Show As Duke Defeats Purdue, 20 To 14

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 10 (AP)—Quarterback Jerry Barger, who regained his starting role two weeks ago when golden Boy Worth Lutz was injured, went on a fourth-period rampage today to lead unbeaten Duke to a 20-14 victory over Purdue's battling Boilermakers.

Barger scored the deciding touchdown with 40 seconds to play, running wide around end on a keep play.

Earlier in the fourth quarter, Barger and halfback Red Smith got together on a 49-yard pass play to break a 7-7 tie that had existed from the opening minutes of the second period.

Purdue, seeking its first victory in three games this year, came storming back with a 70-yard drive that tied the score with less than six minutes to go. Halfback Karl Herkommer smashed over from the two for the score and quarterback Roy Evans converted to tie it up.

Then Barger rolled into action. He sparked the 10-play Duke drive with an amazing 21-yard run to the Purdue 45 after seemingly being trapped on his own 30. Eight running plays after that, Duke had its winning touchdown that sent the partisan crowd of 30,000 home happy.

Score by quarters:

Purdue	7	0	0	7	—14

Purdue scoring: touchdowns, Brock, Herkommer. Conversions, Reichert, Evans.

Duke scoring: touchdowns, Pascal, J. Smith, Barger. Conversions, J. Smith 2.

Navy Shows Air Power To Thump Cornell, 26 To 6

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP)—Navy embellished its stern defense with a newly found passing attack to recover from an early mishap and whipped Cornell today 26-6.

The Midshipmen scored three times on the ground with Fullback Joe Gattuso rushing to a pair of touchdowns, but the aerials kept them moving.

True to Coach Eddie Erdelatz's pre-game word, Navy took to the air for the first time this season with any consistency. And when the previously high-geared running attack sputtered quarterbacks John Weaver and George Welsh hounded Cornell's secondary with passes.

Gattuso was the Middies' workhorse, his backing up on defense matching his quick, powerful sorties with the ball. The 178-pound junior tallied twice in the third preiod, plowing over for two yards to put Navy safely ahead at 13 to 6 and then scooting 33 yards off tackle to dash all Cornell hopes.

Score by quarters:

Navy	0	7	12	7	—26
Cornell	6	0	0	0	— 6

Navy scoring: touchdowns, Craig, Gattuso 2, Anderson. Conversion, Weaver, Textor.

Cornell scoring: touchdown, Walter.

NITTANY TRIUMPHS

BOSTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — Quarterback Tony Rabos' pin-point passing accounted for three touchdowns and set up a fourth today as Penn State rolled to a 5-13 victory over Boston University to spoil the Terriers' football debut at their new Braves Field home before 12,338 homecoming fans.

Alert Virginia Sophs Head Win Over Colonials

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Virginia's wide-awake sophomores beat a butter-fingered George Washington eleven 24-20 today to score its first victory of the season after two setbacks.

The pattern for play was set on the opening scrimmage of the game when a GW back fumbled deep in his own territory and halfback Henry Strempek pounced on the loose pigskin for a Virginia touchdown.

Then, for the rest of the afternoon the alert Virginians made hay out of the GW mistakes for an upset victory that dropped the Colonials from the nation's unbeaten ranks.

Score by quarters:

Virginia	12	0	6	6	—24
G.W.	0	7	6	7	—20

Virginia scoring: touchdowns, Strempek, Potter, Moyer, Bailey.

Vanderbilt Falls Before Ole Miss To Tune Of 28-6

OXFORD, Miss., Oct. 10 (AP)—Mississippi, sparked by the running of halfback Earl Blair and the defensive line play of senior Crawford Mims, rolled to a decisive 28-6 victory over Vanderbilt today.

Blair, a 5-foot, 10-inch sophomore from Pascagoula, brought a homecoming crowd of 20,000 to its feet as he snagged passes and ran for two Rebel touchdowns in the second period.

Mims, a 200-pound guard, shared with two blocked kicks, one of which sophomore end Bob Adams fell on for a touchdown as it rolled into the end zone.

The Rebels scored twice in the first period on Harol Lofton's 11-yard run and Mims' blocked kick. Ray James tackled Charlie Horton in the end zone to score a safety for Ole Miss in the third period.

Vandy's score came in the second quarter on a 62-yard end sweep by right halfback Bill Krietemeyer.

MISS OLA M. PENNINGTON

Veteran Teacher To Spend Year In India

By H. H. Brinsmade

When the Ouachita Parish High School opened for the fall term recently, there was absent a much loved and capable teacher who has served as Social Science instructor for twenty-four years. Outside of a few persons, and the principal and superintendent of parish schools, no one knew why Miss Ola Mae Pennington was absent from her post of duty. But this was strictly in keeping with Miss Pennington's modest nature. She was disinclined when she reached retirement stage last May, to have it broadcast through the press that she was leaving her post on the parish high school faculty.

Now, however, she is willing to let it be known that on October 28 she will sail from New York on the "Queen Elizabeth" for Southampton, England, the first step on the route to India where she goes to spend a year with her sister and brother-in-law. The latter is Dr. Maussei, agricultural engineer in the Allahabad College, Allahabad, India. This is a large college and the first one in Asia to teach scientific agriculture.

The trip from England to Bombay, India will be made in the "Strathmore," a luxurious boat although not so widely known as the "Queen Elizabeth" that makes trips between England and India. When the boat arrives in Bombay, Miss Pennington will be met by her relatives who will proceed with her to their home.

This Monroe school teacher anticipates a highly educational trip and visit that will open to her another world. Through the years she has kept in close contact with her sister, who with her husband has visited Monroe in times past and made many friends here.

Miss Pennington hopes to be able to aid her sister who in addition to some instructional duties at the college, puts in many hours each month in missionary work. Her husband also carries on similar duties in addition to his instruction in agriculture. A study, with idea of proving helpful, to these unusual people comprises a part of the purpose of this trip by Miss Pennington. She is taking a camera and plans to get many views to bring home on her return and in the trip back to the United States she will visit the Holy Land and also many of the countries of Europe.

The usual details that are required in making a trip abroad had to receive attention before she could embark on her voyage half way around the world. . . . Passports are required and also medical requirements had to be complied with. In the matter of arranging the trip, J. A. Combs, city ticket agent of the Missouri Pacific railroad in Hotel Virginia, proved most helpful.

"I just hated to call it finished as far as teaching is concerned, but I desired to be able to take a little vacation and see some other countries before I get so old I won't be able to travel," she explained.

Many friends have given parties and showered the veteran teacher with presents, for this for her is a double event in her life, her retirement and the big trip abroad.

A word about Miss Pennington's earlier career is timely. She was born in Missouri and educated at the University of Missouri, where she received both her bachelor's and master's degrees.

Her first teaching was back in 1911—and with the exception of one year which she took off to obtain her master's degree, she has taught continuously from the time she began to teach up to last May.

Her pupils have admired her and sought valuable advice from her at many times in their lives when she was about the only person in whom they could confide. She was ever a valuable counselor.

In the First Methodist Church she was for years an active leader. She was prominent in the Wesley Service Guild and in Parker Memorial Sunday School class. In both of these she has in the past served as president. In an other group, Miss Pennington has been active. This is the A. A. U. W.&the American Association of University women. She has been president of this group for a two-year term.

Early this week, Miss Pennington will leave for Cleveland, O., where she is to make a brief visit in the home of a niece. After this she goes to New York to board the ocean liner.

The unnumbered friends of this fine educator will wish her "Bon Voyage" and the hope that she will return a year later endowed with a great volume of information about the many countries she has visited.

She maintains a home at 111 Filer Street, Monroe, which, while she is away, will be occupied by a friend, also a school teacher.

ELDERLY NEIGHBORS WED

MANISTEE, Mich. (UP) — For years, Adelbert Wilson, 92, and Emily Rust, 72, were neighbors in this western Michigan community but never met. Last year, both happened to be on vacation at the same time in Sanford, Fla., where they became acquainted. Back in Michigan recently, they applied for a marriage license.

The first boys' choirs in the United States were those which supplied music for the mission churches of New Mexico.

Hundreds of families in the Twin Cities have bought and built homes during the past summer months. Outstanding among these are the younger couples who have moved into new homes. Today's pictures are typical of families recently established in modern residences.

Miss Mangham, Jay Ferringer Say Vows

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Jean Mangham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Mangham to Jay Ferringer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Ferringer of Falls Creek, Pa., was celebrated Sunday afternoon September 27th in the College Place Baptist Church. Reverend Walter G. Mangham, Jr., brother of the bride and Reverend Earl Ogg, pastor of the church, officiated at the 3 o'clock ceremony.

The chancel was banked with greenery and at either side were large clusters of white gladioli. Candelabra holding lighted candles were also used for decoration.

The bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. She was wearing a gown of white chantilly lace and tulle and a finger tip veil of illusion which fell from a Juliet cap of pearls. Her dress was made with a fitted jacket of lace over a full patio length tulle skirt. Her bridal bouquet was of white tube roses and white glamelias tied with satin streamers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Doy Hoyem, her dress was of orchid tulle and lace. She carried a bouquet of orchid and purple asters tied with rainbow satin ribbons. Mrs. Louis Yeldell, the other attendant of the bride wore a similar gown. Miss Betty Richardson in a patio length aqua tulle and lace frock and Miss Ann Branch in pink were the candlelighters. They both wore an orchid wrist corsage.

Mr. Ferringer had as his best man, Don Hoyem. Groomsmen were Louis Yeldell and Roland Kelly.

Before the entrance of the bride, Max Dillingham sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because." Mrs. C. L. Dillingham, organist, played a medley of nuptial selections and the traditional wedding marches.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Mangham were hosts at a reception in the church parlors. The decorations were in white and yellow. Receiving with the bride and bridegroom were their parents. Mrs. Mangham was wearing a street length gown of aqua lace with matching accessories. Her corsage was an orchid glamelia. Mrs. Ferringer chose powder blue lace with accessories in black velvet. She wore a harmonizing corsage.

The bride's table was centered with a reflector holding the tiered wedding cake decorated in yellow roses. White candles in holders garlanded with yellow flowers and ribbons burned on either side of the cake.

For traveling she wore a powder blue suit with velvet accessories to match. Her corsage was of white tuberoses and glamelias.

The bride was graduated from Neville High School and received her degree from Louisiana Tech. She taught school for two years in the Crowley High School.

MRS. JAY FERRINGER, JR., who was married on Sunday afternoon in the College Place Baptist Church. She was Miss Evelyn Mangham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Mangham. Mr. and Mrs. Ferringer will make their home in Falls Creek, Pa.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Reynoldsville High School in Reynoldsville, Pa., and served four years with the air force.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Ferringer Sr. of Falls Creek, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Louise Yeldell of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Joyce Boyles of Shreveport were out - of - town guests for the wedding.

Rehearsal Supper

Following the rehearsal of the wedding on Saturday evening, the bride and bridegroom and members of their wedding party were guests of honor at a supper given by Mrs. W. B. Mangham and Mrs. Don Hoyem in the private dining room at the Trianon. Bouquets of pink and orchid asters centered the two tables. Guests other than the bride and bridegroom were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Ferringer, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Max Dillingham, Miss Betty Richardson, Miss Ann Branch, Rev. and Mrs. Earl Ogg, Rev. Walter G. Mangham, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yeldell, Mr. Roland Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Mangham and Mr. Hoyem.

Girl Scout News

October's bright blue weather is just perfect for camping, the Scouts agree, so we find that every week end in October (there are five this month) is marked on the camp calendar at the office. Several dates for November, also.

Snooping around to learn about Troop 7's week end, we found that girls and leaders were both enthusiastic about the good times they had. The leaders, Mrs. Bob Riddle and Mrs. Curtis Nichols, agreed that the girls had been extra specially good campers and the girls voted everything, even dishwashing, a lot of fun.

Most fun was swinging on a grapevine swing along the sandy shore of the river. So intrigued were the girls that they could not be easily persuaded to return to camp for lunch. Walking through the woods, looking for shells and seeds and other items on a scavenger hunt, made the morning full of adventure.

They even saw a long, black snake and watched him climb a tree, looking for bird's eggs, they decided. Now they know that a black snake is harmless and that Scouts do not kill any creature needlessly. Mothers, don't get excited. Their leaders knew what kind of snake it was; otherwise, they wouldn't have let the girls get close to it.

Back at camp the girls read about black snakes in an attractive book they found on the shelf.

Patrol leaders for the overnight were Ginger Donald, Billy Jean Sutton, Janet Hyman, and Clydia Wilson, a newcomer to the troop, who took to camping like the proverbial duck to water.

Cooking out of doors is always fun. In this case it was blushing bunny and somemores for supper, and breadtwists for breakfast. It was the first breadtwist for nearly every camper and there's just something thrilling about cooking biscuit dough to a golden brown over an open fire and then eating it with butter and jelly.

These cool mornings when it is so much colder indoors than out, it seems that it must be heaps of fun to go out in the sunshine and cook breakfast over coals. It certainly appeals to the Scouts. For housewives, we might note that the food is just as clean as that cooked indoors, there is only a mixing bowl to wash, and no crumbs to sweep up after an outdoor meal like that.

Another highlight is always campfire. Around a bright fire, with darkness all around, games and singing conclude the day. One of the leaders, stepping out of the bright circle and looking at the young faces reflected in the firelight, remarked that she wished that people who made the camp possible could see just such a sight. They would, she felt, be repaid for all they had put into the project.

We'd like to add that if more adults realized what such moments mean to growing girls there would be more leaders so that more girls could enjoy the privileges of Scouting.

The lucky girls of Troop 7 are Aloma Collins, Peggy Fairchild, Alice Mullins, Janet Hyman, Carol Nichols, Sandra Ponder, Emy Brooks, Natalie Roy, Ginger Donald, Clydia Wilson, Billie Jean Sutton, Darla Kay Storms, Sharon Mann, and Noel Standley.

Plan to attend open house at camp next Sunday to see the new cabin and all the recent improvements.

Dance Planned For Oil Week

The Desk and Derrick Club of Monroe is sponsoring a dance in observance of Oil Progress Week.

The dance will be held on the Virginia Hotel Roof, Saturday, October 17, from 9:00 until 1:00. Music will be furnished by Mel Spain and his orchestra. Trickets may be purchased from any member of the club or at the door.

MRS. JOHN HINDMAN FERGUSON was before her wedding on September 26 at the Methodist Church in Vicksburg, Miss., Miss Edna Jean Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene H. Berry of Monroe. The couple will make their home in Atlanta, Ga. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John N. Ferguson of West Monroe.

Art League Displays Work At First Meeting Of Year

An exceptionally varied exhibit of the works of artists of this area featured the first meeting of the 1953-54 season of the Northeast Louisiana League of Artists. Since various painting techniques—ranging from traditional to modern—were represented, each of the more than 200 members and guests in attendance found something to admire.

During the business session of the meeting, the following slate of officers was elected: President, Mrs. Katherine Magruder; vice president, Mrs Ivy Oliver; treasurer, Mr. Sim S. Black; recording secretary, Mrs. Hazel Smith; corresponding secretary, Mr. Frank Parker; publicity chairman, Mrs. Marian A. Baker; program chairman, Miss Leita Mae King; exhibit chairman, Mr. Willard Carpenter.

It was announced that the League will sponsor a showing of works of art at the Ouachita Valley Fair, to be held in West Monroe October 12-17. Plans were made for the League's first social event of the season, a costume ball to be held Saturday, October 31. The Inferno, from Dante's immortal classic, will be the theme. Those interested in membership in the League may contact any of the above list of officers, or The Art Shop in Monroe.

Busbecq's mistake was in misunderstanding his interpreter's simile. The Turks had a word for the flower — Lale. The interpreter probably compared the inverted flower to a turban — "dulband" in Turkish — and the confused ambassador, thinking that was the name of the flower, dubbed it "tulipan."

Got Sniffles? Keep Groomed

Some girls seem to think that the sympathy people extend to cold sufferers implies an invitation to neglect their grooming.

If one is well enough to appear in public, she should be able to maintain her appearance. Going around the office with a woebegone face will endear no one to her coworkers. It just about amounts to lack of consideration for others.

Among the things you can do should sniffles come your way is to pat a rich lubricating cream around your nose. Nightly applications will prevent redness.

Of course you won't wash your hair, but you can give it extra brushing and use a dry shampoo or witch hazel on cotton pads.

To ward off that wan look, try using a speck more rouge and eye make-up.

Most sneakers, tennis shoes or foam rubber scuffs take to washing in the washing machine.

Golden Wedding Celebrated

FERRIDAY — The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris was celebrated with a reception at the Morris home on Sunday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 6 and the home was open to their many friends and relatives who came to help this happy couple celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. The affair was planned by Mrs. Jack Morris and came as a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Morris.

Just fifty years ago, Miss Addie Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Watkins of Gilbert, La., became the bride of Robert Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Morris of Como, La.

The reception room of the Morris home was beautifully decorated with colorful bronze mums and greenery. Mrs. Morris was attired in an aqua linen, trimmed with colorful matching lace, completed with an orchid corsage.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Morris and their son and daughter - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morris.

The refreshment table in the dining room was overlaid with a linen cutwork cloth. In the central decor a floral elegance was achieved in the artful arrangement of footed gold containers filled with bronze mums and autumn leaves. At one end of the table was the silver service from which tea and coffee was poured by Mrs. E. M. Campbell, with Mrs. Hartwell Love and Mrs. Essae Middleton, alternating. Salted nuts and mints were at the opposite end of the table with the open faced sandwiches and cake squares and carried out the wedding theme of gold. The lovely gifts were displayed in an adjoining room. There were many out-of-town guests and more than a hundred persons called at the home to extend congratulations during the reception hours.

New looking among fur-jacket fashions is the one that covers the top of the hipbone. This style usually has a loose or bloused back.

Gully-Griggs Vows Pledged In Marion

On Saturday afternoon, the Marion Methodist Church was the setting of an impressive wedding ceremony uniting Miss Mary Margaret Griggs and Virgil Gully, Jr. Rev. Edwin L. Brock heard the vows at this double ring ceremony.

Magnolia branches and commodore fern with simulating palm trees were used abundantly forming a background of greenery for tall baskets of white chrysanthemums and gladioli. Tall white tapers arranged in candelabra completed the arch which enhanced the wedding scene. The candles were lighted by the ushers, Mr. George Vance Sehon and Mr. Roy Arrant of Marion.

Mrs. N. R. Oden, aunt of the groom, rendered prenuptial music and accompanied Mr. J. V. Armor who sang "Always" and "Because," Mr. Armor also sang "The Lord's Prayer" near the close of the ceremony during which the bride and groom knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a model of imported lace and nylon net over taffeta fashioned in a close fitting jacket of lace with long, tight fitting sleeves ending in lily points over the hands and buttoned down the front with covered buttons. The fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. Her cascade bouquet of stephanotis and sweetheart roses interspersed with loops of white satin ribbon was centered with a white throated orchid.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Raymond Miller, sister of the bride, was dressed in pink nylon net over taffeta with shirred bodice and matching stole. She carried a crescent bouquet of purple asters. The bridesmaids, Misses Sue and Ann Melton were dressed identically in waltz length purple nylon net over taffeta with matching stoles and carried crescent bouquets of pink asters embedded in rhinestone tulle.

The flower girl, Linda Kay Miller, in her aunt's wedding wore a miniature replica of the maids fashioned of pink taffeta and net. She carried a basket and scattered flower petals in the path of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. L. H. Griggs chose a dark sheer dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Gully, the groom's mother chose a fall model of blue-gray with matching jeweled hat and wore a corsage of pink split carnations.

Reception

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Green. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Green were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Griggs, the bridal parents, Dr. and Mrs. Virgil S. Gully, parents of the groom, and the wedding party.

The bride's table was overlaid with an exquisite hand embroidered linen cloth and centered with a handsome silver branch candelabra burning tall white tapers. Orchids placed vertically on maline and extending almost the length of the table made an unforgettable arrangement for the bride and wedding guests.

The wedding cake topped with the conventional miniature bride and groom, was served by Mrs. D. H. Phillips. Fruit punch was served by Mrs. R. M. Barnes. Miss Peggy Denton presided at the guest book. Others assisting Mrs. Green with courtesies were: Mrs. Brooks Jones, Mrs. J. E. Roark, and Mrs. Cass Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Gully left after the reception on a wedding trip in the Ozarks. For traveling, Mrs. Gully chose a navy fall ensemble with which she used a small navy velvet hat encircled with pearls.

The bride is a graduate of Marion High School, attending Louisiana Tech and is employed in Minden. The groom is a graduate of Marion High School attending Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., and Georgia Tech where he studied engineering. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mrs. R. F. Hopper, maternal grandmother of the groom, De Kalb, Miss.; Dr. C. M. Gully, paternal grandfather of the groom; Miss Clarkie Gully, De Kalb, Miss. Mrs. N. R. Oden, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. McRae, Miss Marguerite Harris, all of De Kalb, Miss.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Miller and Linda Kay, Houston, Tex.; Leon Griggs, Homer; Barney Griggs, Houston, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Camp, Monroe; Peggy Denton, Farmerville; Mrs. J. P. Nelson, Jr., Gibsland; Kathleen Peacock, Oak Grove; Carolyn Edmonson, Forest; Ruth Roberts Frank, Dubach.

Jean Frank, Dubach; Mrs. Melba Jean Butler, Ruston; Mrs. S. E. Gewin, Pearsall, Tex.; Mr. Webb Gewin, Choudrant; Mr. and Mrs. John Burgess, Sadie; Mrs. W. O. Roberts, Farmerville; Mrs. R. L. Long, Houston, Tex.

MRS. VIRGIL GULLY, JR.—before her recent wedding was Miss Mary Margaret Griggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lelon Heard Griggs of Marion. Mr. Gully's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Virgie Samuel Gully, also of Marion.

Planting for Spring Beauty

Have you planned and prepared the soil for planting those flowers you want to enjoy next spring? Don't wait until it rains. Get the soil ready and get your seeds and bulbs, then when it rains, you are ready to plant immediately. Loosen the earth deeper than the bulbs will be set. If your soil is poor, work in some humus and some balanced commercial fertilizer. Tulips should be set 5 to 7 inches deep (measured from soil level to top of bulb.) Deep planting is necessary if you expect to leave the bulbs in place for several years. It will prevent them from splitting apart so quickly. Also, the greater the depth, it will keep your bulbs cooler during the summer months—thus lessening any heat damage.

Don't forget some of the hardy spring blooming annuals as larkspur, calendulas, phlox etc. Plant in clumps and not in rows and you'll be pleased with the results.

Strawberries

So many people plant strawberries too late. Too late means any time after the middle of November. The plants are available now. Konvoy is the variety recommended for home use. It's dry but if you can't get them planted by watering by November 15th, then don't plant, as they will not bear enough to justify you having planted them.

Ouachita Valley Fair

Judges for women and girls department have been secured for the fair and are: adult clothing, Miss Frances Kelso; house furnishing, Miss Bobby Cox, both of northeast State College; booths and 4-H food preservation, Mrs. Maxine Reeves, Home Demonstration agent of LaSalle parish; adult baking, Miss Lola Caldwell; 4-H baking and clothing, Miss Alice Teddlie; Mrs. Ellen Thompson, from Lane Wilson Seed Company to judge flowers. Miss Gladys Tappan, district Home Demonstration agent, of L. S. U. extension, pantries and adult food preservation. Mr. Clyde Ingram, poultry specialist, 4-H poultry. Twenty Home Demonstration Clubs are putting up booths at the fair and 22 are participating in operating the Home Demonstration concession. The schedule for clubs to work is as follows:

Monday: 9-1 a. m. Lamkin; 1-6 p. m. Eureka.

Tuesday: 9-1 a. m. Watson; 1-6 Okaloosa; 6 p. m. Drew and Thrifty Homemaker.

Wednesday: 9-1 a. m. Swartz; 1-6 p. m. Liberty; 6 Lakeview.

Thursday: 9-1 a. m. Woodlawn; 1-6 p. m. McClendon; 6 p. m. Cheniere and Colony.

Friday: 9-1 a. m. Progressive; 1-6 p. m. Claiborne; 6 p. m. Boxco and Logtown.

Saturday: 9-1 a. m. Cypress; 1-6 p. m. Sterlington and Fairbanks; 6 p. m. Cadeville and Lenwil.

Honey

The Louisiana State University Agricultural Extension Service is giving the busy little bee an assist with a bulletin entitled "Honey, Use and Care of a Nutritious Sweet." This publication, which will be available soon free of charge at the office of the Home Demonstration agent in every parish, gives hints on the use of honey in diet and offers a number of honey-using recipes. It was printed partly in recognition of the growing importance of beekeeping in Louisiana, partly at the request of beekeepers who report that honey does not always sell as fast as might be desirable, and partly because honey, as a food, actually is delicious and nutritious.

There are agricultural scientists who declare that in the absence of any of those reasons, it still would be necessary to do everything possible to keep the bees in business. Honey - making, they say, actually is only the second most important activity of the bees from the human point of view. Their most important work is done more or less accidentally as they move from one blossom to another, their feet and wings covered with pollen. Without the aid of the bee in pollination, many important fruit and plant crops would be impossible. Without the bee, there soon might be no such thing as a clover pasture, for example.

In bygone days, most of this work was done by wild bees. Now the job has about been taken over by the domesticated bee — or, at least, by bees that live in hives instead of in hollow tree trunks. If all the beekeepers should go out of business, farmers everywhere might have to take up beekeeping for the sake of their crops.

SECOND BIRTHDAY—Wanda Kay Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lewis, recently celebrated her second birthday. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Oglesbee and Mr. and Mrs. Phate Lewis of Monroe.

Your Problems
By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: I am 30, have always been a lonely kid, and have no one in the world but a half-brother on the West Coast who is married and has four children. I have always been considered a black sheep. In fact, my past would make the dead turn over in their graves. But, I realize that my fast life has gotten me nowhere and I am willing to put it behind me, throw all the liquor in the lake and be good for the right girl. You see, I, too, would like to marry and rear a family. All my life, it seems, I have been looking for a good, clean love. Is there such a thing? Mrs. Landers, you know a lot of lonely women and could put me in touch with one of them. — Bob S.

PS — You are my last hope.

My heart bleeds for you. You have gone your merry way vindicating your actions by reminding yourself of your pore, lonely childhood and your lack of family. To make some kind of a splash in this big, wide world you have dabbled in a fast life, wine, women and song. But, under it all, you would have us believe lies the golden heart of a good man waiting for the perfect partner with whom to join hands to a better way of life. The fly in the ointment is that, bad as you have been, the girl must be a "good, clean love!" Also, that you are not capable of doing your own looking; you resort to a correspondence, order - by-mail wife! Whom do you kid, sir! yourself?

You can find thousands of good women, but you'll have to turn "good" first and make something of yourself before you can approach them. If you can't do that first, you won't do it "last." You know it and so do I. As for the lonely women who write me, this is not a lonely hearts club.

PS—No thanks. Not me!

Dear Mrs. Landers: I have two children from my first marriage and am now married a second time. My present husband does not support the girls. They take care of themselves while I work. I married hoping that I could stay at home to care for them, but we have been married for two years and nothing has changed. He works nights and expects me to be up waiting for him when he comes home . . . and then get up to go to work in the morning. He says he does not have to pay any more than he is paying as the girls are mine and that I do nothing for him. Please tell me what to do as I can't stand this any LONGER. — J. K.

You had no business marrying the man if you proposed to use him as a meal ticket for three people. Since he is paying something toward your upkeep and that of the girls, you are better off than you were so it is a case of accepting the crumbs or going back to conditions as they were before you married the man. Legally, the man is not responsible for your daughters. You just picked the wrong guy, lady.

Dearest Ann: Why is it I was crazy about the life guard at the beach last summer and when we finally dated last night I realized I was just . . . crazy? Such a disappointment. Could it be me?—Fickle?

A life guard belongs on a golden beach with a backdrop of blue water and sky. He can never be seen in anything but swim trunks, bronzed skin and wavy hair (slightly oily) . . . and never without a bevy of doting girls. The minute he loses his surroundings, the illusion is gone. From an Adonis he becomes a mere mortal. No; it was not you who was wrong but your life guard for coming to life . . . especially, without the other jealous females around him to see you win!

Confidentially — Mixed Emotions: Naturally the "yes-urge" is there! Because of the past, it is more than necessary to fight it and stick to the "No." If you do not, the mistakes will keep right on mounting, easier each time.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the News-Star.)

B & PW Observe 26th Anniversary

Seventy-one members strong, the Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club will initiate the week's activities with a breakfast hour at 9 o'clock in Room B at Hotel Frances.

At 10:30 o'clock members will assemble at the First Methodist Church for morning services and to offer thanks for the many blessings enjoyed during 1953.

Spot announcements, an NBWW recording and a radio panel entitled "Readin', Ritin' and Reality" will be presented throughout the week over our local radio stations.

Highlighting the anniversary observances will be the renowned Bosses' Banquet, an event of Tuesday, October 13 in the ballroom at Hotel Virginia, getting under way at 7:30 p.m. Specially featured will be a noted speaker, Mrs. G. W. Pomeroy of Ruston, La.

Formal presentation of the cabin, which the B and PW Club built last spring for the Girl Scouts at Pine Wood, will be an impressive and inspiring occasion of Sunday, October 18. Rev. Lea Joyner, of Southside Methodist Church will officiate at the 3:00 p.m. dedication ceremony. Scouts and their parents have also been invited to be with us.

In a letter from the White House to the president of the National Federation of B and PW Clubs, President Eisenhower said:

"On this twenty-sixth anniversary of National Business Women's Week, the entire nation observes with pride the great contributions women are making to our nation in the field of public affairs. Women long ago proved their competence in matters which were once the exclusive concern of men, and men long ago accepted the logic of profiting from the special skills and aptitudes of women. This administration, for example, is happy and proud to depend in the fields of health, education and welfare, on the judgement, ability and experience of Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby.

"The educational activities of your group is of particular interest to all of us, and I especially commend your program to rouse the 'dormant votes.' I am delighted that the women of America are taking an increasingly active part in our political life, and your project is an important contribution toward furthering that participation.

"My best wishes to all of you.

"Sincerely,
(s) "DWIGHT EISENHOWER"

Forty-five per cent of 165,000 women, who recently answered a query on their economic status, said they made under $3,000 annually. Forty-three per cent reported earnings between $3,000 and $6,000, while four per cent earned $6,000 or more.

The women questioned are all members of The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., who responded to the federation's study on "the economic strength of employed women."

News From The Public Library

New books continue to pour off the presses at a rapid rate and many of them are being received each week at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Among this weeks offerings are a number of titles which appear most interesting. In discussing them, I have divided them into three groups. Those with a background of European history, those with an American historical background and those with a modern setting.

The earliest novel is called "The Babylonians" and the author is Nathaniel Norsen Weinreb. The place is Babylon in the period when Nebuchadnezzar ruled the nation. The central character is Beladar. The story is exciting and colorful and should appeal to the same audience who liked the "Egyptian." Dorothy James Roberts is the author of "The Enchanted Cup" a novel based on one of the greatest love stories of all ages, that of Tristan and Isolde. In this book we are shown the clash of medieval tournaments, the thunder of the charge, the rich splendor of King Arthur's court at Camelot and the bravery of the hundred and forty knights of the Round Table. This story has appeared in serial form in one of the popular magazines, but there are many readers who have been waiting for the book. A little later in period is "The Hastening Wind" by Edward Grierson. This is a story set in France during the reign of Napoleon. In a Paris teeming with foreign agents and police spies, the hero pursues his dangerous enterprise, which is aimed at the overthrow of Napoleon and the restoration of the monarchy. This story is filled with adventure and should be most popular with our patrons.

In the past few years many writers have discovered the romance to be found in the early days of our country's history. Many fascinating stories have appeared, but there is always some new event to be explored and written about. "Hue and Cry" by Elizabeth Yates has its setting in New Hampshire in the year 1836. It is the story of the Austin family and of the change that Danny O'Dare, just over from Ireland brought into their lives. This is a rare story-a story of justice tempered with mercy and of good resulting from evil. It does not deal with any of the burning questions of the time, but gives us a good picture of how our ancestors lived. "West of the River" by Charlton Laird is a rousing, exciting story of frontier life along the upper Mississippi River in the year 1837. Here is the frontier as it really was-hard and brutal, vulgar and adventuresome, with moments of love and humor to releave the strain. Danger always lurked behing the next bend in the river, tragedy over the next rise and the law belonged to the party with the most Hawken rifles. The author knows and loves this country and has written a story that will be especially popular with men. "Wilderness Passage" by Forrester Blake is a novel of the Oregon trail in the years when the Mormon state of Desert waged undeclared war on the U. S. A. through the pages of this novel we see the violent clash of interests which made history - the passing of the mountain men, the subjugation of the Indians, the warfare between the Mormons and those of other faiths for a living ideal. This book is one that will appeal to a great many readers and should be very popular.

Now we come to those with a more or less contemporary setting. Probably the most popular book in this group will be "Day of the Harvest" by Helen Upshaw. This book has already received a great deal of publicity in Louisiana because Mrs. Upshaw is a native of Bienville Parish. She has given us a story which reflects the mood which is sometimes found in a southern town. This is not a pleasant book, but it is one which will be widely read and discussed.

Cid Ricketts Sumner is a most popular author with the library patrons. Her latest novel is "The Hornbeam Tree" and has its setting in New England. It is the story of a woman, whom life had passed by and how she found a new life for herself in her middle years. "The Swift Seasons" by Helen Train Hilles has its setting in New York in the first years of this century. The theme of the novel is that growing up is difficult, but that life isn't much fun until one has grown up. "Fortune is a Woman" by Winston Graham is a novel of suspense. It is the story of an insurance investigator and the woman he loved, but did not trust. It makes exciting reading.

Robert Nathan is a writer of the fanciful tale and his stories always have sort of supernatural background. "The Train in the Meadow" is his latest one. It is the story of the passengers on a train and the motives and interests of each one. "Ramey" by Jack Farris is a sensitive father-and son story told with beauty and passion. The setting is in the Arkansas hills and will appeal to all who love that country.

"A Bargain With God" by Thomas Savage is a novel about a miracle in Boston. It is the story of Bowdoin Street on Boston's famed Beacon Hill and the people who live there. In particular, it is the story of four people and how they were saved by love.

These are only a few of the new books added to the Ouachita Parish Public Library in recent weeks.

Garden Study Club Meets With Mrs. Harry Stone

Mrs. Harry Stone was hostess to the Garden Study Club which met in her home on Monday.

Arrangements of pink and red radiant roses were used to decorate the living room and in the dining room where the guests assembled for the afternoon study.

Mrs. John Lewis taught the lesson on arrangements using the circle design.

Outstanding among the arrangements brought by the group and teacher were eight circular type designs.

Refreshments were served to: Mrs. C. A. Caldwell, Mrs. Becker, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. A. M. Guerriero, Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Mrs. J. P. Lewis, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. Harry Stone, Mrs. J. F. Stone and a guest, Mrs. M. S. Harrison.

Mild Exercise Slims Figure

The mistaken notion that middle-age spread is inevitable is apparently still circulating. Brushing off exercising as too boring, too time-consuming or too tiring, some women let the pounds come and they go right on forcing their flesh into tight foundations.

Yet doctors assert that extra weight puts a strain on the heart and that mild exercise, while helping to ward off that excess, encourages good circulation.

These exercises will accommodate the heaviest schedule because they are done in bed during the time one takes to "come to" in the morning. Try them in this order:

1. After pushing aside covers and pillow, stretch your legs one at a time down to the heels, then to the toes and wriggle them.

2. Throw your arms over your head and stretch toward the headboard. Then fling your arms out wide as possible and open and close the fingers.

3. Now relax completely, yawning and twisting.

4. Place pillow under buttocks. Go limp all over; then inhale slowly, pulling lower abdomen toward backbone. Let muscles come back slowly. Do this rythmically six times; later build up to 12.

Broadcloth is one of fall's important fabrics in coats, suits and dresses. In dresses and suits, it often gets a touch of satin as trim.

It's safe to hold a queen bee in your hand because the queen uses its stinger only on other queen bees.

RAKE WITH A PLAN in big squares, about 20 by 25 feet. Use a large burlap or tarpaulin, 8 by 8 feet or so, for collecting leaves. This is easier than using baskets.

BEST AND EASIEST method of leaf disposal is frequent mowing to chop them into mulch on the lawn. A leaf mulcher can be attached to a rotary lawn mower to draw leaves by suction into pulverizing blades which handle as much as 30 bushels per minute.

Leaves Make Top Fertilizer Say Experts

Lawn sweeping seems to be as important as carpet sweeping. Your bride of a few years, more or less, reminds you about the old rake and that's that.

Well, it's nice to know that leaves are good for the lawn. Of course, you can't leave them lying flat to smother the grass. But the best lawn experts are strong for mulches, and chopped up leaves make a wonderful mulch.

Bill Grant, for instance, who has charge of the landscaping around the famous Belmont race track, says it's a crime ever to sweep up lawn cuttings. They return to the soil the organic matter that came from the soil, Grant argues.

The same with leaves, Dr. James R. Watson, chief agronomist for a large lawn mower manufacturer, says "Don't burn leaves unless you have to." When you burn leaves you burn fertilizer of the best kind.

Dr. Watson recommends two ways out: (1) Use a pulverizer attachment on a rotary mower to suck up the leaves and grind them into mulch; (2) Sweep leaves up into old sheets or burlap squares for carrying to your compost pile or leaf mold heap.

Your front yard is really a part of the community. Therefore it is always in good taste to follow the style in your neighborhood, if you can, rather than try to be too different in your landscaping from everybody else. The front lawn should be left and not be cluttered up with shrubs and flowers here and there all over the place. When you are riding around, you will notice that the best looking neighborhoods are those where the lawns blend into each other as if they were really one big lawn running along in front of all the houses in the block. This kind of design is not always possible, but even where small hedges separate one place from the other in front yards, some of this effect can still be kept down below eye level so that one can see across lawns.

If your lawn is cluttered up with specimen shrubs dotted here and there, imagine how much better it would look if these specimens were taken up and placed elsewhere and the grass were all in one piece. The area would be easier to mow, too, and the house would not be hiding behind a jungle of bushes.

The foundation planting and the shade trees around a house can make it or ruin it. It is usually best to plant some shrubs at the corners and at the front door and then low things in between the doorway and the corner plantings. Most houses seem to be overplanted rather than underplanted, however. We all love beautiful plants so much that we have a tendency to put out our prize bushes in the foundation planting. This is a bad practice because the foundation planting should not be made up of gaudy shrubs but something quieter and more dignified. The planting at the front door should usually be something fairly "formal" looking. Broad leaf evergreens like the different types of Ilex crenata, "lucidum" privet (not Japanese privet) boxwood and others are good for this spot. One has to be careful about planting them far enough away from the house and steps and from walks to allow for their growth. Even the "slow growing" boxwood is not as slow as you think. In a very few years, it will round itself out into a plump bush four to six feet across. Then you will have the big job of moving it. To avoid this danger, go over to your neighbor's house and take some measurements on the sizes of mature shrubs. Then set your shrubs out with ample room for them to grow. Very, very low plants like some of the annuals or perennials, ivy or periwinkle can be set out around a shrub until it has grown to some size. Such a ground cover, in fact, will look neat if it does not get into the lower branches of your shrubs. Around the less formal types of house like cottage and ranch houses, low beds of flowers can be a part of the foundation planting. More formal houses do not need such a frill but call for a simple planting of greens which are kept in order by clipping.

If you have a tall narrow house and wish to make it look wider or, at least, not so narrow, set your corner plantings out from the house a foot or so instead of right up close to the corner. Tall narrow houses will look less narrow, too, if the planting on each side of the doorway is made of something very low or just omitted altogether. Long, low houses will be helped in appearance by trees behind the house that are tall enough to show above the roof line. Let the corner plantings of the foundation come around the corners and several feet in front of the house so that they hide the actual edges of the house and extend somewhat over the front wall. This will help to "settle" the house into the ground. Another thing that will settle the house if it is long and low is to build it on a slight terrace or to plant a long line of low material across it that gives the same effect.

If a house seems to be too tall from the street, one thing you can do to make it seem lower is to plant a hedge across the front lot line that will cut off some of the structure from the eye. The foundation planting can also help with this illusion if it goes clean across without a break so that you cannot see the house where it actually meets the ground. It is not always necessary to hide the whole foundation line of a building, however. Frequently one sees houses with little more than corner plantings and something at the door.

The Home Shift With

Mildred Swift

As I'm writing this, we've still had no rain. The weather is cooler and that usually means we won't have one soon. There are still lots of jobs you can do around the yard while you are impatiently waiting for a long needed rain.

Garden Jobs

Many Camellias have scale. Spray with oil emulsion using summer weight as given on the outside of the container. Then you want harm your buds.

The black sooty looking substance on your gardenias is caused by the white fly. Ironical isn't it that white makes black? Spray with oil emulsion now or this will spread during the winter.

Sharpen your pruning shears and make a tour of your garden. Cut out weak and diseased wood from your shrubs, clip back straggly overhanging branches on any shrub or vine. Remember this is not pruning time for any shrub or tree that I'm familiar with, but its always pruning time for dead or overgrown branches.

Those of you who have privet hedge (or other large screen plants) planted on the back of your beds—you can root prune this now. Sharpen the spade and go out in front of the plant for about a foot and a half. Thrust the spade sharply, straight down. Sometimes you'll need the ax for large roots. This keeps the roots from taking over your beds and sapping all the vitality from the soil.

I remember years ago when I lived in Columbia, Mrs. Julie Mecom had sweet peas planted in front of privet hedge. The vines used the hedge as support. It was a beautiful sight but I was amazed that it could be done. She told me about root pruning, then, and I've used the practice for years.

If you soak your margueritte and daisy bed, you can transplant those perennials, now. Keep them watered after moving.

I've found from years of experience, that winter grass gets a better root system if it gets a good start in October. I know it's much to dry to plant, unless you're going to keep the seed damp until they germinate.

Work and fertilie your bed for pansy plants, and put them out after a rain. Everything seems to depend on that rain, doesn't it?

Take your potted plants inside with the arrival of chilly nights.

For those who have very wide shrubbery beds — here's a nice hint. Last night when I was moving the hose from the back of such a bed to the front, I bogged down up to my ankles. (I had on my bedroom slippers, too). So —a hint from a garden magazine came to my mind. It said "When you have very wide shrubbery beds, put cement stepping stones, just a few at vantage points, where you'll need to walk in the bed. Just put the mulch over the stones, too and they'll not be seen."

Around Town

Mrs. Thomas Pitt, 2127 Pargoud Boulevard, Monroe, says she has a white rose of Montana blooming beside her rose one. I've never seen the white vine in bloom. When discussing it with Ellen Thompson, though, she says she also has a white one and that they're not too pretty blooming alone but are lovely with the rose type.

Those who are interested in sewing, tune in on KFAZ Wednesday at 3:30. I'll give a full thirty minute program on sewing tips to help you save time.

Food Notes

Several housewives have been telling me about Mrs. Claire Chennault's delicious recipe for hush puppies. I'm always looking for something good to pass on to you so I asked Mrs. Chennault for her method. Here it is.

1 cup cornmeal
1 cup flour
¾ cup milk
1 egg
1 teaspoon baking powder
teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
Pepper
Chopped onion tops and a little grated onion.

Mix dry ingredients. Beat egg, add milk. Add this to corn meal mixture, then add onion. Drop by spoonfuls in hot fat and fry until brown. Anna Gray Noe says her family likes lots of crust so she pats them out flat. I haven't tried this recipe yet, but it's highly recommended by all my friends.

See you next Sunday in this same column.

Tri-Parish Fair For Gardeners In Winnsboro Sat.

The Delhi Garden Club created a sensation at the Garden Center this week when they brought in Celosia of such unusual color and the specimen blooms of Allamanda and the Eleanor Roosevelt Iris. The arrangements were made by Mrs. Sam Brown whose exhibit won first place. Mrs. S. T. Bradley took second place and Mrs. W. E. Coats placed third.

Mrs. Coats composition of Pyracanta and Japanese persimmons was especially enjoyed by those visiting the center. These exhibits were scored by Mrs. Ben Coulter.

Hearing the ladies from Delhi, Winnsboro and Wisner discuss plans for their assignments for the tri-parish fair was of interest to gardeners in the area. All garden club members of the district will be interested in the show, which will open in Winnsboro, Saturday, October 17.

A garden consultant will be available at the center soon. The date will be announced later.

The new exhibits will be on display Tuesday.

Now Is Time To Order Spring Bulbs

Now is the time to order tulip and other springblooming bulbs for your garden.

The exportation of bulbs from Holland is well under way and before long the Dutch growers will have shipped over 300 million bulbs to gardeners in countries from Algier right through the alphabet to Zanzibar.

America, with its desire for, and ability to pay for, the best, leads the list, with Great Britain close behind. Strange to relate, Western Germany is in third place, purchasing about one fourth the number planted in this country.

Bulb growing is one of the most important industries for Holland's economy.

It is estimated that the annual production of three billion bulbs puts the equivalent of 40 million American dollars in the pockets of the Dutch growers.

The successful growth of the Dutch bulb industry was achieved by the wise leadership and high standards set by a group of growers who formed the Assn. of Dutch Bulb Growers.

Purchasing from dealers importing through the association insures the gardener of receiving healthy, large-size bulbs that will, if planted in well-drained soil, flower beautifully.

How did the tulip gets its name? A 16th Century Austrian diplomat to Turkey, not comprehending the soft language of the Turks or the verbal struggles of his interpreter, accidentally named the flower.

It was Ogier Ghiselin de Busbedq, ambassador from Emperor Ferdinand I to Suleiman the Magnificent of the Ottoman Empire, who first named, mentioned and introduced the exotic flower of Europe.

Traveling through the Turkish countryside on his way to Constantinople, Busbecq spied what he later described as "quantities of flowers — narcissi and tulipans, as the Turks call them — much to our astonishment because it was almost midwinter, a season unfriendly to flowers."

Busbecq unwittingly gave the flower a name that has all but had poets tearing their hair out ever since. It's a name that has practically kept it out of poetry—particularly in end lines—since not much rhymes with "tulip" other than "julep."

This year's crop of walnuts is now being harvested in California, and indications are that there will be plenty of these flavorful nuts for everyone's baking and eating needs. It's most economical to buy walnuts in the shell in convenient 1-pound cellophane packages. Shell the whole pound at one time so the nuts will be ready to use. You'll get 2 cups or more of shelled nuts.

Methodist Men Radio Hour Serves 8 States

The Methodist Men's Hour radio program has entered its second year with 70 stations in eight states carrying the weekly broadcast.

The series, started in 1952, is sponsored by the South Central Jurisdiction of the Methodist Church. It will consist of 35 twenty-nine and a half minute weekly programs, featuring a 15-minute sermon by Dr. Marshall T. Steel, pastor of the Highland Park Methodist Church in Dallas; choir music and scripture readings.

Dr. Federal Lee Whittlesey, a recognized leader in the field of religious music, is conductor of the Methodist Men's Hour choir and orchestra.

Producer of the series is Dr. Thomas Marsh, who has more than 20 years' experience in religious broadcasting. He has followed the developments in the field of recording from its start, and has conducted extensive laboratory experimentations with various types of recorders.

As part of his work with the Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University, Dr. Marsh teaches a course in religious radio production.

Dr. Steel, pastor of the Highland Park Methodist Church since 1944, has gained wide recognition through his sermons on the Methodist Men's Hour programs.

Bishop William C. Martin, of the Dallas-Fort Worth area, has said of the series:

"I can think of no more practical way by which laymen can help secure a fuller understanding of some of the basic elements of the Christian way of life than by promoting a wide hearing of this program in their respective communities."

Methodist leaders expressed elation over the success of the first series, which received enthusiastic support among the more than a half - million Methodist laymen. Many of the 800 Men's Clubs in the jurisdictional area waged promotional programs on behalf of the project.

The program will be carried by the various radio stations in Texas, Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Brotherhood Of Baptist Observe Laymen's Day

Officers of the Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church will observe Laymen's day in common with every Southern Baptist Church today.

This is the day when men of the church are recognized for the contributions they continually make in advancing the world of the Lord.

"The church is yours, and you and yours need the church," declares E. H. (Bing) Miller, Brotherhood president, and a dynamo when he gets in action. He is sending a letter thrilled with enthusiasm and urging that all in the Baptist family participate in the work of the church.

Officers of the Brotherhood, with Dr. James T. Horton, pastor, will speak over KNOE-TV today at 12:30 p.m. to 12:45 p.m.

Dr. Horton will discuss "The Church's Need for Men." Officers of the Brotherhood will answer the challenge by briefly stating what they and their committees will do in the year that lies ahead in the program that declares: "A Million or More in 1954."

The public is urged to listen to this important program.

Rev. A. D. Langston, Sr., above, has retired from the active pastorate and is available for evangelistic and supply work. Rev. Langston lives at 603 Riverbend Drive, West Monroe. His telephone is 2-4101. Rev. Langston, for a number of years, was pastor of suburban Monroe Baptist churches and has been an active church worker. In many of his churches he has been a leader in the erection of new sanctuaries and educational buildings.

Temple Baptists Showing Film Of Life Of Jesus

Training Union Director at Temple Baptist Church, announces that a total of 101 turned out for Training Union for first Sunday in October. A series of films on "The Living Bible" will be shown each Sunday night beginning at 6:30 p.m., and will run through the months of October, November and December. All members and visitors are urged to attend these meetings and lets' see our Training Union grow each Sunday.

A fifteen minute film "Childhood of Jesus" will be shown Sunday, October 11 beginning at 6:30, so make your plans to be there. Following is a resume of the film:

"Joseph and Mary take the Christ Child to the temple at Jerusalem to make an offering. Herod, the ruler of Jerusalem, plots to destroy the Child whom he fears will usurp his rule. An angel appears before Joseph bidding him to take Jesus to Egypt for safety. At the age of 12, Jesus goes to Jerusalem with Joseph and Mary for the Feast of the Passover. Jesus disappears for three days. Joseph and Mary finally find Him in the temple amazing His listeners with His wisdom."

All members are urged to support your Training Union, come out each Sunday night and lets all work toward the goal of having 200 each Sunday out for Training Union.

Faith Healing Possible Today, Lecturer Assures

The rules of spiritual healing, which disclose how Christ Jesus healed the sick and why he told his followers to go and do likewise, have been rediscovered in modern times and are available for all to understand and practice, declared Ralph Castle of San Francisco in a public lecture Friday evening on Christian Science.

Mr. Castle maintained that these spiritual rules, applied by the Master Christian and his early followers with resulting miracles and mighty works, are available to all today in "the Science of Christianitp, or Christian Science."

Speaking under auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Monroe, La., Mr. Castle addressed a large local audience in Ouachita Parish High School auditorium. He was introduced by Mrs. Bernice Girault who is serving as second reader of the local church. Subject of his talk was "Christian Science: Healing by the Power of God." He is a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

The power by which Jesus healed was lost sight of in the centuries subsequent to the Master's ministry, said Mr. Castle. But, he contended, this power can be spiritually discerned for it is eternal. He said it was discerned and proved by practical demonstration, by the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, and is being further demonstrated in Christian Science healing today.

Mr. Castle stated that Christian Science is the name Mrs. Eddy gave "to her discovery of the rules of spiritual healing and to designate the law of God, which she found underlies all true being."

He said the validity of her discovery has been proved, and is being increasingly proved today by the repetition in Christian Science of the kind of Christian works Jesus told his followers to do.

"The signs following are seen in the healing of bodily ailments and the regeneration of the sinful," he declared. "In a chapter entitled "Fruitage' in the Christian Science textbook, one hundred pages are devoted to recounting authenticated healings which resulted from reading the Christian Science textbook."

Mr. Castle told of a number of such healings of which he knew personally. Speaking of one particularly striking instance, he said:

"A friend of mine tells of a healing experienced by his father and which he witnessed. Over a period of seven years the father had spent considerable time in a hospital, had been operated upon six times, and had to submit to extremely painful dressings. Conditions reached the point where it was thought nothing more could be done for him, and he was given up to die. Christian Science was introduced and accepted. During his illness the pateint had acquired the drug habit, and he relied upon morphine capsules to relieve him from pain." But through Christian Science treatment, said Mr. Castle, this man was promptly healed both of the disease and the drug habit.

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

What God Intends Us To Be

What God intends us to be is undoubtedly something better than we are. Regardless of whatever we have attained, the law of the Christian life is to grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ (II Peter 3:18). There is no limit to that grace and knowledge.

But if we could think of man as starting from scratch, or with an unformed life, what does God require?

First all, honesty and uprightness; righteousness is the very foundation of the godly life. If there be evil in act, thought or motive, the one essential is repentance, and the turning toward righteousness. "Cease to do evil; learn to do well" (Isaiah 1:16, 17). In Romans 12:9 Paul says virtually the same thing as Isaiah in slightly different words:

"Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good." For Jew or for Christian; in fact for those of religion, in any time or place, the essential of the good life is the same.

It is righteousness, man's willingness to live according to what he knows to be best.

But the Christian life, what God intends us to be, is not all found in personal goodness. The Christian life is a life of relationships. Man does not live alone. He has privileges and duties in relation to his fellowmen as well as to God, and the nature of his life toward God, in its reality and integrity, is, in fact, determined largely by what man is toward his fellowmen.

"If a man say, I love God; and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God, whom he hath not seen?" (I John 4:20).

This all becomes plain and very specific, and also very applicable to our present-day world of racial, religious, and sectional prejudices, jealousies and hatreds. Consider not only the words and example of Jesus, but Saint Paul's very vivid and practical definition of the meaning and effect of the new life in Christ.

In many passages Paul describes the "new man," "renewed in knowledge after the image of Him that created him" (Colossians 3:10). "If any man be in Christ," he wrote (II Corinthians 5:17), "he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

How really new all things should be to this "new man" became very evident when Paul put it all in very definite and practical attitudes and relationships, man with man. That ancient world was a world in which slavery was the common lot and condition of men. In addition there were all sorts of hatreds and prejudices, just as there are in the world today.

It was not altogether a coincidence that the strongest word that Paul could have expressed concerning these things should have been expressed to the Christians in the church at Colossae. It was there in that church that Philemon, the master, was a leader to whom Paul sent back from Rome the converted runaway slave, Onesimus.

But what Paul wrote went far beyond the relationship of slave and master. Paul wrote about a life and a world, "where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free: but Christ is all and in all" (Colossians 3:11).

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Tomorrow Is Too Late To Relax—Do It Today

Today is the day to relax and enjoy life. You could find time for a long walk or a picnic.

It seems too bad that we hoard so many of the small pleasures and bonuses of life for a future day, or for a big splurge once in a while, rather than enjoying them in our daily living.

For instance, many women keep their sterling silver put away and use it only when doing special entertaining. I have never understood this. The mother and father get litte pleasure from it. The children get none until it is handed down to them. Even then they are stymied, because the daughter is apt to do the same thing her mother did; save the silver to pass on to her children. It works out that the silver goes on for generations with no one to really enjoy it. I like sterling silver and candlelight whenever I can get them!

I realize that this is not entirely practical. Much of mine has been lost in sandpiles when my children were growing up, and later when teenagers took their desserts with them in a car. This, of course should be avoided, but I had rather have this than the other extreme. It is now a contest as to which will last longer, my silver or I. I think I will win with no trouble!

Women receive lovely gifts — perfume and exotic bath powders, or perhaps a luxurious but impractical hostess gown. Do they use them up or wear them out quickly? Nope! They save the perfume for "special occasions" until it gets stale, and the hostess gown is put away in moth balls year after year because the woman is waiting for a special time.

EVERY DAY is a special time. There is no time more important than right now! Actually the day which is now vibrating in your hands is the only one of which you can be sure.

Let us take the question of vacations. Men and women attack each day grimly, as though it were a rattle snake, with the idea that they will relax and enjoy themselves "on their vacation." For most people that means one or two weeks out of the entire year. If you are lucky maybe you can wangle a month. Anyway, by the time you have reached this mirage you are too tired to enjoy it.

While I know that we must save for our old age and for that rainy day, yet the whole philosophy of finding the future important and the present humdrum and andramatic is dead wrong. We cannot possibly live vibrantly until we sense the importance of every day as it is dealt out to us.

So far as vacations are concerned, they are wonderful! A change of pace and scenery can revitalize us, but we should be able to enjoy them when they come. It doesn't take money; only thought and imagination to give ourselves little periods all through the year, when the pace of life slackens. A steak cooked over a fire in the woods in the spring or fall, a long walk or drive into the country, a weekend away from home now and then when we can manage it. Just the attitude of living in a relaxed and happy manner all through the year will bring big rewards in health and fun and prolonged youthfulness.

Tomorrow: "Thick and Tired of It? Simple to Slim Waist."

". . . I called the plumber in the News-Star—World Want Ads—he said to put a pan under it until he gets here!"

Few Real Comics, Says Lahr

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Are comedians born or made?

They're born, says Bert Lahr, a comic of the old school.

In Lahr's case, the old school was burlesque, but not the kind that is found in decrepit theaters today.

"Burlesque was clean in those days," he recalled. "There was no such thing as the strip tease. I can remember seeing signs backstage that warned actors would be fined $10 if they used profanity onstage. I played one house in Omaha that advertised 'We want women.' The place was packed with women at the matinee."

Although burlesque and vaudeville were good training grounds for comedians, Lahr opined that the real funnymen are born that way.

"I mean the real comics — the clowns," he explained. "The real comic is one who can come out and say 'Hello' and make the audience laugh at him. Bobby Clark and Ed Wynn can do it. You can't name many more.

"The trouble with most present-day comedians is that they're all alike. They stand up and tell jokes. That's all they do, and they're only as funny as the jokes that are written for them.

"Back in the old days of Broadway, each comic had his own style.

"About the only newcomer who has shown an original comic style is Jerry Lewis."

Lahr admitted the future is dark, as far as spawning great new comics. Vaudeville has vanished. As for burlesque—"too much filth." TV offers some opportunity; he cited Jackie Gleason and Red Buttons as bright possibilities. But Lahr feels that TV can burn out a comedian.

"It's impossible for a comic to do his bes otn TV," he commented. "You have to whip up in a few hours a routine that would take two or three weeks to rehearse for the stage. Then you put it on—and it's gone. You have to put together another one for next week."

He added that the situation is also dim for the Broadway stage, on which he has starred these many years.

I observed that comedy is also taking a back seat in Hollywood, now that the film makers are concentrating on big epics for the large screens. Oddly enough, Lahr wasn't as pessimistic about movie comedy.

"Movies haven't been a comedian's medium," he observed.

"However, I don't think comedy will be lost in big screens. The laughs will be bigger, that's all. When I saw 'The Robe,' I noticed there was one big laugh in it. It was just a simple line, but it drew a big reaction. That showed me that audiences are eager to laugh."

Lahr is currently nurturing laughs in a big-screen epic, "Rose Marie," with Ann Blyth, Howard Keel and Fernando Lamas. He has returned to MGM, where he scored one of his biggest hits as the cowardly lion in "The Wizard of Oz."

Cinema Scope Is Alive And Breathtaking

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 10—It's big, it's spectacular, it's alive and it's breathtaking, they said of CinemaScope at its first demonstrations. "But is it intimate?" they asked.

We've answered that question in shooting 20th - Fox's technicolor comedy, "How To Marry A Millionaire," with the anamorphic lens for the Miracle Mirror screen. This story was nothing like "The Robe," ideally suited to the new medium, a movie replete with Biblical and Roman pageantry, jumping from Rome to Palestine to Capri. Nor was my story anything like "Twelve Mile Reef," the third movie slated for the new process. That one was to be photographed against the breath-taking backgrounds of the Florida keys, with plenty of exciting underwater footage.

But "How to Marry A Millionaire" tells about three hard-working girls who reach a momentous decision: given the choice, they would rather marry a rich man than a poor man. It had its own type of breathtaking scenery, in Betty Grable, Lauren Bacall and Marilyn Monroe. It was to be filmed mainly in apartments, restaurants, nightclubs and other swank interior hunting grounds. It was essentially a comedy. The question that bothered me, and many others, was this: could CinemaScope tell such an intimate tale?

We feel now the answer is Yes. But it requires some adjustments by both writer and director. The new process brings the audience into the action, makes the folks feel they are in the same room with the performers. When you have a theater full of people eavesdropping on your dialogue at living-room range, your dialogue has to be good and your story has to be about something.

In the old days, way back there in 1952, a clever director and an experienced film editor could frequently punch up a scene and give it extra stimulation by a series of quick cuts and alternating use of closeup and medium shot.

Now the burden rests upon the director. Padding, false notes, dull exposition become apparent quickly.

And yet, CinemaScope offers a director some positive advantages. It broadens his horizons and makes possible the dramatizing of situations which would be confined and imprisoned on the printed page or in a mouthful of dialogue. No director has the power to portray with montage or long shots the magnitude and spirit of New York City as we have done in this picture with a single shot of the city's skyline at dusk. This single picture was so moving that audiences at the CinemaScope demonstrations applauded it, as though it were a symphony orchestra.

The wide canvas of CinemaScope also frees the director from his former mechanical shackles. You can now visualize your scenes in their entirety, as a playwright does, and not be cramped by thinking of them in terms of "cuts," "dissolves," "closeups" and "inserts." A director will no longer have to worry about cutting down a scene of enormous scope to fit the narrow limits of the old-style camera. The realism of the big screen, its ability to project a life-like illusion, will inspire greater realism.

And may I, dear reader, indulge in a few words about CinemaScope—developed only this year by 20th Century-Fox? Yes, it was completely unknown one year ago. I now hear it on every hand from producer, exhibitor and moviegoers that it marks the most important step forward in motion picture history since the advent of sound. The timetable of events in the story of CinemaScope reads like the script of a real-life adventure movie. It was as recently as December 18, 1952, that Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, and research director, Earl Sponable, saw their first demonstration in Nice, France, by its inventor, Prof. Henry Chretian.

Excuse the digression, but I wanted you to know that CinemaScope is something new. And finally, let me say, its third-dimensional sound lends an importance to the dialogue equal to that of the stage. Can we do intimate pictures with it? I'll say we can—and all hail to it—for with CinemaScope there's no scope too big, nor any scene too small, to be reproduced grandly and wonderfully.

NEW ROMANTIC TEAM—The screen's newest romantic team couples rugged Tony Curtis and lovely Lori Nelson, who are co-starred in Universal-International's exciting drama of heroics and heart, "The All American." Featured in the cast are Mamie Van Doren, Gregg Palmer, Richard Long, Paul Cavanaugh, Jimmy Hunt and a field full of All-Americans.

Lancaster Stars In South Seas Film This Week

Burt Lancaster likes the spice of variety, particularly in the roles he plays on the screen. His newest picture, "South Sea Woman," now showing at the Paramount Theatre, has Burt in a role that is a theatrical word apart from the part he played in "Come Back, Little Sheba."

In "South Sea Woman," in which he co-stars with Virginia Mayo, Lancaster is a crew-cut, cocky Marine. He loves to fight and chase the girls, and his performance is strictly for laughs. The role is almost the antithesis of the frustrated, bitter and brooding "Doc" of "Come Back, Little Sheba," in which Lancaster gave an Oscar-tinged performance.

Playing the lusty comedy part of the Marine in the new picture almost completes a full theatrical cycle for Lancaster. Soon after he reached stardom in his first role—a member of a crime ring in "The Killers" — he said he didn't want to become typed as a gangster, and he wanted to play a variety of parts.

Lancaster has accomplished just that. In fact, he has had a wider diversity of characterizations on the screen than most stars, and has been in many kinds of stories. No studio though, could see the muscular actor in a comedy until he convinced Warner Bros. to let him do "The Flame and the Arrow," which also marked his first teaming with Virginia Mayo.

Lancaster gave his Robin Hood-like role a lightness and whimsy that surprised and pleased the customers, who flocked to the picture and made it a box office hit.

He followed this with the grim, subdued, angry characterization of the great Indian Athlete in "Jim Thorpe-All American." Then came "Crimson Pirate" in which Lancaster took on the grinning, exuberant happy - go - lucky athletic, kind of comedy portrayal—a la the late Douglas Fairbanks — and made it click.

"South Sea Woman" marks Burt's first try for lusty laughs in a picture, and with practically no reliance on his muscles, well, practically none. It is a step in a new direction for the one-time circus acrobat.

'All American' Story Of College Football Hero

In the finest role of his meteoric career, Tony Curtis brings his special brand of tough, exciting magnetism to the screen of the Jim Theatre where Universal - International's exciting production of "The All American" opened yesterday. This is a hard - hitting story of a new kind of football hero, whose private life is even more provocative than his gridiron exploits.

The electrifying spark which first won attention for Tony makes his Nick Bonelli a man of real emotions, ready with his fists, his kisses and his stubborn pride. And co-star Lori Nelson, showing the warmth and exuberance which marked her in "Bend of the River" is excellently cast as the girl who wins Nick back to the pigskin and its plaudits.

Another standout in the cast is Mamie Van Doren, a blonde bombshell in her first appearance, as the off - limits lass who does her best to bring out the worst in Tony.

The football sequences are as authentic and thrilling as any fanatic could wish. Produced and directed by ex-All - Americans, Aaron Rosenberg and Jesse Hibbs respectively, the picture features a field - full of real-life All-Americans including Frank Gifford, Elmer Willhoite, Don Moomaw and Jim Sears. And Herman Hickman, ex-Yale coach and current TV favorite, fits easily into the part of a small - college grid mentor.

"The All American has much to recommend for the healthy balance it sustains between heart interest and football heroics. The strong supporting cast which features Gregg Palmer, Richard Long, Paul Cavanagh and Jimmy Hunt performs in flawless fashion.

All in all, "The All American" is fast - paced drama with an emotional wallop. Football action, through the top camera work of Director of Photography Maury Gertsman, is filled with climaxes. And Tony Curtis, making a very believable grid great, will have the gals cherring and the guys envious.

BAD ECONOMICS

MANCHESTER, Conn. — UP — After being fined $50 for driving 11 years without a license, Napoleon Desrosiers ruefully figured that if he had paid the yearly fee he'd have saved $15.

The RECORD SHOP

Wanted: Fairy Tales

NEW YORK—NEA)—What this country needs is more fairy tales. At least that's what Steve Allen needs.

Steve has been making records of hep fairy tales for a while now, the latest is "Bebop's Fables" on the Brunswick label, and he's run plumb out of fairy tales. And he doesn't even have a genie to help him out.

"I have to start with stories everyone knows," he says. "And when you study the situation, there are only about six fairy tales everyone knows."

But Allen fans, of which there are many, need not be downhearted. There will still be new Allen records forthcoming. He's making a couple of novelties—including a Christmas song called "Cool Yule"—and he thinks there's a wide-open field for his kind of material.

"I could tell hep history stories," he says, "or Shakespeare or many things. There are plenty of subjects, even without fairies."

The whole thing began in the column Steve writes for Downbeat, a magazine for musicians. He wrote a couple of his hep tales and found that disc jockeys were reading them over the air. They savored lines like grandmother's reply to Little Red Riding Hood's query about her big ears: "Yeah, aren't they the most! Let's say somebody goofed!" Then people wrote in for copies, "they probably needed a routine for a speech to the Boy Scouts," Steve says.

So one thing led to another, and once a crazy time Steve began to make records of his creations. The rest you know.

There remains only the one big problem. After Snow White, what?

The popular side: The limited edition Glenn Miller album, which RCA is bringing out, contains 70 songs played between 1939 and 1942. Among the now-famous stars who appear on some of the numbers are vocalist Kay Starr, the Modernaires, and present bandleaders Billy May, Anthony and Bill Finegan, of Sauter-Finegan... Along the same lines, Mercury's new Ralph Marterie record, "Lazy River," which was actually recorded some time ago, has a vocal by a then-unknown singer. His name is Rusty Draper.

Oil Industry Observes 6th Oil Progress Week

Conservation is the theme, and "Oil—At Your Service" is the slogan for Oil Progress Week, 1953. As in previous years, thousands of oil men throughout the nation will participate in the many events already scheduled to be held in local communities during the week of October 11-17.

They will make first hand reports to their fellow townsmen on the progress of the oil industry in keeping this nation supplied with an abundance of petroleum products. Particular emphasis will be placed on conservation—on what the industry is doing to obtain maximum benefit from its petroleum supplies, and on what steps it is taking to preserve these resources for future generations.

The reports will be made at luncheons, dinners and other special gatherings. There will be special radio and tlevision shows, exhibits, displays, open houses, parades and special editions of newspapers. Pamphlets, booklets, leaflets, lapel buttons, banners, billboards and many other special materials will help the oil men tell their story of progress and accomplishment. Service stations will be decorated with flags and bunting, and some will feature contests and displays. Even "beauty queens" will be selected and feted in some sections of the country.

Objective Stated

"The sole objective of Oil Progress Week is public understanding," said Stanton K. Smith, President of Smith Oil & Refining Co., Rockford, Ill., and 1953 National Chairman of the Oil Industry Information Committee, which sponsors the annual celebration. He continued:

"By inviting public attention to oil, by literally turning the industry inside-out, we hope to give the people a clearer picture of what free men and free competition are contributing to social and economic progress.

"The thousands of special events, which will be held during Oil Progress Week, will dramatize the industry and its operation—what it is, what it does and how it handles the growing problem of satisfying the American demand for more and more petroleum products."

This is the sixth Oil Progress observance sponsored by the Information Committee. The hometown events will be arranged and sponsored by local Oil Industry Information Committees — hometoown oil men reporting to their friends, neighbors and customers, with whom they share civic responsibility and trust.

Movie Makes Debut

One highlight of this year's observance will be the debut of the Committee's newest motion picture. This will have its premiere shortly before the beginning of Oil Progress Week, and will be seen by thousands of persons at meetings, open houses, schools, luncheons and dinners, and on television.

The new motion picture is entitled "American Frontier." It is the story of the Williston Basin, in North Dakota — what happens when discovery of oil transforms a rural area into a whirlwind of activity. It is a dramatic documentary, and if it fares as well as its predecessors, it is bound to get an enthusiastic reception. Three previous motion pictures produced by the Information Committe were cited by Freedoms Foundation, Inc., for their excellence, and for their contributions to the principles of free enterprise.

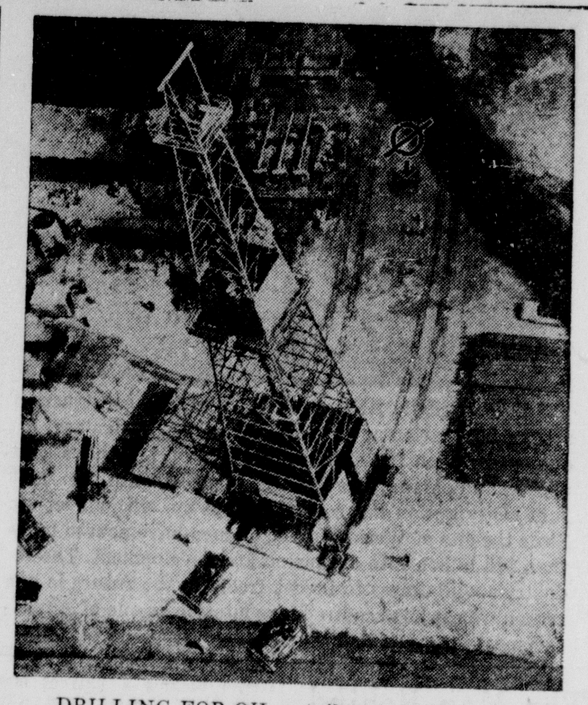
Oil Output Aided By Bouncing Balls

Oil men are ingenious individuals when it comes to bringing petroleum up from the depths of the earth. One of the latest tricks of the trade involves little rubber balls, which are shot down one tube under pressure and come bouncing up another, pushing a load of oil ahead of them.

The balls not only promote withdrawal of oil, but also keep the pumping tubes clean as a whistle, clearing out paraffin or anything else which might clog them. The rubber balls are propelled by natural gas — which is recaptured at the end of the round trip and used over and over again.

The oil industry spends more than $100 million a year on research, to create new products and improve old ones.



DRILLING FOR OIL entails great financial risks, but despite this, America's oil men never stop in their ceaseless hunt for more petroleum reserves. Eight out of every nine "wildcat" wells are dry holes—ventures in which the bulk of the oil man's investment is lost. Last year, oil men drilled more than 17,700 dry holes, yet they found more oil than the nation consumed. When they do hit a "duster", as dry holes are called, oil men "skid" the rig to a new location and try again. In this picture, they are in the process of "skidding" a giant rig to another likely spot. This persistence in the face of big risks is one important reason why America's oil men continue to find more oil than the nation uses, and why the U. S. standard of living is the highest in the world.

Oil Is Where You Find It

The greatest "treasure" hunt in history — one that overshadows the efforts of California's '49ers— is going on day and night. In America's deserts, mountains, valleys, plains—even its slimy sea bottoms—the search goes on ceaselessly at ever-increasing speed.

The "treasure" these prospectors seek is petroleum—oil to keep America's homes warm, the wheels of its vehicles and factories turning. Each year Americans demand additional vast quantities of oil, and each year an army of explorers toils to meet that demand, plus the additional quantities to build up the nation's proved reserves.

There is no magic formula for the discovery of petroleum. Like gold, it is "where you find it." Formulas that eliminate some of the guesswork have been developed, but it remains true that "only the drill can find oil." Four-fifths of all exploratory wells turn out to be dry holes. And only one well in 44 locates a profitable new field.

A whole host of scientists scour the countryside constantly for spots where oil is likely to be found. Geologists and other specialists make use of the most advanced scientific devices — such as the f ing magnetometer and the seismograph — to chart underground rock structures.

Research goes on continually to refine the existing devices and to adapt the spectograph, X-rays, radar and atomic isotopes to underground exploration. Such things will be needed in the exploration of the newest frontier — the continental shelf that extends into the seas from a few to several hundred miles from the shores of the U. S. This area of ten million square miles may contain the greatest petroleum resources yet encountered.

Tidewater areas of the United States already are being developed. Extensive surveys have been carried out by plane, by boat, and even by diving bell off the coasts of Texas, Louisiana, Florida and California. Numerous wells, some as much as 30 miles off-shore, have been drilled from huge floating platforms. And the bayous and swamps of Louisiana are being explored by crews in boats and in motorized marsh buggies having rubber tires half again as tall as a man.

So far, the U. S. has consumed almost two trillion gallons of oil. So far, explorers have located over a trillion gallons more and earmarked it for future use. Now, they are hunting for an additional two trillion gallons which lie somewhere beneath our soil.

What It Takes To Drill An Oil Well

Some of the necessary items to drill a 10,000 foot well are these:

One fully equipped rig, which weighs about 200 tons and costs at least $300,000.

Engines with sufficient horsepower to operate the rig;

A minimum of 10,000 feet of casing steel weighing 80 tons;

Twenty five to 100 drilling bits and five reamers for enlarging the hole;

Five hundred to 1,000 tons of drilling mud additives;

Two thousand to 5,000 sacks of cement;

Forty eight barrels of water;

Three thousand barrels of fuel oil;

A staff of 125 skilled workers. These will include geologists, exploration crews, drilling crew, engineers, cementers, mud specialists and other technicians.

Want to drill a well, now?

Fuel oil is consumed in most home oil burners without ever having been seen or touched by human beings on its long trip from the depths of the earth to the user's storage tank.

Conservation Practices Save Millions Of Barrels Of Oil; Builds Security

Soaring public demand, plus intense competition among producers, prompted oil men to seek ways and means to get the most oil possible out of every field and every well. Geologists, physicists, chemists and engineers went to work studying underground rock structures and pressure conditions.

Progressive research determined the most efficient rates of flow for various fields throughout the country. Other studies decided that wells should be scientifically spaced.

First Conservation Step

As early as 1899, the State of Texas took the first conservation step by prohibiting the escape of natural gas into the air, and its burning in flares. By 1924, conservation practices had been adopted in many states. Moreover, in 1935, the Interstate Oil Compact Commission was formed to coordinate and cooperate in advancing conservation practices in most producing states.

One of the best conservation methods was hit upon by accident in Pennsylvania. It was discovered that a number of supposedly worn-out wells in that state had begun to produce large quantities of oil once more. Investigation disclosed that water was trickling into oil-bearing formations and pushing oil into the old holes.

This led to intentional flooding by pumping water back into old fields. Results were amazing. In many cases the resultant "second crop" of petroleum exceeded the first harvest. The Bradford, Pa., field, for example, supplied a quarter of a billion barrels of crude prior to 1921. Since then, with water - flooding, it has delivered an equal amount. Bradford is expected to produce another 70,000,000 to 100,000,000 barrels under present methods of recovery.

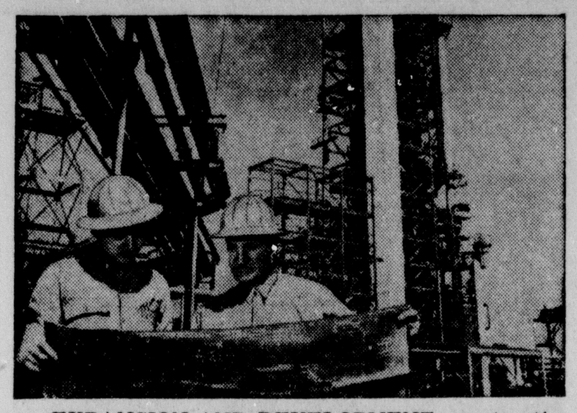
From flooding in so - called water - drive fields, it was only a short step to re-pressurizing, with natural gas, the fields which receive their reservoir energy from that source. Both methods proved so successful that many companies took still another step. Nowadays, before pressure in new fields starts to drop, they install cutoffs which trap the water or gas as they come to the surface and force them back into the oil - bearing formation.

Wells Still Produce

Thanks in part to such recovery measures, more than half of the oil wells drilled in this country since 1859 are still producing.

Four billion barrels of oil may be obtained from known fields by conventional secondary recovery methods, such as water-flooding. In addition, an estimated 107 billion barrels are susceptible to the application of improved secondary recovery methods.

The industry spends one hundred million dollars a year in research designed to develop new techniques and new processes and to improve old ones. The success it is achieveing is substantial assurance that America will have enough oil to meet all its needs within the foreseeable future.



EXPANSION AND DEVELOPMENT, construction and modernization never stop in America's petroleum industry. By such far-sighted planning, oil men have kept pace with demand through the years, despite the fact that consumption has soared up and up, without let-up. Since the end of World War II, oil men have poured more than $19 billion into expansion and development. The industry's willingness to invest freely in the future is one reason why it has acquired a reputation as one of America's most progressive businesses.

The Man Behind The Pump Always At Your Service

When the first service station appeared at the turn of the century, a new institution was ushered onto the American scene. The service station became a kind of blacksmith shop, general store, watering trough and wayside inn rolled into one. As it developed and more stations sprang up, a new unique personality was evolved — the service station operator.

The man behind the gasoline pump is for the most part an independent small businessman (19 out of every 20 stations are owned or leased by individuals). He contracts for supplies from one or more oil companies. He pays his own costs, hires his own employes and sets his own prices to meet competition. He makes a reasonable profit by working hard long hours in all kinds of weather.

To keep pace with his rivals, he sells the best products available and sets high standards of personal service from free air to clean rest rooms.

What makes this competitive service possible? A far-flung complicated network of oil companies, terminals and wholesalers whose efficiency, high standards of service and intensely competitive methods are in the best tradition of American business.

The next time you are at your favorite service station, bear in mind the words of the distinguished atomic scientist, Dr. Robert Millikan. He said, "Men who operate service stations have done more to teach the American people courtesy than all the professors in the colleges."

Man Wins Dreamed-Of Wings -With Aid Of Petroleum

We might be celebrating aviation's 450th birthday this year—instead of its 50th— if Leonardo Da Vinci had possessed a gasoline engine. Just about the time Columbus was discovering America, Da Vinci, an equally famous Italian, was designing airplanes and even helicopters that could have flown if motive power and liquid fuels had been available.

Man could not win his wings until those fuels, together with good lubricants, were developed around the turn of this century to meet the needs of the infant automobile industry.

Wilbur and Orville Wright, two young mechanics of Dayton, Ohio, realized that the age of flight was at hand. After studying Da Vinci's drawings, they designed and built a rickety biplane in their bicycle shop. After studying the equally rickety automobiles that occasionally stopped at their shop for repairs, they designed and built a lightweight 4-cylinder, 12 - horsepower motor.

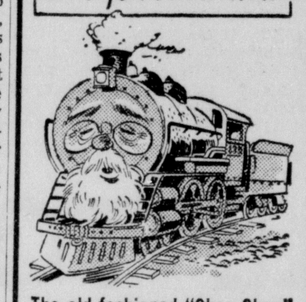
They took the contraption to Kill Devil Hill at Kitty Hawk, N. C., for testing. They filled its tank with the uncertain mixture that passed for gasoline in those days. On December 1, 1903, they ushered in the Air Age.

From that brave beginning, American aviation has grown until, in 1952, the nation's scheduled airlines carried approximately 25 million passengers a distance of 12½ billion passenger miles. At the same time Uncle Sam's Air Force in Korea was proving itself the world's best.

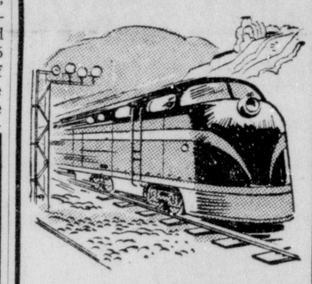
Constant improvement in engines planes, ariports, flight instruments, fuels and lubricants all have played their parts in this amazing growth.

Two gallons of modern gasoline are equivalent in power and energy to three gallons of 1925 vintage.

Did you know that...



The old-fashioned "Choo-Choo" is on the way out...



All but 40 of the 1,857 locomotives ordered by U.S. railroads in 1952 were DIESELS!

● And Diesel-powered railroads mean quicker, more comfortable transportation for you — at low cost.

That's just one reason why producers, refiners, researchers, transporters, jobbers, distributors and dealers—in fact, all of us in the oil business — take pride in the progress of our industry and in the part we play to make this progress possible.

Gasoline for Sunday driving... or Natural Gas to cook next Sunday's roast?

Most people think only of gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils when the petroleum industry is mentioned. The fact is, practically all oil producers are also natural gas producers. So today the driller of a wildcat, or exploratory well, calls his venture successful if the well discovers either oil or gas.

If it is an oil well, then he has helped to supply the country's increasing needs for oil and oil products; if it is a gas well, he has discovered additional supplies of an efficient, economical fuel for household and industrial use.

The petroleum industry's development and conservation of the country's natural gas resources is a practical demonstration of the progress to which Oil Progress Week invites attention.

Beginning with the location of the well, advanced geological and geophysical studies of underground formations aid in the selection of likely oil or gas producing areas, but still the odds against a wildcat well producing either gas or oil are eight to one.

If a natural gas field is discovered, reservoir engineers immediately begin their studies to determine the best producing methods to conserve the underground energy and to obtain the maximum production for the longest possible time.

If the gas that is discovered is "wet," it is processed in gasoline plants which remove the liquid parts and send them to refineries for further processing into motor fuels and aviation gasolines, or to petrochemical plants to be converted into a long list of useful chemical products, among which are the plastics and synthetic fabrics with which you are so familiar. "Dry" gas, the residue from gasoline plants, and sometimes produced direct from the gas field, is the natural gas that burns in literally millions of homes throughout America and under the boilers of thousands of American industries.

So, whether a wildcat well discovers oil for gasoline or natural gas for the kitchen stove, it adds to the available energy resources of the most highly mechanized nation on earth; it supplies products essential for today's and tomorrow's high living standards; it gives additional strength to measures for National defense.

Huber Heads Oil Marketers Association

One of the most important cogs in the vast oil industry machine is the man who sees to it that filling stations have the necessary gasoline and oil to supply the demands of the millions of automobiles Americans now drive.

He is the man who operates the gasoline bulk plant, who keeps the wheels turning and the gasoline flowing from the big, long transport trucks to the filling station's underground storage tanks.

Hardly known to the average motorist, he is the man who works nearly every holiday to see that the supply of gasoline flows from the refinery to the motorists' gasoline tanks.

He has many names, like bulk plant operator, oil marketer, oil jobber, distributor, commission agent, or simple, "peddler."

In Louisiana these men are organized into the Louisiana Oil Marketers Association, which in a little more than two years has grown from just an idea to an organization which now has more than 200 members. It draws its membership from the entire state and from the many different brands of gasoline on the market today.

The head of the Louisiana Oil Marketers Association is Harry Huber of Lake Charles, who was elected president at the recent New Orleans convention of the association. Huber succeeded C. D. Brown of Shreveport, who was LOMA's first president and served in that capacity for two terms.

The objectives of LOMA are many and varied, but all are directed toward the one end of improving conditions in the marketing phase of the oil industry so that both the consumer and the marketer will benefit through a concerted, united effort.

LOMA took the lead in the reduction of the state gasoline tax from nine cents to seven cents last year, saving the motorists of the state millions of dollars, and it is continually on the lookout for the interest of the ultimate gasoline user.

It is now advocating repeal of the state lubricating oil tax to bring Louisiana in line with the overwhelming majority of the other states. Louisiana is one of two state in the nation which imposes a tax on lubricating oil and collects eight cents per gallon. The only other state, Alabama, collects only two cents per gallon.

LOMA believes the tax encourages importation from bordering states and discourages industry from locating in Louisiana.

The organization is also advocating an improved tax refund system for farmers and non - highway users of gasoline. Under the present set - up, there is an excessive and useless waste of tax money, LOMA believes.

This is brought about because non - highway users can receive refunds without having paid either the state tax or for the products purchased. LOMA urges that an affadavit be required showing that the state tax actually had been paid before a refund could be granted.

Many of the benefits accruing to the motorist are the result of the fierce competition in the oil marketing business. The marketers in the organization represent many different companies and since their livelihood depends on consumer acceptance of their products, they bend every effort to the end that the motorist will use their products.

This results in better products and improved service for Louisiana motorists.

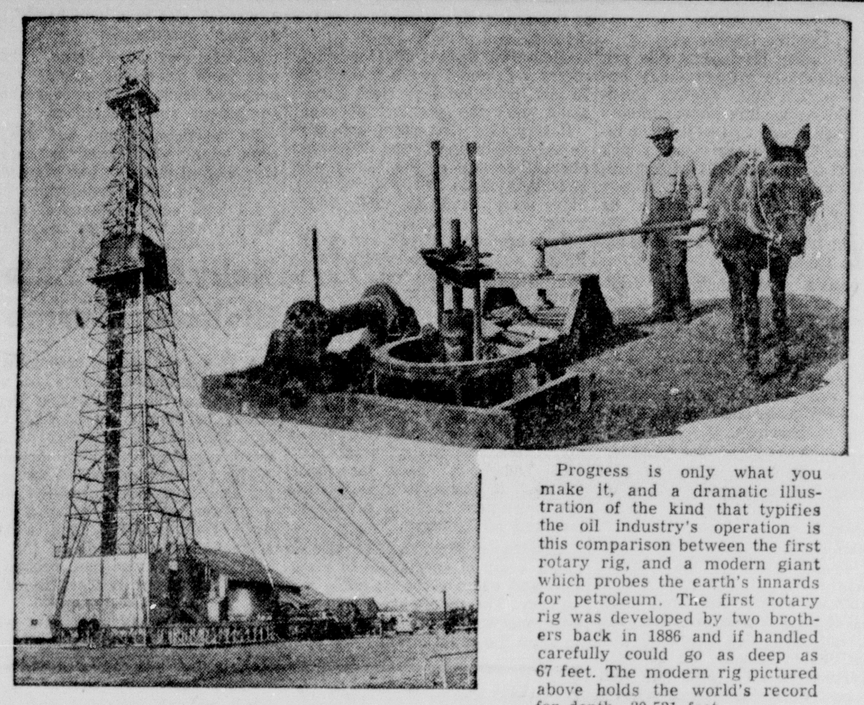
Directors are Gus Bouzon, Empire, first congressional district; Alvin B. Crais, LaPlace, second congressional district; Ted Allis, Abbeville, third congressional district; Houston H. Holt, Bossier City, fourth congressional district; J. M. Menefee, Monroe, fifth congressional district; Lawson L. Lard, Denham Springs, sixth congressional district; James P. Williams, Lake Charles, seventh congressional district, Miss Mary Ball, Alexandria, eighth congressional district, and C. D. Brown, Shreveport, director-at-large.



Progress is only what you make it, and a dramatic illustration of the kind that typifies the oil industry's operation is this comparison between the first rotary rig, and a modern giant which probes the earth's innards for petroleum. The first rotary rig was developed by two brothers back in 1886 and if handled carefully could go as deep as 67 feet. The modern rig pictured above holds the world's record for depth—20,521 feet.

Fuel Dealer 'Mind Reads' Your Oil Tank From Afar

It sounds like black magic. A fuel oil dealer can sit in his office perhaps miles from your home, and tell you within a few gallons how much fuel is in your tank. Known in the industry as the "automatic delivery system," it's generally accurate within two percent. Your dealer knows the capacity of your tank, how much it contained at the last refill, and has an idea about the efficiency of your oil burner.

A gadget called a Degree Day Chart enables him to measure the highs and lows of the temperature. With some simple arithmetic he can come within a couple of gallons of the amount in the tank.

As a rule the thousands of fuel oil dealers in this country are independent, local business men. They are a segment of the complex network which keeps modern America supplied with more than 2½ billion barrels of petroleum a year.

A record - breaking drilling program seems to be in prospect for 1953. During the first six months of this year, oil men completed nearly 23,200 wells. Plans for the remaining six months call for the drilling of close to 24,700 wells. If the program is carried out faithfully, 1953 will see a total in excess of 47,000 wells — an all - time high. Last year's total was 45,895 wells.

During the first six months of 1953, oil men drilled 94.7 million feet of hole. They completed 23,181 wells, according to one estimate. The breakdown follows: oil wells, 11,978; gas wells, 1,823; service wells, 610; dry holes, 8,772. The high ratio of dry holes is one reason why the constant serach for oil is a hazardous business financially.

Barges account for the transportation of about one - fifty of all petroleum in this country. The remainder goes by pipe line, ocean-going tankers, over - the - road trucks and truck transports, and railroad tank cars.

The American people consume 21 times more petroleum than all the rest of the free world combined, even though this nation's population is only eight per cent of the free world total.

Oil Research Develops New, Better Products

In less than a century, the U. S. oil industry has developed into one of the great scientific industries of modern times. Millions of dollars have been invested in research plants that are among the most up-to-date and extensive in the world.

The industry got started in 159 with one major product — kerosine. Today, thanks to research, it markets thousands of petroleum products and the end is not in sight. Right down the line scientific collaboration is putting petroleum to work for the people in new and dramatic ways, day in and day out.

Typical examples of research are better gasolines and lubricating oils. These and many other petroleum products now in use were born in the laboratories of years past.

The improvement of gasoline is an outstanding example of progress and conservation through research. If the industry had to depend on processes of 40 years ago it couldn't begin to make enough gasoline to run the 55 million motor vehicles now in use. Moreover, if today's motorist had to depend on the gasoline of those early years, his car couldn't operate effectively.

The power of automobile engines has almost doubled in the past three decades while the mileage per gallon of gasoline consumed has been increased substantially.

Quality Important

High quality lubricating oils are as important to present - day automobiles as high quality gasolines. Corresponding improvements have been made in the field of lubricants. Today's car would knock badly if it were fueled with gasoline of say, 20 years ago, and it certainly would spend much of its time in repair shops if it were lubricated with the oils and greases of that time.

Scientists are studying "additives," or chemical agents, which maintain the fluidity of lubricating oils at low temperatures and their body at high temperatures, to fit them for service under the extreme pressures of various types of modern gears and to reduce corrosion of bearings.

One such additive, for instance, prevents oil from jelling in cold weather, while another helps oil carry heavy loads imposed by increasingly powerful engines.

Petroleum research made important contributions to the winning of World War II. Not only did oil companies supply unlimited quantities of high octane aviation gasoline, but they also produced high quantities of toluene, an essential ingredient of TNT. And that toluene cost only one-fifth of what it would have cost to make it from coal.

Synthetic rubber, and the processes for making it, were other important factors in winning the war — developments, too, made posible by petroleum research.

15,000 Researchers

Today, in oil company laboratories all over the country, research is pushing the industry's frontiers forward. New petroleum by-products are being used to produce chemicals, drugs, plastics, resins and varnishes, paints and wrapping materials, better detergents, fungicides and insecticides.

There are more than 15,000 people engaged in petroleum research today. Thirty years ago there were fewer than 200. American oil companies now spend more than $100 million a year on research to develop more and better products for the public at reasonable prices.

Thus research is not only giving the American people a higher standard of living convenience, but also is accomplishing one of the prerequisites of sound conservation of natural resources — getting the most out of everything that is used, and using it wisely.

Modern Rotary Rig Giant Model

The rotary drilling rig used by modern oil men in their never-ending hunt for more petroleum reserves is a far cry from the rickety, mule - powered apparatus that was its forebear more than three score years ago.

A modern rig will chew 15,000-foot holes in the earth without difficulty. They'll go beyond that too; one already has penetrated 20,251 feet. That's the world's deepest well — and it turned out to be one of the frustrating casualties of the industry, a dry hole.

Compared with that, the early rotary rigs could reach a depth of 70 feet, provided they were nursed along with the greatest of care!

Rotary rigs first came into universal recognition in the Southwest about the time of the Lucas well at Spindletop, in 1901. Prior to that, they were used to drill water wells.

Two brothers, M. C. and C. E. Baker, generally are credited with developing the first rotary rig in South Dakota in 1886.

Their rig would cost less than $1,000 now — even with inflated prices. Modern rotary rigs cost oil men anywhere up to $1,000,000. Half-million dollars is not an unusual price.

The Baker brothers rig used a single, plodding mule for its "power." Today, it would take 1,200 "mules" or horsepower to operate the instrument that has revolutionized the oil industry.

Modern rotary rigs require a small army of specialists to maintain and operate the valuable machinery. The old Baker rig needed only one man, and a stout switch to keep the mule circling the drill. A wrench also was kept handy for "major" overhauls.

Modern rigs have come a long way in 67 years, as industry, science and technology improved both equipment and techniques.

By the development and use of such giant equipment as rotary rigs, the oil industry has been able to keep the American people supplied with an abundance of petroleum products through the years.

Until 25 years ago, few wells exceeded 3,000 feet in depth.

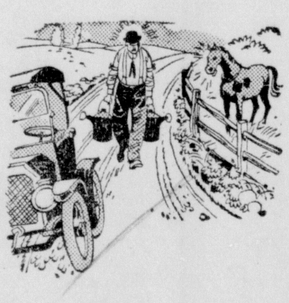
Kelly Man's Auto Stolen In Monroe

A 1946 Ford sedan, belonging to a J. A. Claunch of Kelly, La., was stolen from the 100 block of Depot street, between 5 and 11 p.m. Friday, the Monroe detective department reported Saturday morning.

The car was described as bearing Louisiana license but the numerals were unknown. It has a damaged radiator grill, and a spot light on the left side of the vehicle. A key was not needed to start the motor officers reported.

Before a cricket fight in China, the contestants are weighed in by their handlers and classified as heavy, middle or lightweights.

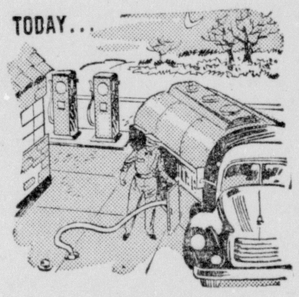
DID YOU KNOW THAT---



Those lonely hikes for gasoline have gone with the derby hat

...you find gasoline and oil where you want it —when you want it

TODAY...



● That's because America's oil jobbers and distributors—all 15,000 of them — are doing a round-the-clock job today, delivering the products of petroleum. They see that high quality oil products are on tap for you—where and when they're needed.

That's just one reason why producers, refiners, researchers, transporters, jobbers, distributors and dealers—in fact, all of us in the oil business—take pride in the progress of our industry and in the part we play to make this progress possible.

Exploring For Oil Is Our Business!

The search for oil is one of the worlds riskiest businesses. Even with the most modern scientific equipment and know-how, the odds against finding oil are enormous.

We are proud to have a part in this fascinating industry and accept these risks as part of the game.

We are happy to be numbered among those thousands who have a part in America's progressive, competitive oil industry—an industry devoted to your service.

Acadian Petroleum Corporation

These Men Help You In Our Pay Off In Our Search For Oil...

● The search for oil and gas is a risky business. There are plenty of costly dry holes. But every time we find new oil and gas it means more gasoline for your car, more power for farm and ranch, and more of all the hundreds of oil products which add to your comfort and convenience today and in the future.

Southwest Gas Producing Co., Inc.

AND THAT'S ONLY THE BEGINNING!

A half century ago, on December 17, 1903, Orville Wright made the first powered heavier-than-air flight. For twelve history-making seconds he flew over Kitty Hawk in a biplane fueled by the Esso Standard Oil Company.

Since that eventful day, and on into today's new era of screaming jets and zooming rockets, Esso Standard and the rest of the Petroleum Industry have moved forward hand in hand with aviation progress.

That's just one of the reasons why this week is being celebrated throughout the nation as OIL PROGRESS WEEK.

For while ever-improving fuels and lubricants have played a vital part in this astonishingly swift conquest of the skies, so also have improved petroleum products helped bring about the infinitely finer performance of your new automobile, the cleaner, cheaper and warmer heat that you enjoy in your home, and the smoother-flowing, well-lubricated productivity of the factories that produce the things you use. And now, through progress in Petrochemicals, you are entering a new world of miracle plastics and wonder fibres — more new things to serve your needs better and cheaper than ever before.

In short, there's hardly anything that you use or wear that hasn't somehow been made a little better through Petroleum Industry Progress.

So it's no wonder that OIL PROGRESS WEEK is celebrated by the Petroleum Industry and Esso employees and dealers everywhere. It honors the kind of progress that today, for example, brings you automobile gasoline that does 50% more work per gallon than 1925 gasolines did! You'll agree there's really something to celebrate!

We are local businessmen, proud to know our neighbors and the kinds of oil products and services they need. That's our part in the progressive oil industry that brings better living to this community. This is our pledge that we will continue to serve you and our community well.

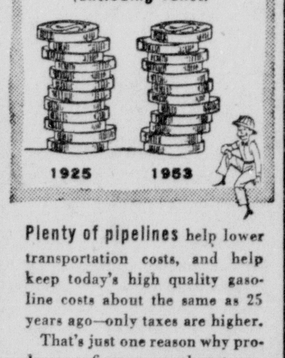
GASOLINE PRICES (Excluding Taxes)



Plenty of pipelines help lower transportation costs, and help keep today's high quality gasoline costs about the same as 25 years ago—only taxes are higher.

That's just one reason why producers, refiners, researchers, transporters, jobbers, distributors and dealers—in fact, all of us in the oil business—take pride in the progress of our industry and in the part we play to make this progress possible.

MAPS, DIRECTIONS, tourist information, clean windshields, distilled water for batteries, compressed air for tires are only a few of the many "specials" which U. S. service stations provide free for millions of motorists every day. There are almost 200,000 service stations in this country, the vast majority of which are independently owned or operated by local oil men. Stiff competition among these stations is one reason why the quantity and quality of petroleum products is increasing constantly.

58 Million To Get Tax Relief On January 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite continued high defense spending and acute budget problems, the government plans to give about 58 million individual income taxpayers a tax cut starting Jan. 1.

The reduction, the first since 1948, will be about 10 per cent for the great bulk of taxpayers. But the percentage drops sharply in the higher income brackets—down to only one per cent for a single man making one million dollars a year.

The Eisenhower administration is pledged to let the reduction take effect, barring an unexpected and extreme emergency. Due to expire on the same date is the excess profits tax on businesses.

The income tax change will cost the Treasury about three billion dollars a year in revenue, at a time when high spending throws a shadow over efforts to balance the budget.

But 1954 is an election year, and few if any voices have been raised against the reduction. If more revenue is needed, it will be sought elsewhere.

The prospective cut follows two increases voted after the Korean War started. It merely cancels the second increase, in 1951. So you'll still be paying more than you did, say, in 1949.

Republicans and Democrats already are squabbling over who should get credit for the cut. Democrats say it's their feat, because they were the majority party when Congress wrote the Jan. 1 expiration date into that 1951 law. But Republicans say no tax cuts would be possible now if they hadn't made big reductions in federal appropriations.

At any rate, revenue officials caution against counting your chickens before they hatch. They point out the reduction starts on January 1. But you don't file returns on 1954 income until 1955. So when you fill out those returns next March, you'll still be dealing with 1953 income—at the higher rate.

The big immediate effect will be on some 46 million workers whose income taxes are deducted from paychecks. After Jan. 1, the payroll withholding rate will be reduced from 20 per cent to 18 per cent of your income, after allowances for yourself and each dependent.

For a single person with no dependents and making less than $2,000, the percentage reduction under this year's tax bill will be 9.9 per cent. It climbs gradually to 10.7 per cent at $10,000 income and then drops to 7.3 per cent at $50,000 income, 1.9 per cent at $300,000.

For a married couple with two children, the reduction starts at 9.9 per cent in low income levels and rises to 10.7 per cent at $20,-000, then drops to 7.4 per cent at $100,000, 3 per cent at $300,000, and 1.6 per cent at one million dollars.

Dollarwise, for a worker with no dependents, the annual reduction amounts to $8.80 at $1,000 income, $54.40 at $3,000, $108 at $5,000, $212 at $8,000, $292 at $10,000, $82 at $2,000, $2,890 at $100,000, and $10,-000 at one million dollars.

For a married couple with two dependents, the dollar reductions would be $13.20 at $3,000 income, $57.20 at $5,000, $129.60 at $8,000, $181.60 at $10,000, $536 at $20,000 $4,120 at $100,000 and $13,768 at one million dollars.

The minimum rate on taxable income drops from 22.2 per cent to 20 per cent. The maximum rate on income above $300,000 drops from 92 to 91 per cent. And the maximum rate for any one taxpayer's overall income drops from 88 to 87 per cent.

GR-R-REAT WAY TO START THE DAY

GR-R-REAT for breakfast
GR-R-REAT for snacks

is known as Newt the Gnu.
He's almost as unusual
as what Kellogg's has for you!

They're bigger flakes!
They're crisper flakes!
They're Kellogg's Sugar Frosted Flakes!

Now Newt is different from most gnus because he blows his horn
these frosted flakes of corn.

This golden, tempting breakfast treat is on your grocer's shelf
So why not trot to the nearest spot and buy some for yourself?
